Robbery at Lillington.

The monotony of the usually quiet but en terprising little city of Littlington was again disturbed, on Monday morning, by the discov ery that another first-class robbery had been committed within its limits. The boldness and audicity of the all ir was only equalled by the promptitude with which the robber was brought to grief. The theft took place in the store of Mr. Patterson, which at the time was in charge of Mr. Larkins, On Sanday night, when in the act of retiring, the latter gentle man placed his pocket book, containing $65, under the head of his bed. His room adjoined the store and the next merning be got up and went to wait on his customers, leaving the pocket book under his pillow. Several persons soon congregated around the stove, when a colored boy, by the name of Bradley Herring, seized a favorable opportunity, glided into the room, abstracted the pocket book from its place of concealment and made off with it without attracting the observation of any one in the store. Shortly after, Mr. Larkins went to look for his pocket book and it was gone. Suspicion immediately centered upon the missing boy and an officer was forthwith put upon his track. He was arrested in about half an hour after he had committed the theft and the money found on his person. He was taken before Justice W. J. Bivens, and Monday night he was brought to this city and lodged in fall to await his trial before the next term of the Superior Court tes need and .

We learn that the Texas fever has broken out with cousiderable severity in certain focalities in this county, many of the young men of intelligence and enterprise having recently emigrated to that far off region with the hope of bettering their condition, and others still gret to hear this. At no other time within the history of our State has it been of such you in all that enriches and ennobles a great commonwealth that her sons should stand by her Especially is this the case in our own immediate section. Capital, which is capable of dosources and bringing to the surface the accu-mulated waith which surrounds us on every band, is tandered powerless without, the active aid and assistance of the industrious mechanic and arthur, the jutelligent and hard working farmer and the no less indispensable day laborer.
