Judge Hammond, the newly elected Mayor of Atlanta, is evidently a firm believer In the practice of moral sussion by the police. The following extract is taken from a passage inhis inaugural address on the datles of the po-

"If a man is seen to stagger on the street, instead of arresting him and degrading him by carrying him to the callaboose, approach him kindly and influence him, if possible, to go to his residence or hotel, and in all such cases act in good faith the part of a brother, and so conduct yourself toward those who fall into your hands, either from felly or crime, that citizens and strangers will feel that their highest protection is the presence of policemen."

At a meeting of the Howard Relief Steam Fire Engine Company, held on Monday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year :

Alleged Election Fraud.

A colored man by the name of Duncan Parker was arrested yesterday on an affidavit sworn out by Constable Jos. C. Hill, colored, on the strength of a statement made by Wm. H. Howe, solved, that he voted twice in the and in the Fifth Ward.

The case was carried before Justice W. H. Merrick, colored, and excited much interest, especially among the culored people, who flocked in large numbers to hear the investigation. The evidence, so far as we could learn, was not of a character to sustain the charge that he actually voted in any but the Fifth Ward, where he resided, and it seemed to be apparent to all right-minded men that the charge was trumped up merely as a means of revenge upon Parker because he voted the Conservative ticket. After a lengthy investigation he was finally required to give security to the sum of $500 for his appearance at the next term of the Superior Court. Col. Roger Moore, who was present throughout the examination, signed his bond and he was allowed to depart.

It was therefore with regret that we heard, yesterday, from a strictly reliable source, that a large number of them stopped in front of the residence of Major Engelhard of the Journal, on Monday night, while rejoicing over the success of their candidates, while that gentleman was absent from his house, and indulged in yells, insulting epithets, threats, &c., and terribly fright-ening his unprotected family. We learn that the language used by them towards Mai. E. whom they supposed to be at home, was of the most abusive and incendiary character and their conduct ontrageous in the extreme .-Maj. E. was at his office at the time, and his wife, being alone with her children, was naturally very much frightened for her own safety as well that of her busband, who she feared might be attacked on his . way home. After awhile, however, the crowd dispersed. Where the police were while these disorderly proceedings were in progress is a matter of conjecture. At all avents no effort was made by them to preserve the violated peace of the community, which naturally feels itself agriced at this outrage. It is the first time we have had to record such disgraceful conduct on the part of any considerable portion of our colored people-for a long time, at least-and we hope it will be the last.
