CALM WORDS.

If ever there was a time requiring the exercise of the utmost prudence and sa gacity, that time is now. Review the situation. A person sits in the chair Washington once occupied, who accepts pres ents as bribes, speculates in stocks, ap points corrupt men to office, dominates elections with bayonets, suspends the sa cred writ of habeas' corpus, the great bulwark of freedom, and rides rough shod over a stricken and helpless people's sovereign rights. This man, in all his wickedness and usurpation, in all his pride and ambition, relies not upon his own talents and genius, for he has none, but relies confidently upon his party for support. In every effort he makes to crush out and grind to powder the rights and liberties of the Southern people, he is upheld by the Radicals. He is ignorant and sensual, but he makes them a good Nero or Ca

Look back at the legislation of the past ten years. Where is the statesmanship of old"times? Where is the patriotism Where the honesty? All gone. Nothing left. Our halls of Congress are the arenas for scenes that, had they taken place in Imperial Rome in her days of decline, would have pleased the fat, impassive Cæsars, whose minds ranged only from the banquet table to the harem. Developments of secret deeds of shame, in which grave Senators and Congressmen essayed to revive the dark days of Messalina and Agrappina, have been made Nor is Senatorial immorality and corruption all. The Congress and the Administration are grand stock-jobbing concerns. Men go to Congress now not to do the country good, not for motives of pure ambition, but to get rich. Bribery is common. Congressmen whose impecuniosity was formerly noticeable, build fine mansions and drive in stylish equipages. Rob beries of the public treasury, defalcations, conspiracies to defraud the government, go hand in hand with the bigamies and loose living of the people's representatives. This has been a decade, in every particular, of unexampled corruption in official circles.

These things all took place in Rome before the tyrant Emperors trampled all liberty under their feet.

"'Tis self-abasement paves the way For villain bonds and despot's sway."

The people must be altogether sodden in sin and imbecile in spirit, when tyranny flourishes like a paradise tree, and throws off its baleful effluvia to stifle the life breath and poison the health of political institutions. We are sinking into this condition. Day by day, we recede farther pure and simple. Ideas, the growth of our free soil, springing full clad and strong in their glorious beauty from the breast of revolution, are suffered to rust and decay in the corrupt political decadence of the

These things have grown upon us, little by little. No man would have had the temerity fifteen years ago to predict the events that have transpired in the past five or six years. These events even after their accomplishment, seem more like a fevered, borrid dream than the stern and terrible realities they are. It would have required a stretch of imagination bolder than even the typical bold Anrerican in the zenith of his far-reaching, exalted fancy could attain, to have conceived the present state of things in South Carolina. Raised in the school of strict Constitutionalism with a reverence We have the Morning Star, published for the authority of the civil law as the daily, at $7.00 per year; the WEEKLY paramount authority of the land, derived from the people, the supreme source of all power, it was impossible for him to imagine a state of facts, as possible to exist in America, which should totally reverse these traditional ideas. Martial law waving aloft its bared red arms over the heads of a peaceful people, is a spectacle to be witnessed with equanimity only by those who were prepared for it by the startling legislation of the past few years. The usurpations of Radicalism have been by regular stages. The Reconstruction measures, the new Amendments to the Constitution, the Civil Rights bill and lastly the Ku Klux bill. The Southern people were first enslaved, that a pretext might be afforded for the conspirators who had resolved te tear down the whole republican structure. Next in order, we shall see the business of Federal or rather Central interference carried into the Northern States. Tyranny has no half way house. It is a Juggernaut whose car-wheels ride ruthlessly over its victims from every section. and is expressly adapted to the farming The usurpations that have been practiced children, hurried them, away from the upon the South, for the purpose of "firing emigrants. One of these latter, in one of the Northern heart" and controlling the elections all over the country, will now be practiced upon the Northern people, to pave the way for the Empire. Already they have had a foretaste of what they may expect from the centralized government they have set up. Federal bayonets have been present at their elections, and recently a military commander usurped functions that would have been wrested from him a few years since by a general uprising of the people of the State in which these functions were exercised, But Grant backs up his usurpations with the Warsaw pretext of order. Order reigned in the unfortunate capital of Pcland after Russian cannon and bayonets had completed their awful work. Grant's "Let us have Peace" is the Muscovite cry ot "Order."

> Is the calm sense of the Northern people consenting to these things? Do they propose to fold their arms serenely, while an Imperial tyrant ascends the throne, and when he waves his sceptre over their heads, will they cry "Live the Emperor?" Plainly we tell them of their danger-of the country's danger, and beg them to pause and think. They must act quickly, or the danger comes and seals our ruin. The remedy is coalition. Let us all heed the trumpet-tongued warning of the gifted and patriotic Senator Schurz. Unite! There is no salvation for the country except in the union of the true republican elements. The contest is no longer a mere party struggle between Democrats and Republicans. It is a life and death struggle between those who would overthrow republican institutions and those who would uphold them. Patriotic Republicans and patriotic Democrats and Conservatives must fight together in the same ranks, Let there be but one camp, and let that be occupied by the consolidated army of Reform. Only in the union of all the conservative and moderate strength is there hope for the salvation of the country and its republican institutions.

What the Son of a Prophet Says About It.

The question whether or not Brigham Young has run away, or will run away, sist on account of the fire raging over, as seems to be settled, at length, by his son John, who has been interviewed at West Point Academy, by a New York correspondent. John says that Brigham will not resist any of the court, and will not leave Utah ; that Delegate Hooper has no compromise to propose at Washington, and none will be offered; that no outbreak was contemplated at Salt Lake, and that the only solution of the difficulties is the admission of Utah as a State, but he was not prepared to state whether polygsmy would be abandoned if admitted as Negro Mobs in Little Bock, Arkansas. In no place but Little Rock, the capital of a great State, and the seat of the laws which govern the Commonwealth of Ar kansas, could such an outrage be perpetrated unrebuked as was witnessed on our streets on yesterday. Some emigrants were passing through the town, and when on the corner of Commerce and Markham streets, near the boat landing, were forcibly detained by a mob of negroes, who, observing several of their color in company with the travellers, took it for granted that these individuals were going farther south against their will. The representatives from Little Rock made a rush, and, seizing two black men and a couple of the wagons, drew his revolver and threatened to use it on any one who should attempt to take a negro from his wagon. Large accessions had been made to the sable crowd of kidnappers by this time, however, and he deemed it prudent to replace his weapon.

The train was allowed to proceed after the success just related. But when the wagons reached Ninth and Main, the dusky crowd, which numbered nearly two hundred, among whom several police stars brazed, again attacked the train, and this time valiently captured a negro woman, who resisted manfully, and asseverated positively that she wanted to go with her emigrant friends. The black mob paid no attention to the poor creature's entreaties, but carried her off, and the emigrants were allowed to go on their way.

This is not the first instance of this kind, and if the authorities do not put an effectual stop to it, and that soon, the most serious results may follow. The negroes of this city seem to have gone wild with politics. They congregate on sidewalks, in saloons, and on street crossing and discuss the political situation from morning till night-snd after dark attend some political meeting, where demoniac howls are kept up the greater portion of the night. The city is fast approaching that condition when it will require the united efforts of her citizens to rescue her from the mob. This mob law will have the effect to cause emigrants to shun the city as they would a pest house, and thousands of dollars will thus be drawn away from us.-Arkansas State Gazette, Nov. 7.

Shocking Colliery Explosion—Serious Loss of hife.

A telegraphic dispatch to the London Times from Hartlepool on the night of Thursday, the 26th ult., gives the following account of another dreadful colliery accident:

A fearful explosion of fire-damp occurred at Earl Vane, No. 3 pit, Seaton colliery, near here, last night about 12 o'clock. At the time of the occurrence about one hundred and fifty men and boys were on the night shift. The explosion was heard, nearly half a mile off, and clouds of smoke were coming out of the up-cast shaft. The managers and viewers hurried to the pit at once, and volunteers accompanied Messrs. Dakers and Corbet, the resident viewers down the shaft, near the mouth of which they found five persons dead or

The first brought up was Thos. Hutchinson, Jr., dead; Robinson Hunter, dead soon after; Thos. Hutchinson, living tonight; Chas. Mawson and Thos. Spence, night overman, both dead. Every effort was made to restore the ventilation, but before 2 o'clock they were obliged to deit is supposed, nearly sixty yards of the works. About fifteen hundred yards from the shaft, thus cutting off all communication from twenty six other men known to be in that part of the pit, of whose lives little or no hope is entertained, several horses were destroyed, others miraculously escaping. Had it happened in the day three hundred men would have been in the pit, over one thousand being employed altogether.

The following are among those still in the pit: George Hayes, Thomas Prout, William Young, Jno. Wardle, Ralph Hep-plewhite, John Richardson, Edward Lane, all married, and family; Tom Dobson, George Harker, boys; William Dunn, William Coates, Robert Strongnair, William Robbins, Thomas Jones, Matthew Brown, Edward Campbell, Thomas Spence, all of whom except Campbell have young families. The greatest excitement was occasioned all yesterday, and the scene was which he assures me that if proper steps were taken a large tide of French immigration could be turned to the State of Georgia. The class of immigrants, too, are the very kind we most need—cultivative are the very kind we most need from the old Constitutional landmarks and draw nearer to the bourn of Empire, a goodly number of passengers.

They have found the moss growing thick on the trees, frogs standing on their heads, sunflowers pointing toward the North Pole, grape vines running around poles, instead of up them, and there are thousand other signs to show that every human being will be frozen as stiff as a chip before February. - Detroit Free Press.

The retail trade of New York city, usually very active at this season, is dull to an extent bordering on stagnation in some branches. The retail stores on the leading avenues and streets, it is said, present daily a scene difficult of comprehension to the casual observer.
