NAVAL COURT.

The Case of Capt. Davies of the British Brig Excel—The Testimony, Finding of the Court, &c.

It will be remembered that a few days since we mentioned in these columns the fact that Capt. George Davies, of the British Brig Excel, had, while the vessel was at sea, made a murderous attack upon Mr. Howard, the chief mate, and that upon the arrival of the vessel at this port Capt. Davies had been taken to the Marine Hospital for treatment under the impression that he was suffering from an attack of temporary insanity. On Monday evening Col. H. P. Walker, H. B. M. Consul for North and South Carolina, with residence at Charleston, arrived in this city for the purpose of conducting an investigation into the conduct of Capt. Davies, Alex. Sprunt, Esq., British Vice Consul at this port, being incalculable for that duty from the fact that he was one of the consignees of the vessel in which the alleged misconduct occurred.

The Court, composed of Col. Walker, as President, and two British shipmasters (required to be present in accordance with the British Merchant Shipping Act of 1854), convened for the trial of said Davies on the charges brought against him. Capt. Davies, who was unable to be present, was represented by Alex. Sprunt, Esq. The two British shipmasters selected by Col. Walker to aid him in the examination were Thos. Lee, master of the Br. Barque Ocean Mail, of Prince Edward's Island, and Wm. Lemon, master of the Br. Barque Susie, of Biddeford.

David Howard, having been sworn, testified as follows:

I am the mate of the brig Excel, which sailed from Cardiff for Wilmington, N. C., on the 25th March last. Nothing worthy of mention occurred during the passage except that George Davies, the master, during the first three or four days out, had a touch of the horrors; but he got over that and nothing further occurred until the 8th day of May, at about 3 P. M., when, in latitude 28° 33' N. and longitude 72° 45' W. At that time I was making a mat, seated on the after hatch, when the captain, the said George Davies, came up from the cabin and seated himself on the after hatch, close to me, on the opposite side of the hatch. He may have set there for ten minutes when he got up and walked forward. I continued with my work and was not interrupted until I was seized by the hair of my head, from behind, and my head was pulled back by the said Geo. Davies and my throat was being cut by him. I raised my hands and took my knife to keep it from my throat, and my right hand was much cut; at the same time I called out for assistance and all of the crew came immediately. As soon as the crew came aft, the said George Davies let go of me and jumped overboard. The knife used was my own which he had been using by my side on the after hatch. From the time I joined the ship to the occurrence deposed to, there had been no disagreement, no altercation, nothing whatever, to excite ill-blood between us, and the attack upon me was altogether unprovoked as far as I was concerned. The said George Davies jumped overboard the crew, with the exception of David Rees, who stood by me, did their best to save him from drowning, and succeeded in recovering him and when he was brought on board, they put him in a room and so kept him until we reached this port. He had the knife in his hand until he was secured, and then threw it into the sea. The wound I received in my throat was a deep and dangerous one, and one of my hands was much cut.

Mr. Vice Consul Sprunt then cross-examined the witness in the interest of the defendant and elicited facts substantially as follows:

Capt. Davies left Cardiff without the necessary papers and only discovered the omission after he had been to sea about ten days. He seemed to be troubled about the fact, but his mind did not seem to be seriously affected in consequence. There was no ill will whatever existing between the Captain and mate, and that latter had no cause to fear any attack upon himself. Davies attended to his various duties properly while the vessel was receiving her load, and he kept to the vessel's port. When the brig sailed from Cardiff he was some what under the influence of liquor, and he was not sober when the pilot resigned the vessel into his care, that the control of the vessel devolved upon the mate, the Captain continuing on duty for three or four days. It was a week or ten days before he entirely recovered. When first put in irons he was quiet, but afterwards at times very violent and talked irrationally. Sometimes he would express regret at having made the vessel and ask forgiveness, and then again he would appear to be as violent in his expressions as before.

This testimony was substantiated by other witnesses examined, but no new developments of any important bearing upon the case were elicited.

Dr. J. E. Winslow, in charge of the Marine Hospital, testified as follows:

On the 10th inst. I was requested by Mr. Vice Consul Sprunt to visit the brig Excel. On going on board George Davies, the Captain of the vessel, was found in the cabin. I examined him and found him suffering from mental derangement. He was aware of his condition and attributed it to excessive drinking. I removed him to the Hospital, where he still resides, and he has been in the Hospital since that time. George Davies is permanently insane, having what is commonly called alcoholic insanity. His physical condition is good; his appetite is good; he sleeps well. My judgment has not been influenced by the statements made to me by the Captain, but rather by his general appearance of mind. It is my opinion that he is, in any degree, afflicted by the present heat of this climate.

The following are the findings of the Court: After full and mature consideration of the evidence set forth in the foregoing depositions, the Court is unanimous that the safety of the British brig Excel, and of the crew, and the interest of the owner, absolutely require it to appropriate George Davies, the present master of the said brig.

It is ordered, that the said George Davies be and he is hereby suspended.

And, with the consent of Alexander Sprunt, Esq., British Vice Consul, of the concern of Sprunt & Hinson, the consignees of the said brig.

It is further ordered, that David Howard, whose certificate of competency as Master is No. 26,563, be, and he is hereby appointed Master of the said brig, to act in the stead of the said George Davies.

Witness our hands, this 23d day of May, 1871, at Person's buildings, North Water street, in Wilmington, in North Carolina, in open Court assembled.

H. B. M. Consul for North and South Carolina, President. THOMAS LEE, Master of the Barque Ocean Mail.

The Telegram says: A. P. Kincaid, Esq., of Cherokee county, was on yesterday appointed by His Excellency Gov. Caldwell, Agent of the State for the collection of Cherokee bonds, in place of Jacob Siler, deceased.

The Goldsboro Messenger says: Philip Howell, son of Mr. Levi Howell, who resides near this town, accidentally shot himself through the arm while out hunting on Friday last. He is attended by Drs. Miller & Kirby.

On Saturday last a man by the name of Forrest was found dead in his bed in the Charlotte House at Charlotte. An inquest was held and a verdict was rendered that the deceased came to his death by chloroform administered by himself.

There has recently been discovered near Franklin, Macon county, this State, a large vein of Calcite. This Calcite is pure Carbonate of Lime. It will be the source of great profit to the agricultural interests of that section. So says the Asheville Citizen.

Says the Charlotte Democrat: Saturday last was celebrated in commemoration of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence of May 20, 1776. The fire companies of Raleigh, Chester and Winstboro were handsomely entertained by the fire companies of Charlotte. J. C. Mills, Esq., delivered an excellent oration and everything passed off pleasantly.

A fatal accident occurred at the quarry of the Penitentiary on Monday. The Sentinel says: John Allen, col., a stone mason, employed at the quarry, by Coleman Bros., the contractors, while employed with a crowbar in turning a stone, was struck on the back of the head by the end of a rope which had broken from a derrick, stationed near by, running another derrick in position. The force of the blow threw Allen violently forward upon the end of the crow-bar, breaking his jaw and neck, causing his death in two minutes.

Meeting of the N. C. Conference Sunday School Society. The third annual meeting of the N. C. Conference Sunday School Society was held in the Methodist Church at this place on Thursday, Friday and Saturday last. A large number of ministers and delegates were in attendance.

Thursday at 3 o'clock P. M., the meeting was called to order by the President of the Society, Rev. W. H. Bobbitt, who welcomed the delegates and invited all present—delegates and members of the church—to participate in the meeting. The evening was occupied in debate of matters touching the Society.

The Rev. N. F. Reid, D. D., being prevented from attending the meeting of the Society, the sermon, a most eloquent one, was preached by the Rev. L. S. Burkhead, of Raleigh, at 8 o'clock in the evening, instead of Dr. Reid, as announced in the published programme.

The Society met again on Friday. Matters of interest to the Sabbath Schools were freely discussed and a committee was appointed, consisting of Rev. H. T. Hudson, as chairman, Rev. E. A. Yates and Rev. L. S. Burkhead, with instructions to prepare an address to the members of the N. C. Conference and to consider the adoption of a system of uniform lessons for Sabbath Schools.

At 11 o'clock A. M. the Rev. S. Leard delivered his address on the subject of "The Relations of Baptized Children to the Church."

The election of officers for the Society resulted in the election of Rev. W. H. Bobbitt as President, and Prof. A. H. Merritt as chosen for Vice President, L. Branson, Secretary, Rev. J. B. Bobbitt, Treasurer, and Rev. H. T. Hudson, Corresponding Secretary.

In the evening a vast multitude assembled in the Church to hear the Rev. H. T. Hudson, who addressed the congregation on the subject of "Sunday Schools." He handled his theme with mastery style and throughout the discussion there was a strain of philosophical reasoning suggested to every intelligent mind of the great importance of the topic so eloquently treated by him.

The Society met again on Saturday morning and it was resolved that the next meeting of the Society should be held in Salisbury on the 2nd Thursday in May, 1872; whereupon the Society adjourned. Goldsboro Messenger.
