MAY 5 & 6 1874. NORTH CAROLINA Christian Advocate for 1872. REDUCTION OF PRICE, $2 A YEAR.

THE PAST SUCCESS OF THE ADVOCATE justifies us in making this reduction in price. This announcement, we are sure, will be quite as gratifying to our patrons and friends as it is to us.

It is our purpose to make the volume for 1873 more attractive and useful to all classes of our readers, old and young, than any of the preceding volumes. Arrangements have been made for regular contributions from our most gifted and experienced writers.

We shall soon commence the publication of an annual story, which will be published about six months. It will be instructive and interesting to all classes of our readers, the young especially. Now is the time to subscribe, so as to get the commencement of this story.

As to the merits and claims of the ADVOCATE we refer the public to the following complimentary remarks of the large and intelligent Committee on Books and Periodicals, which were adopted at our late Conference:

"In reference to the organ of our Conference, the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, published at Raleigh, it is with unfeigned pleasure that we are able to report a steady increase in circulation, and a consequent improvement in all its literary departments, until it has become ranked by the side of the best literary and religious journals in the country."

"The ADVOCATE is North Carolina's local literary journal, and is one of the most valuable publications in the State. It is a source of information and instruction to all classes of our readers, and is a credit to the State and to the Christian Church in this country."

How to Send—All amounts should be sent to the Editor, post office order or check, if money be sent otherwise than herein specified, it will be at the sender's risk. Address, REV. J. B. ROBERTS, Raleigh, N. C.
