A Pretty Vine. The Journal of Horticulture says a very pretly vine can be grown from the sweet potato, by putting a tuber in pure sand oreandy loam, in a hanging basket and watering occasionally. It will throw out tendrils and beautiful leaves, and will climb freely over the arms of the basket and upward toward the top of the window. Our New Senator.

Gen. M. W. Ransom passed through Petersburg Wednesday on his way home in Northampton county. The Index says: "The General expressed himself as sanguine of admission to his seat in the Senate of the United States. He was met with warm welcome by his many attached friends at Weldon, to which he went immediately from this city, returning on the afternoon train to Garysburg, where he got off, on his way home."

Carolina Farmer. The Carolina Farmer for February is at hand, and is certainly not excelled by any of the agricultural journals either in point of mechanical execution or its reading matter. Published here at home, filled with choice practical hints and experiences in farm operations by some of our best North Carolina farmers, everybody should have it at the low price asked for it. It is published by W. H. Bernard, Wilmington, at $2 per annum. It will be clubbed with the Herald on favorable terms.—Fee Dee Herald.

The Petersburg Index, speaking of Weldon, says: "Mr. Jordan Stone, we learn, intends to establish a daily paper at Raleigh, at an early day to succeed the Carolinian, which, it is stated, is to be suspended." From which we infer that Mr. Stone is one of the pro prietors of the new Conservative Democratic daily to be started in Raleigh in a couple of

The Warrenton Gazette and Roanoke News cease their existance as such this week and fuse into one, to be called the Dally News. It is expected that the Gazette will be continued as heretofore, but by other parties.

Interesting Belies. Through the courtesy of Messes, David & Welll, Market street, we have had the pleasure of examining two relies of "the olden time" in the shape of newspapers. One is a no doubt it will prove in the end, the surest very diminutive sheet, dated at Boston, Monday, April 8th, 1728, being perhaps one of the from it. oldest newspapers in existence in this country, having been published 144 years ago. It is "A very likely negro weman who can do household work, and is fit for either Town or Country Service, about 22 years of age, to be sold. Inquire of the Printer hereof."

And this was in Boston, from whence, years afterwards, were hurled so many flery phillipics against the South for dealing in human property. But this was after the poor slaves had all been sold South and the shrewd Puritans had pocketed the money.

Let a large audience this afternoon and tonight attest the appreciation our citizens evidently feel of the faithfulness and fidelity to their engagements which has characterized the "Old Reliable" since their appearance

Look Out For Him. Upon the authority of "mine host" of the Purcell House, who is ever ready to expose those who are skilled in the "ways that are dark and tricks that are vain," we take the liberty of cautioning the public everywhere, against one Samuel A. Smith, who was formerly an attache of the "Purcell," but who left Wilmington on the 20th day of December, 1871, after having successfully swindled his employer and many others-in the community. Smith hails from Lenox, Mass.

THE OPERA HOUSE.

Dramatie. The presence at the Opera House last night of a very fashionable and large audience was a deserved and appropriate acknowledgment of the histrienic capabilities and efforts of the beneficiary on that occasion, Miss Helen D'Este. That clever, not to say masterly piece of brain-work, Fazio, was produced under some embarrassments, as it is a play far above the capacity of many of the men and women who have enviable reputations on the stage; but without referring to the general cast of the piece, we must concede that Miss D'Este acquitted herself handsomely in the role of Bianca. Her conception of the character was faithful to the text and she was un' usually spirited. At the close of the fourth act the enthusiasm and appreciation of the audience knew no bounds, and they demanded her presence before the footlights in a very decided manner. There was no evading the summons and she responded, presenting her thanks in a neat little speech. Mr. Tannehill as Fazio was successful in one point at least: he gave the amplest satisfaction to the playgoers present; indeed, the presentation as a whole was a decided success. The nantical drama, Black Eyed Susan, closed the evening's entertainment, altogether a very last, the 10th instant. They found the work progressing as satisfactorily as the means at command would seem to justify. Since their last visit on the 11th of Japuary, there has been about two hundre and fifty (250) feet of the breakwater finished aggregating about twelve hundred (1,200) feet of the breakwater as completely finished up to this time; some unfinished crib word not estimated. Besides (as we learn from enquiry) there has been about eight hundred (800) feet of preparatory work done in filling up the va-rious sites (which have cut out) with stone, and levelling up to low water mark the line of the permanent breakwater, and which will greatly facilitate future operations.

The beach in front continues to follow the work as rapidly as completed and the current

The succession of heavy storms upon ou coast of late, accompanied by unusually high tides, has had the effect of wearing the beach to some extent, particularly at the outer point or turn of it, and blowing the sand from ex-posed and unprotected situations, while those posed and unprotected situations, while those parts where eatch and fences have been placed and grass planted, little or no damage has been sustained, but rather benefited by collecting and helding the blowing sand. We can make no satisfactory statement in regard to Zeke's Island, which was entirely covered by the high tides, or of the inlet south of it, as we have no means of determining what he have no means of determining whether they are being damaged or otherwise; we can only see an immense amount of sand is brought inside through the inlets, and deposited in the river and bay, and there can be little doubt of large quantities being carried down to the lower harbor and its outlet. harbor and its outlet.

Should the present Congress think proper to make the requisite appropriation for a more vigorous prosecution of work upon the breakwater, and at the same time upon the several combinations which seem to be necessary for effecting good results from the work, we have

Your committee acknowledge its inability to perceive the wisdom or economy of fritterhaving been published 144 years ago. It is called The New England Weekly Journal, and was issued by S. Kneeland & T. Green, "at the Printing House in Queen Street." Among the advertisements is the following:

"A very likely negro girl, about 18 or 14 years of age, speaks good English, has been in the country some years, to be sold. In quire of the Printer hereof."

We also find the following:

"A very likely negro woman who can do household work, and is fit for either Town or Country Service, about 22 years of age, to be work, as circumstances may arise to require it, leaven the wisdom or economy of frittering away large sums of money in prosecuting complicated works so elugishly, as to admit of rapid damage to weak points of the combination equal, in some instances, to the amount of work accomplished, which might be avoided, and the work greatly economized by the more judicious course of prosecuting it with energy, and proper forecast in suppressing injurious effects upon weak points, at the same time, or in advance of the main work. Hence the necessity of urging upon Congress the importance, the wisdom, the real economy of placing at the command of the Engineer in charge, a sufficient amount to conduct the work, as circumstances may arise to require it, charge, a sufficient amount to conquet the work, as circumstances may arise to require it, and as his own indoment may dictate. No apprehensions need be entertained that the money will be squandered; his judicious and successful management thus far is ample assurance that there will be no waste of time
