Berg't Signal Service U. S. A. Weather Report:

It is probable that the storm heretofore menlowed on Thursday, on the upper lakes, by increasing winds and clearing up weather. Cloudy and rainy weather is probable for the Atlantic coast. Fresh northwesterly winds will probably be experienced in the lower Mississippi valley.

A Novel Theft.

Intelligence was received in this city yesterday to the effect that a steamer called the Florence was stolen from her moorings at Fernandina, Florida, on Monday night last, and that it was supposed by the authorities of that city that she would put in at Smithville. on the lookout for the missing yeasel.

Somebody has said, and wisely: "The judiclous advertiser knows his best time. When business is brisk, he advertises steadily, but when it becomes dull, he seeks, by a conspicuous display of special inducements to purchasers, to stimulate it into activity. He reduces prices, and he enforces the fact upon the purchaser's attention. When the timid advertiser withdraws, he has the field to himself, and he diligently cultivates it."

We were shown, last evening, an egg found in a barrel of hen fruit shipped to a merchant of this city, which is somewhat extraordinary strangest thing of all is, that the initial letters "K. of P.," appear on the shell. We are told paper was applied, but the characters still remain. Who can explain the why and wherefore of this hen transaction? Will some K. of P. of the thi d degree undertake the task?

A Sad Case, He LISHI MI ON SE KORE One of the saddest cases that we have had occasion to record for some time past is that of the sudden death of the little son of Mr. G. H. W. Runge from taking poleon, which octhat vigorous attempts have been made to ef- curred yesterday morning at 10 o'clock." The face these initial letters, but all in vain. Sand- circumstances which led to this truly melancholy affair may be briefly stated as follows. Mrs. R. had occasion on Tuesday to have a room in the house, which had been closed for some time past, cleaned up and put in order for use, and a colored servant was entrusted with the work. In this room were a lot of bottles containing medicine and among them one which was partially filled with carbolic seld and perhaps one or two with other poisons which had formerly been used on the premises. The girl was charged to place these bottles in a box and lock them up in another unoccupied room. Instead of doing as directed, however, she placed the box containing the bottle on a table in the kitchen and then went up stairs to assist in cleaning up the room. In a few minutes afterwards a white servant employed in the family, having occasion to pass through the kitchen, discovered the little boy Loudolf, with the bottle of carbolic acid in one hand, as if he had just taken it from his mouth, and with the other hand in the act of wiping the acld from his lips. At the same time she perceived that he was reci-ing where he stood, as if the poison had already taken effect upon his system. She immediately seized the little fellow, took the bottle from him, and gave the slarm to the amily. Drs. Anderson and Thomas were sent for and also Mr. Runge, who was at his place of business. The physicians soon arrived and did everything that was possible for the patient and at one time it was thought he would recover, but he subsequently got worse and then lingered in much agony until yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, when he breathed h s last. The heartfelt sympathies of the community are with the distressed family in their sad and sudden bereavement.

The a slight testimonial of the appreciation and most attractive features of the entertainment may be mentioned—the cake tables, strawberry tables, the flower and plant stands, and the beautiful Lemonade Bower, which was very handsome and attracted much attention as well as patronage from those present. The yous music, which was rendered by a number of our most taleuted amateurs—and no city of its size can boast of better-was decidedly charming and eligited the warmest praise from all present. From what we could gather, it seemed to be the universal impression that these "Sociables" are a great institution, and the only regret is that they don't come oftener. A great inducement to patronize them is the fact that everything is sold remarkably cheap and no one with a shadow of a conscience can begrudge the small amount he invests, for the simple reason that he gets the worth of his

WILMINGTON, N. C., April 7th, 1871. To the President and Executive Committee of the Wilmington Seamen's Friend Society :

Gentlemen:—In presenting my first annual report as Chaplain of this Society it is proper to remark, first of all, that the chief trade of this port is a coasting trade. But few foreign vessels, comparatively, visit this port; as a consequence the scamens' stay here is so short that it is exceedingly difficult to give, with any degree of scenracy, the results of the efforts put forth in their behalf. Seed is faithfull sown, but how much of it falls on good soil, or how much on that stony soil which the scorching sun of temptation, so peculiar to the sailor's life, withers and dries up, we are not always able to say. It is sometimes diffients to induce the sailor to attend church at all, or to make any religious impressions on his mind. In other cases he is not only easily persuaded to attend church, but he listens with deep interest to the offer of Salvation made by that Saviour who once walked on the Sea of Gaillee—stilled its waves and saved the lives of the Gaillean fishermen, and who now offers to save all from hopeless ruin who come

Many cases occur where the sailor appears eally in earnest about his salvation; you feel hopeful of his case; you think he has been born again, but when most interested in him and he has reached the most critical point in his religious experience, his vessel weighs anchor, leaves port, and you see him no more. Hence arises the difficulty to give, with accuracy, the results of a year's labor in such a

We have, however, found much that is hopeful in it; we have had several just such cases as described above. In some, the religious impressions were received from some volume found in the Library, placed on board by the A. S. F. S. By these means the spirit of God often prepares the way for the Chaplain to do the seamen good.

Then, again, all efforts made both for the temporal and spiritual welfare of the seames, are rendered almost powerless by the many snares laid to entrap the sailor as soon as he reaches port. By such means, accompanied by an artisl appeal to the seductive influence of an evil heart, Satan baffled much of the effort made in behalf of the sailor. We have had much of this kind of opposition to con-

Sallors are, proverbially, regarded as the most hardened class in society, yet they often yield to religious impressions, quite as readily as those who boast of nobler impulses and greater refinement. For example, you may often meet one who seems sunk very low in the pit of degredation. Go to him in the spirit of kindness; remind him of the sweet influences that clustered around his early home; speak to him of his sister's affection, a father's regard, a mother's fond love, and tell him all this is but a faint'type of our fleavenly Father's home; who stands ready to welcome every returning prodigal, and you will often see the tear roll down his cheek, and "from the rough and rugged crevasses of his granite nature flowers of purity will again peep forth to great the sunlight of affection."

It is a great mistake, then, to suppose that sailors are the most hopeless class of society to labor among, and, if they were, there is reater refinement. For example, you may to labor among, and, if they were, there is power enough in the love of God, as manifested in Jesus Christ, to overcome all opposition, until, in his own time, the whole world, including the abundance of the sea, shall be converted unto God.

During the year there have arrived at this 199 Ocean Steamers, carrying.....3,184 men,
10 Barques 100 "
71 Brige 639 "
259 Schooners 1,913 "
420 Smaller Vessels " oqual 1824 "

There have been admitted to the Marine Hospital sixty-seven sailors, of whom three have died, two expressing a hope in Christ. Thus both the temperal and spiritual wants of the sailor have been cared for during the year. The Sallor's Home, under the able management of Mr. H. M. Bishop, its present keeper, has been open at all times for the reception of sailors, where they have been exempt from the snares and pitfalls set for the sailor's rulu. Two hundred and seventy-five have been been admitted during the year, and twenty-three shipwseeked sailors have been provided for from the funds of the society. Over ten thousand pages of tracts have been distributed in our missionary work. I need only add, an earnest effort is now being made to put our home, now in quite a dilapidated condition, in good repair. When this is secomplished this society will have an excellent property; a credit to the city, and what is more important, it will be self sustaining. May the day not be far distant when the business of this port will assume its former proportious and the facilities for benefiting the sailor will be correspondingly increased. And may the blessing of our Heavenly Father rest on all the friends of the sailor here and elsewhere, who are laboring for the present and everiasting good of the men of the sea.
