THE SHELLBARGER BILL.

Development in Congress, within a day or two past, encourage the belief that the Ku Klux legislation urged by the Administration...

In Congress the prospect, at the present moment, is not favorable to Radical unity when the Ku Klux legislation shall reach the final test.

To this opinion the ultra Radical faction holds, and there cannot be any misunderstanding of its view of the plenary powers of the Federal government for any oppressive interference with the privileges of the States.

According to the Tribune the moderate Republicans decline to support any measure that gives the President the extraordinary power to proclaim martial law.
