the most conceited and wrong-headed. His way is the best way, his idea the right one, his will is law, and there must be no going behind his simple "thus saith Tod Caldwell, Governor of North Carolina."

Now to the eyes of the minions of Radicaldom, big and little, white, black, zebra and yellow, there is something awful and Jove like in the course and conduct of this mighty Governor. His mere nod shakes the flunkey world of carpet big and scallawag official and unofficial life from pole to pole, and not great Jupiter on Olympus, throwned in storm and lightning, with attendant gods doing his be heats and mortals trembling at his frown or elated at his smile, ever carried it with grander air or more magnificient mien. Great, great, great Caldwell! Mighty potentate, all-swaying ruler of the unwashed throng, terrible god, veiled in the splendors of thy pigmy Olympus, we cannot behold thee without getting a bad case of sore eyes, and we would thou wert like common mortals-like Judge Watts or Judge Tourgee, for instance-so that we might view thy High Mightiness with less danger.

But not every idol is worshipped of al men. Tod has his enemies as well as his lovers, and these enemies are the friends of constitutional freedom. They bow not down at the miserable Baal to which Radicals offer worship, They pollute not their lips with petitions to so false and inceuse to a divinity that hath to hedge itself about with the thunderous terrors of a partisan Supreme Court. They refuse utterly to recognize the "potent rod" of Burke's great statesman. There are those in North Carolina who laugh to scorn and deride with faunts and jeers his "grand, gloomy and peculiar" efforts to make himself a dictator and reign supreme over the million of better and wiser men than himself.

The latest fantastic trick that our mountebank Cromwell has tried to play before high heaven and his gaping party friends is in the matter of the appointments of new boards of directors for the Penitentiary and Insane Asylum. Under the outrageous decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Clark vs. Stanley, which Judge Moore virtually set aside in his decision in the public printing case of Ramsey and Brown, Caldwell thinks he has all power under heaven to make ap pointments to fill public offices, and hence he endeavors to oust the old and regular boards of directors for the two institutions named above. The first act in this drama, the effort to take the public printing from the person legally authorized to do the work for the State, was a complete flash in the pan, and recoiled upon his Accidency with laughable effect. But the poor, infatuated, imbecile creature of circumstances can not see how great a fiasco, he has made, but drives his wooden bead once more upon the stone-wall of law and right, to meet another disaster.

But there is another aspect of this matter. The public interests suffer while this lilliputian contest is being waged. Notice has been given that no more convicts can be received at the Penitentiary until "this cruel war is over ! ' Here the interests of justice and the public safety are brought to a standstill at the irate and irresponsible dictate of a stubbora Governor, who wantonly tramples on the laws of the State. People of North Carolina! con template the beauties of this situation and the amiable rule of this Radical party, that knows no law but the license of its sary. own sweet will Behold your Governor! See him tread in disdain upon every principle of law, justice and liberty, and make a mock of your elected representatives!-See the man who despises you, and lifts State whose Constitution and laws he of money, could—even it he didn't make swore to uphold! The man, the creature, a fortune at least have, what I fear the prepor is before you! Judge him!

LILESVILLE, ANSON COUNTY. [Correspondence of the Star.]

EDITOR STAR : Having frequently heard f Lilesville, and business recently calling me in that section. I "took a note" of the aspiring village, and now ask you to prent it."

It is situated in a rolling and somewhat picturesque region, some views from the adjacent hills and ridges presenting scenes which, to the eye of an artist, might form striking pictures.

The salubrity of the place is unquestionable, no such marshes and miasmatic valleys as are common along the railroad from Rockingham to Wilmington being tound west of the Pee Dec. A long-time resident of the place informed me that months old, with wool 16 inches long. ager and lever" were unknown. The water is pronounced by some to be equal to that of the mountain region of North Carolina.

The larming country immediately conpast few years, agriculture has not been remunerative. It is said that cotton from this vicinity commands higher prices than any short staple offered in the Wilmington market. A gentleman who was formerly in the cotton trade in Charleston says that he could always sell the Lilesville and Jones' Creek cotton there at same prices as the celebrated "Georgia uplands," which classes next best to "Orleans."

From what could be learned on a brief visit, Lilesville is destined to be the point of a very large trade. But it is not my purpose to " puff " the place, and from what I baye seen in the papers there seems to be enough of the " puffing and blowing " talent there for a place of ten times its size. And if, after speaking in all candor, as above, in praise of the place and its capacities and capabilities, I mention some faults and drawbacks, I hope my friends there will forgive

The season that tries children's soulsand bodies—is at hand. The cold, damp season of early Spring, with its penetrating breezes that chill the entire system and generate incipient croup, is already here, and it behooves every auxious paren to be on the alert it danger, and perhaps death, would be averted. Too many parents find their children's lives cut off by the want of a little care.

Croup always originates in a cold, and in most cases the cold is caused from exin most cases the cold is caused from exposure to dampness, either of the clothing or of atmosphere. In many cases the primary cause is insufficient or improper clothing. Especially is this so with little girls. On this point a great responsibility lies with the mothers, and when a child loses its life either from the wilful ignorance of its parents or the wilful following of a fashion that leads to the result, what is it but inviting death? Let mothers become strong in common sense and resolve to raise their children, not bury them. Let them remember, also, that though sickness may sometimes be called "sent from God" in the true sense, that which is forced upon a helpless child is nothing less than Horse that Stole a Lady's Chignon Thursday afternoon a young gentleman and lady were driving down Locust street in gallant style. The lady was dressed in the height of the fashion, and her chignon was of regulation size, and of this is our sad story: As they were dashing along, another steed came up behind, and, like some horses having a habit of nipping at everything before him, he made a nab at the lady's chignon and caught it in his teeth. Just then his driver spurred him up, and with a sudden dash be shot ahead, bearing the itl-fated chignon in his teeth. The lady screamed, and her beau, seeing the trouble, put the whip to his steed and dashed after the bearer of the chignon, whose driver, not seeing it in the horse's mouth, and thinking he was about to be passed, and that a race was on the carpet, plied the whap lustily; away they went, and as they passed from the reporter's view it was "nip tuck," but the chignon horse was a little ahead .- Des Moines

Women in the Pulpit-Earnest Movement by the St. Louis Ladies.

St. Louis, March 16. A largely attended meeting of ladies of the Methodist churches of this city was held here yesterday to discuss the plan in view for the admission of women to the pulpit as preachers. Reporters were ex cluded, but it has transpired that after two or three set speeches and a general discussion of the subject, a committee wa "Gaests," with the extract which we give appointed to draft a memorial to the Genbelow. The facts of the cradle rocking | eral Conference to meet soon at Brooklyn, are, so far as we are informed, quite cor- N. It is terrible to think of the agonies of a woman of civilization and refinement suffering under an attack of that dreadful disease, kleptomapia. An instance of heart-rending insanity took place in Bos-ton the other day. An elegantly dressed woman was detected in the very act of plagiarizing a pair of silk stockings, She started, turned pale, and burst into tears, suddenly conscious of her guilt, and then in the most agonizing manner besought. the proprietor to release her and offered him a $20 note for the stockings. The gentleman kindly reasoned with afflicted woman, and then, taking the price of the stockings, returned her the change for the $20 note. The poor woman disappeared and was heard of no more, although her bank note was, it was

ATMOSPHERIC POISON. The spring sun calls up something besides the flowers and grasses. It evolves from the damp earth and turbid rivers, stagnant pools and black morasses, the gaseous provocatives of disease. From the offal and garbage of unclean cities, too, it exhales an effluvia destructive of health and vigor. Periodic fevers virulence in various parts of the country, and there are complaints from all quarters of a singularly unhealthy spring. What is to be done in this emergency ! The answer is simple and to the point. Strengthen the body. Weakness predisposes the system to disease: Commence at once a course of the most genial tonics, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Be assured that the germs of epidemic and endemic fevers will never infect the physique that has been fortified and regulated with this glorious vegetable resterative. A moist atmosphere aggrevates dyspensia, and all diseases of a bilious type, and the sudden thermometrical changes common at this season, are a severe trial even to strong constitutions. There ds but one way of combatting these deleterious agencies, and that is by invigorating the body, and Imparting a healthy activity to all its functions. The only specific required for this purpose is Hostetter's Bitters. Of all vegetable tonics and alteratives, it is the purest and the best. Its medicinal ingredients in-
