WADE HAMPTON.

of law and order; of smiling peace throughout all the limits of the South; and concluded with a glowing and eloquent tribute to his old comrades-in-arms, and adjured them to dedicate themselves to the service of their various States and of their whole country.

With characteristic generosity Gen. Hampton inculcates what time will prove to be the true policy of the Southern people towards the negro. Frankly avowing his recognition of the altered attitude and relations of that race to the white population, he does not indulge in idle repinings over the past, or in passionate declamation against what has been done in spite of his protest and opposition; but urges the adoption of a policy which will make the negro a source of power, and a lever of irresistible strength in the political struggles of the future.

Says Gen. Hampton: "The negro is undoubtedly better fitted from his long training, his physical constitution and his adaptability to all the diversities of our climate, to make a more efficient laborer than any other. Especially is this true where the labor is to be performed in the more malarial portions of our country. Our object, then, should be to develop to the utmost his capacity as a laborer. To do this time is requisite, and we shall have to exercise great forbearance, constant prudence and steady kindness. We must make him feel that his interests are indissolubly bound up with ours; that high prices for our products insure high wages for him; that we have no animosity towards him; but, on the contrary, that we cherish the kind feelings engendered by early associations and old memories. Let us be scrupulously just in our dealings with him; let us assist him in his aspirations for knowledge and aid him in his acquisition. Try to elevate him in the scale of true manhood, civilization and christianity, so that he may be better fitted for the grave duties and high responsibilities forced upon him by his new position."

The Northern people will do well to heed the utterances of the class of men whom Hampton represents. That class is utterly distinct from the class of effete politicians, who having no suggestions of their own to offer, by which the South can obtain relief from her present embarrassments, yet rail with impotent rage at men of bolder and more honest purpose, who seek to guide their fellow-citizens to a policy in harmony with the advancing spirit of the age. In the South the old politicians who flourished in antebellum days are irredeemably dead. A few years more will witness the interment of the last one of them in the "tomb of the Capulets." A few have surrendered the right to a decent burial and charitable remembrance, by desertion to the standards of the enemies of their people, and yet a few others are momentarily galvanized into a short-lived eccentric vitality which feeds upon the passion engendered of civil strife. Both classes will soon be pushed aside by the advancing tide of new ideas and fresh impulses, which animate the young men of the South soon to be entrusted with the direction of her destiny.

Meanwhile let Hampton and men of his views come to the front and point the way to duty and interest. The South will follow the standard of Hampton, as did the chivalric hosts of old the white plume of Harry of Navarre, assured that where he leads lies the path of honor, fortune and renown.

THE TUMBLE OF PRICES. The Northern papers argue that the end of high prices is approaching. This year the grain and other produce of the West have been sold for unsatisfactory prices, and it is stated that "the farmer is now selling his wheat in currency for a lower price than he got in gold before the war, while he has bought his land, hired his labor and purchased his supplies on an inflated greenback basis."

The South, however, holds its own. Cotton and sugar, for many years at least, must command high prices, and while wages may decline in the North and West, they should steadily rise in the cotton growing States. The time is approaching when every laborer, white or colored, will be able to live comfortably, educate his children and lay by something against hard times. And it, by combination, the working classes can hasten the coming of the happy day by a single hour, so much the better for all of us!

The Snow-Shed Line. Mr. C. O. Falton, of the Baltimore American, in a letter from California to his paper, gives the following interesting information concerning the snow-shed on the Central Pacific Railroad. Fifty-five miles of snow-shed, completed with forty-five of bridges and tunnels, make up a total of one hundred consecutive miles of covered railroad. He says: "About ten miles from the summit the track is cut out of the solid rock high up on the mountain sides, and winds around and up the sides of the various peaks, sometimes looking like as if it were a circling road along a vast chasm, and the Humboldt river flowing along a thousand feet beneath. Here it becomes necessary to protect the track from the snow-drifts, and the immense timber-sheds commence. The reader can form no idea of the immensity of these structures or the solidity and durability that has been observed in their construction. They are in one almost unbroken stretch of fifty-five miles, and are capable of sustaining any amount of snow that may be drifted into them, even if it should be forty-five feet, as reported by some of the early pioneers. They extend over the whole length of the deep-snow line on the dividing ridge. By this means the track will be as clear of snow in the mountains as in the valleys. They are so constructed that the deep avalanches of snow that sweep down the mountains in the spring will glide over their roofs and plunge into the deep chasms below. They have been erected with a full knowledge of the character of the drifts, and were tested last winter with entire success.

"The tunnels and bridges along this portion of the road are very numerous, and form an unbroken connection with the snow-sheds. The road-bed is blasted out of the mountain side for a hundred miles or more, and all pass over this combined road, uniting the Atlantic with the Pacific, must accord the meed of praise to California energy. The Union Pacific, crossing deserts and prairie lands, had a comparatively easy portion of the great work to accomplish, but here every foot of road had to be made by either drilling or blasting. They are no pleasure lands to cross except the Nevada Desert, and even it is bristling with upheaved rocks, or mounds of alkali mixed with a lava formation."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

WE LIVE IN THREE CLIMATES. IN this country we have at different seasons of the year, the temperature of three climates. One Springs and Autumn have a wholeness and mildness that belong only to the Temperate Zone; our Mid-summer is torrid, and our Mid-winter arctic in their frigidity. These changes, involving a variation of from ninety to one hundred degrees of Fahrenheit during the year, are over the whole conducive to health and long life, but they tend to entail upon us some distressing complaints which can only be escaped by the exercise of due care and the use of a proper antidote when the system is pre-disposed to contract them. The most annoying of these disorders is dyspepsia, once supposed to be incurable, but which, since the introduction of HOSKETT'S STOMACH BITTERS, now about twenty years ago, has proved to be a perfectly manageable disease.

In the Spring and Fall, but more especially in the Fall, the symptoms of dyspepsia are generally aggravated. The profuse expenditure of the animal fluids under the burning sun of Summer, is apt to leave the stomach weak and indolent and incompetent to the task of perfect digestion. It requires a tonic which will rouse it from its lethargy and brace and invigorate without irritating or inflaming it. This tonic has been provided in the wonderful vegetable preparation which has replaced in a great measure, all the old palliatives formerly prescribed by physicians, under the false idea that the disorder could not be radically cured. The success of HOSKETT'S BITTERS in all the varieties of dyspepsia, acute or chronic, has effectually exploded this fallacy, and it is now recommended as a specific for indigestion by some of the most eminent members of the medical profession. nov 28-1w

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM. THE REMEDY FOR CURING CONSUMPTION, Croup, Colds, Asthma, Croup, Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Palms and Oppressions of the Chest, Lungs, Difficult Breathing, and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs. Its action is expectorant, alternate, and sedative, diaphoretic, and diuretic, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It exerts its action upon the mucous membrane, throws off the phlegm or mucus; changes the Secretions and Purifies the Blood, heats the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the nature of this satisfactory effect, that it is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours' time, if not of two long standing. It is warranted to give entire satisfaction, even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. It is warranted not to produce any of those deleterious effects (as opium does) or affect the head, as it contains no opium in any form. It is warranted to be PERFECTLY HARMLESS

to the most delicate child though it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. There is no really necessary for so many deaths by consumption, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it, if only taken in time.

We copy the following interesting letter from Dr. Harris to the Middlebury, Vt., Register: "I have used your Lung Balsam, and I can truly say that it is a most valuable medicine. I see by the Western papers that the physicians of Cincinnati - where the medicine is manufactured - are introducing it into their practice, and I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the throat, Bronchial tubes and the lungs."
