Mr. A. H. Brown, of Mecklenburg, laforms the Charlotte Southern Home that his wife had an affection of the lungs, which threatened to end her life very soon. On the 10th of August she began to take ten drops of pure kerosene oil on going to bed, and kept it up until an entire cure was effected. In two weeks she began to notice a favorable change, and steadly improved until a complete cure resulted. He says that others have tried it with equally happy results.

'Trodden Down, or Under Two Flags," was presented to a large audience at the Opera House last night by the immitable artists, Rose and Harry Watkins. It was not the first time that the great Southern favorites had rendered this splendld drama on our boards, and the audlence expected to witness an entertainment far above the average. In this they were not disappointed. In fact it was the universal opinion that they excelled themselves on this occasion, and the hearty appreciation of their efforts by the audience was evidenced in the boisterous applause which greeted them in every stage of the performance. Harry Watkine, as Fergus McCarthy," and Rose Watkins, as "Mary McCarthy" were well supported byMr. A. H. Hastings, as "Herrick Wolfe," Mr. W. H. Cooper, as "Robert O'Hara," and other members of the troupe.

To-night, which will be the last of this excellent company in our city during the present season, will be presented the new grand drama, "Nora O'Neil, or, True to the Last." A rous ing house will attest the appreciation in which these great Southern stors are held by the play goers of Wilmington. Remember, too, it is the benefit night o Rose Watkins.
