DAVIS OR TRUMBULL?

Among the Liberal Republican statesmen of the North we probably have a profounder respect, with one single exception, for Senator Trumbull, than we entertain for any other member of his party.

The Carolina suicide, who swallowed some pounded glass, not long ago, died of a pain in his stomach. Last year almost $2,000,000 worth of opium was consumed in the United States, the greater portion by women.

A Boston widow wears with becoming pride a massive gold ring made from the plate of her departed husband's teeth.

A darkey says: "All men are made of clay, and, like meerschaum pipes, are more valuable when highly colored." Here he dies again.

Queer Freak of a Fifth Avenue Woman. A woman who keeps an aristocratic boarding house on Fifth Avenue, last evening, dressed herself in men's clothing, tight pants, short overcoat, felt hat and cane, and accompanied by two women, went to Wood's Museum.

An Up-Countryman's Experience in a Savannah Fiasco. The Lawrenceville (Ga.) Gazette has the following humorous reminiscence of the recent Agricultural Convention in Savannah:

A Long Journey. An aged negro named Julia Johnson, accompanied by her son, a young man twenty-four years of age, arrived in this city about 10 o'clock last night on the Michigan Southern railroad, having just come from Toledo.

Palmetto Leaves. A German school has been opened in Sumter.

Mrs. Ezekiel Dickson, of Mechanicsville, is dead.

Horse racing is all the go in Columbia just now.

The plumb trees in the vicinity of Aiken are budding out.

There are at present between four and five hundred visitors in Aiken.

Mr. James Hall was drowned in Broad River on the 4th inst. A colored boy was drowned at the same time.

The prisoners Rouse and Deane, under charge of arson, escaped from the Sheriff of Beaufort, on Tuesday last.

A Georgia paper says: Ex-Governor Bonham, of South Carolina, is making preparation to leave his native State and move to Atlanta.

George Lee, colored, a native of Worcester, Mass., has been elected Judge of the Superior Court of Charleston. He has practiced law two years.

It is understood, says the Columbia Phenix, that David Dudley Field, Esq., the eminent lawyer, has tendered his assistance to Messrs. Johnson and Stanbery, in the argument of the case of the South Carolina Ku Klux prisoners before the Supreme Court of the United States, in Washington. The hearing is set for Monday next.

A letter in the Christian Neighbor, dated Sumter, March 11, from Rev. S. J. Hill, whose wife is a granddaughter of Mrs. Dixon, says: "Grandma S. S. Dixon died suddenly on the 4th of March. She filled her place at the breakfast table. At dinner-time, she was found sitting in her chair in her room, her work in her lap; but her spirit was gone. Long years ago, she set her house in order. Few better women on earth than she was."

Peter's Pence. From the published official reports of last year's "Peter's Pence" which, every one knows, is a perpetual subscription in all countries in aid of the Holy See, it appears that North America gave about three millions of francs, or $600,000. In Europe Belgium stands at the head of the list, France having fallen behind. It is interesting to know that "Plus IX" continues to pay all those who served the Pontifical government before the revolution, and thus supports hundreds of families largely from the fund known as "Peter's Pence."

We cannot resist the temptation to tell a rather amusing incident which occurred in Savannah during the session of the recent Convention. The Convention was invited by Mr. Green, President of the Chamber of Commerce, to a party at his residence on the first evening of the session.

As a matter of course everybody went. Mr. Green lives in a splendid mansion, fitted up with the elegance of a prince. His large parlors were beautifully ornamented with stately, paintings, etc.

At one end of the large double parlor was a very fine mirror extending from floor to ceiling. One of our up-country delegates, after looking through the two parlors, thought he saw another parlor with a crowd in it, and concluded to walk in.

When he got near what he thought was the door he noticed a gentleman approaching him coming out the room, when he very politely stepped to one side to let the gentleman pass, but the approaching gentleman equally polite, stepped to the same side he did, when our up-country friend politely bowed at the same time, remarking, "I beg your pardon, sir."

His astonishment can be readily imagined, when his nose came in contact with the glass and a loud roar of laughter greeted him on every side. Our up-country friend quietly retired to one corner, saying he did not see anything to laugh at. If any gentleman desires to get an old-fashioned fight on his hands, all he has to do is to enquire of this delegate whether he made any "new acquaintances" in Savannah.

Beating One Thousand Dollars on Cutting Wood. On Monday the Hon. Jacob Sharp went into the Broadway Bank to deposit some money. He met there the Hon. Augustus Ivins, who was also depositing a little money. They got to talking about the weather. Jacob said when he was a boy he sawed wood in February, and Augustus said cutting wood was his best hold. He said he used to cut three cords in one day.

"Well, that's pretty steep," said Jacob. "You might take off two cords and then I might believe you."

"Not a stick, Jakey," replied Augustus. "Why, I could go out into the woods and cut two cords any day."

"Oh, no," replied Jacob, "not much. I know better than that."

"Yes, but I tell you that I can, and I'll bet on it, 100."

"Well, now, look here," said Gus. "I'll bet you a thousand dollars that you can't do it."

The Hon. Augustus Ivins took the Hon. Jacob Sharp up on the spot, and the arrangements were immediately considered. Within thirty days Mr. Ivins is to go into the woods in New Jersey not more than twenty-five miles from New York city and cut two cords of wood in one day.

The stakes were put in the hands of a black-whiskered man of medium height, who is a friend of both parties.

Killed with an Umbrella. Wm. P. Repsher died Tuesday morning in Camden, N. J., from injuries inflicted by John Armbruster during an altercation related to us in detail on Saturday, in Philadelphia. Repsher struck Armbruster, when the latter raised his umbrella either to fend off the blow or to strike, and the ferrule entered Repsher's face, close to his eye. The point is supposed to have entered his brain.

A hotel keeper at Millerton, N. Y., was going to a market and had made an unannounced call on his aged mother, to see if his disfigure was a good one. It was, she gave an scream, broke a blood vessel, and died in five minutes.

Wine Making in South Carolina.

About eight miles from Marion, on the line of the Wilmington, Columbia and Augusta railroad, is Mullins' Depot, the location of an enterprise not often met with in South Carolina. This is vineyard and wine press, owned by Dr. E. Vampill, a native of Poland, but for a number of years a resident of this State. The doctor has sixty acres of land under cultivation, planted in vines. His wine cellar is a long, low brick building, the floor of which is four feet below the surface of the earth. This building is 160 feet long by forty wide. It has no windows, but is furnished with light and air by a false roof over the junction of the roof proper, extending the entire length. Within these walls is a tight well calculated to make the heart of a man who loves the good things of this world leap within him. Ranged in long rows lying on their sides, with lead-colored bodies and red heads, are a host of immense hogsheads labeled, respectively, Sherry, Madeira, Concord Flowers, Port, Scuppernon, and Catawba. The cellar contains, at present, six thousand gallons of wine. The doctor's vineyard is now yielding three thousand gallons per annum, although only a small portion is old enough to bear fruit. When the whole of it becomes productive it will yield about 100,000 gallons yearly. It is to be hoped that Dr. Vampill's example will, before long, be largely followed in every section of the State. A Beautiful Experiment.

The following beautiful chemical experiment may easily be performed by a lady, to the great astonishment of a circle at her party. Take two or three leaves of red cabbage, cut them into small bits, put them into a basin, and pour a pint of boiling water on them; let it stand an hour, then pour off the liquid into a decanter. It will be of a fine blue color. Then take four wine glasses; into one put six drops of strong vinegar; into another six drops of solution of soda; into a third the same quantity of a strong solution of alum; and let the fourth glass remain empty. The glasses may be prepared some time before, and the few drops of colorless liquids that have been placed in them will not be noticed. Fill up the glasses from the decanter, and the liquid poured into the glass containing the acid will quickly become a beautiful red, that in the glass containing the soda will be a fine green; that poured into the empty one will remain unchanged. By adding a little vinegar to the green, it will immediately change to a red, and on adding a little solution of soda to the red it will assume a fine green; thus showing the action of acids and alkalies on vegetable blues.—The Methodist.

The Signal Service on Shore.

An instance of the value of the Signal Service weather prognostications is reported from California. Just prior to the late rain storm, Judge Hastings, of San Francisco, noting the prognostication, and knowing that a storm was impending, telegraphed to his son, in charge of his ranch in Salano county, to remove the cattle at once from the tules or intervals to the high lands. The order was obeyed, and the men barely succeeded in getting the last of the stock out of the marsh before the waters of the Sacramento broke over the banks and inundated the land to the depth of several feet. The information by the meteorological observations enabled the judge to save his herd, and prevent a loss of many thousand dollars.

A Real Fish and Bone Spirit.

In San Francisco, on Monday, Captain Elish Field Freeman was granted a divorce from his wife, Charlotte A. Freeman, on the ground of fraud in procuring the marriage. Freeman alleged that he was insane on the subject of Spiritualism before his marriage. He believed he navigated his ship under the spirit or an old pirate. He visited the defendant, afterwards his wife, who claimed to be a medium, to consult her whether the spirits were genuine. She assured him they were genuine, and said further, in two days he would see at the foot of his bed the woman who should be his wife. The medium herself appeared, and under the auspices of the spirits, he married her, much against his wish. Freeman is wealthy.

Murder in Florida.

We learned yesterday of a sad occurrence near Pollard. Some negroes of the place had a difficulty with some ruffians, and determined on revenge. They went down the river a short distance and lay in ambush for the ruffians. While waiting, a raft, which was not the one they were looking for, came down the river. The negroes fired into the crowd, killing one, a man named Scroggins immediately, and badly wounding three others. The party went back to Pollard, and at last succeeded in arresting five of the negroes. There was a strong disposition among the people of the community to hang the culprits, but law and order prevailed, and they are now in the hands of the law.—Pensacola Mail, 1st.
