Ship Leaves.

Ship Congo, of Florida, is in Charleston on Saturday.

Dr. Libby reported dead by the Charleston News, says it is now in Charleston.

The excitement of the German citizens of Charleston on Saturday, over the war news, was intense.

The Bonnetville Journal records the death of Mr. Preston G. Drake, a young but promising student of Marlboro.

A colored woman gave birth to a baby on the sidewalk near Court House Square, in Bennettsville, on Tuesday last.

The house of Mr. James S. Guignard, in Columbia, was burned on Saturday morning. It is said to have been the largest frame house in Columbia.

The Lancaster Herald says: "Until within a few days past we have had no rain since the first of August."

The Columbia Guardian says that on Saturday last the danger at the bridge was so great that the bridge was about to give way.

Views of the American Press. The surrender of Napoleon to King William creates great sensation throughout the United States.

The capture of Napoleon alone might have been a relief to France, where he had become merely a name for bolstered incompetency.

Without prejudice to the Regency is the best policy for Napoleon's successor. But where will the regency stand and what will become of it when the people of Paris learn how they have been deceived?

What will follow the empire? Who will succeed Napoleon? These are the exciting questions of the day.

The ill-starred Emperor may find his best friend in the old German monarch. Better to be his prisoner than the victim of the infuriated Parisians.

The following is the official Congressional vote for this District:

Alamance	795	1097
Guilford	1274	1728

Leach's majority, 1289

From the Newark (N. J.) Advertiser.

The surrender of the French at Sedan involves as a necessary sequence the surrender of Bazaine at Metz, and so the heavy responsibility of organizing a government.
