Weather Report.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Office of Chief Signal Officer, Washington, Nov. 14-4:85 P. Probabilities.

The lowest pressure will probably advance northeastward, possibly branching into two divisions. Brisk southeast winds prevail tonight on the New England coast and Lake Ontario, the latter backing to northwest, increas-ing northwest winds on Lakes Erie and Huing northwest winds on Lakes Eric and Hu-ron; increasing southwest winds on the south Atlantic coast. Partially cloudy and clear weather will probably prevail on Wednesday in the Southern and Gulf States, and on the upper lakes, clearing weather in the Middle States, cloud and rain in New England, with a gale on the coast veering from east to south-west. Warning signals ordered. Cautionary signals continue for this evening at Milwau-kee, Chicago, Grand Haven, Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo and Oswego; also at Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Norfolk, Balti-more, Cape May, N. Y., New London, Boston and Portland.

Yesterday, the 14th of November, was the day designated for the opening of the Third Annual Fair of the Cape Fear Agricultural Association. During the night preceding, however, the weather became very boisterous and threatening; finally the unwelcome rain commenced falling, and before the dawn of the day, to which so many looked forward with such pleasurable anticipations, the storm had burst upon us with great severity, which increased in fury as the morning advanced and continued unabated un il near the middle of the day.

At last the welcome sunshine made its ap pearance, but too late for the larger number of citizens and visitors to avail themselves of the opportunity of going to the grounds. Of course the ceremonies incident to the open ing of the Fair had to be postponed until this morning, as the crowd at no time during the day was sufficient to constitute a respectable audience.

The grounds during the day, however, were not entirely devoid of interest to such as had braved the inclemency of the weather, and repaired thither. In fact, during the afternoon things began to assume quite an animated appearance. The different Halls began to fill up rapidly with articles of all kinds for exhibition, which were being appropriately arranged; and on the grounds different kinds of machinery were put in motion, the riders for the Tournament were practising for the coming contest for the championship, the Indians were displaying their skill with the bow and arrow, and the Rose Bud Band discoursed excellent music, ever and anon, the add to the cheerfulness of the scene.

exhibition at another time. The famous road steamer appeared uponthe grounds late in the afternoon and will be in position for showing off its good qualities to-day.

The press-gang is very thinly represented so far, but we shall probably have several acquisitions to the force to day.

A large crowd assembled at Thalian Hall last evening to witness the performance of the fascinating Worrell Sisters. The delays between the scenes, which so often prove obnoxious to theatre goers, were, we are happy to say, "like angels' visits, few and far between," and in fact these delays are not experienced by the audiences of the Worrell Sisters. Mr. Jackson surpassed himself in the role he played. Miss Sophie Worrell was as spirited and fascinating as she possibly could be. Miss Irene showed by her modest and unton planter, sulky plow, 2 horse plow, assuming air that she had determined to make cider mill. James Wiley, Duplin county-cotton Miss Jennie was none the less bewitching, playing her part with such ease and grace that it was the theme of conversation during the intervals. We predict for her many friends wherever she may go. Mr. Harry Jackson's speciality was exceedingly well rendered. while his living photographs of Napoleon I, King William of Prussia and Bret Harte could not have been excelled. The Leons, in their inimitable specialities, the "Imperial Japs" and their own peculiar Double Trepeze, brought forth encore after encore. Miss Jennie Willmore Frank was spirited and dashing, playing the part she assumed with grace and ease.

> To-night will be presented the great success of the day, " The Field of the Cloth of Gold," and the farce of "Crossing the Line."

Owing to the fact that many of the exhibitors, in consequence of the rain, were not able toget their articles properly arranged until years old. late in the atternoon, and also taking into consideration the fact that many additious will probably bemade this morning, we thought proper to defer any extended notice of the display in the different departments until tomorrow. We will, however, allude to some of the articles found in the lower, or AGRICULTURAL HALL.

Here we found a fine display of native grasses, hay or sheaf cats, specimens of pea vines, fodder and shucks-five varieties in all, exhibited by Capt. Thigpen, of Edgcombe, and which were very creditable. He also exhibits three varieties of oa s, three of peas, two of corn and two of sweet potatoes, one of the latter baling the set putato, to. planting putposes, and the other the potato raised from these "slips" and fully matured. Heshowed us a spicimen of Irish potatoes, which he states are the second crop from the same land, planted in July, and raised from the seed of the first crop, gathered earlier in the year. He also has a flue specimen of turnips on exhibition, which he states were planted between the rows of the potatoes in September, and yielded a handsome crop. Capt. Thigaen also exhibits what is known as the European squash, the seed of which was imported from France, and a specimen of Edgecombe bacon. ms display in field products, &c., being altogether among the finest we have ever seen at any Fair.

In this Department we also found a lot of second growth native hay, raised and exhibited by Mr. James Norwood, of Hillsboro, which yielded ten thousand pounds to the acre; also native'grasses-three varieties in all, which are hard to beat. We noticed a bale of fine native hay from Wayne, but did not learn the name of the exhibitor.

Two pumpkins, of huge proportions, among number of specimens, attracted considerable attention, one of them weighing one hundred and ten and the other eighty-four pounds. They were raised by Capt. T. A. Grainger, of Wayne county. We shall allude further to articles in this department to-morrow, when there will probably be many additions. LIVE STOCK.

In horses, so far, the stock is lamentably deficient as to numbers. The only animal worthy of special mention which we found upon the grounds was "Orphan Boy," a magnificient dark bay stallion, 7 years old next Spring, the property of Sheriff V. V. Richardson, Columbus county. He is certainly a beautiful creature, as all who sees him will testify, and will be very likely to take the premium as a trotting nag.

We noticed some Chester hogs, between 4 and 5 months old, very large and fine for their + hoods, toilet cushion, tidy, toilet mats. age, exhibited by Capt. Thigpen, of Edge-
