Mortuary. During the year 1870, as we find from reliable statistics in our possession, there were only 350 interments in the cemeteries of this city. This includes Oakdale, Pine Forrest and the City (or Pauper's) Cemeteries. Of this number only 339 died inside the city limits, some of the remaining 11 having been brought here from distant places for burlal. Of the lo'al number of interments 136 were whites and 214 colored, being about 1 death for every to of our population during the year mentioned. We doubt if there is a city to be found in the whole Southern country, with the same population, that can produce a better indication of healthfulness or exhibit a more encouraging mortuary report for the same period than is here presented for the city of Wilmington.

The Chapman Sisters.

The play-goers of this city will be glad to learn that the charming and fascinating Chapman Sisters, with the inimitable Bishop, are to pay us a visit again. They will only remain two nights, their brief engagement commenelog Friday evening, with Brougham's new Burlesque, for the first time in this city, entitled "Much Ado About a Merchant of Venice." On Saturday night another new piece, entitled "Little Jack Sheppard, or the Idle Apprentice," will be put for the first time on our boards. Our readers can rest assured that miriads of fun are in store for them, an as this will probably be the last time they will have an opportunity of seeing these talented artistes and the fun-provoking Bishop we advise all who can consistently do so to be present on Friday and Saturday night.s

The Richmond Whig says of this Company: Theatre.—The audience which greeted the Chapman Sisters, Bishop and company, at the Theatre last pight was the largest that has assembled at that "temple of amusements" since the engagement of Edwin Forrest. The play was John Brougham's new burlesque of "Much Ado about a Merchant of Venice," an exceedingly funny travesty of Shakepear's "Merchant of Venice." In his character of "Merchant of Venice." In his character of Shelock, Mr. Bishop Illustrated the Israelite of other days in his peculiarly light and jocose style, while Misses Blanche and Ella as "Lorenzo" and "Bassanio" delighted all present by their charming acting and singing. A large portion of the andience, it must be confessed, was also delighted with an abyssian pas de deux introduced in the burlesque non discutandem. disputandum, &c.

Mr. Jones spoke favorably to the passage of the bill, claiming that the people had the right to build roads with their own money any where and every where, and that it is illiberal to deny them the privilege.

Mr. Gilmer thought that this connecting link between the W., C. & R. R. R., and the Western extension would damage both roads, and argued against the measure, and moved its further consideration be postponed until Friday morning:
