A Handsome Present. We were shown, yesterday, two handsome miniature Knights of Pythias collars, a present from the Knights of Pythias of Richmond, Va., to Wm. A. Jobson, Esq., of this city, Grand Chancellor of the Order in North Carolina, and intended for his little twins, Damon and Pythias. The collars are made of crimson velvet, fringed with silver, adorned with silver tassels, with the words "Damon" and "Pythias" on the left lappel and secured in front with a shield bearing the letters "F. C. B." They constitute a beautiful and appropriate present and are worthly bestowed. The collars will be on exhibition at Heinberger's

Book Store during the coming week.

The Rain Storm Yesterday. One of the heaviest rain storms occurred in this city and vicinity yesterday afternoon that we have witnessed in a long time. The streets and side-walks were flooded to such an extent that it was almost impossible to pass. We have been wishing for rais for some time past, but the fear is now that we shall have loo much. The storm yesterday was accompanied by heavy thunder and most vivid flashes of lightning, but we have heard of no damage from the electric fluid.

We congratulate the afflicted there, that a rare opportunity is offered them and advise all needing his services to avail themselves of his visit. His stay here has been most gratifying to himself and beneficial to many that were afflicted.

Trial and Conviction of Tickner, the

We learn from Mr. V. D. Mseumber, who has just returned from Richmond, that F. G. Kidder alias F. G. K. Ticknor, charged with forgery, was tried and convicted in that city during the past week and sentenced to the penitentiary for four years. The most of our readers are familiar with this case. The man Ticknor, who was acting at the time as a Sewing Machine agent, was seen and recognized in this city, on the 6th of April last, as an individual who had forged a check on the 1st National Bank of Richmond some time previously and who was a fugitive from justice. He was thereupon arrested and confined in the city Guard House to await a requisition from the Governor of Virginia. On the 12th of April, a requisition having been made on Gov. Caldwell by Gov. Walker of Virginia for the body of the prisoner, and an order to that effect having been received from the former functionary, he was given in charge of Mr. Rogers, the officer detailed for the purpose, and taken to Richmond. While awaiting the requisition Mayor Martin received a letter from G. W. Blacknall, Esq., of the Yarbore' House, Raleigh, stating that this same man Ticknor had been carrying on his swindling operations in that quarter. He was a man of gentlemanly appearance, but as events have shown, of a most villainous nature. It will be some consolation to his victims to know that he is now receiving his just deserts.

To the Statue on the Soldiers' Monu-

[This Ode was delivered at the Anniversary Dinner of the Third Regiment Association on the 16th instant, in reply to the second regular

"OUR DEAD"-"Some of them dropped by the wayside, Some while on picket were shot, Some of them fell in the skirmleh, Some where the battle raged hot; Some of them died in the hospital, Nor father nor mother were there With blessings and with prayer; Some languished in Northern prisons, Wearing their lives away, Dying in captivity, Hoping, yet all in vain, Hoping to break the prison bars And breathe free air again; Yearning for wives and children, Yearning to be caressed, Or longing, with broken spirit, Longing to be at rest."

Erect upon a granite base He looks towards the glowing West; How stern and sad his noble face, How watchful !- tho' he stands at rest.

He seems to scan with steadfast gaze The foeman's dark'ning line of blue : Does he perceive across the haze The glancing bay'nets flashing through?

One hand with every clenched nerve Grips hard the gan o'er which he bends; The other hangs in graceful curve Which rounds the sinewy fingers' ends.

Hebold !-no carpet-knight is he, His mauly grace is Nature's own; In every feature one may see The light that's caught from battle alone.

His garments rough are old and worn, Hard used the shoes upon his feet, That belt and cartridge-box were borne In many a victory and retreat.

Upon this soldier's stalwart form No stars, no bars to mark his grade, And on his modest uniform Not ev'n an humble worsted braid. He's but a private!-All uuknown.

He gives his strength, his blood, his life, Content to fall, obscure, alone, Unheeded in the deadly strife.

—What flag, what State, his fealty claim?
—"C. S." upon his belting's plate,
"N. C." upon his cap, proclaim
The soldier of the "Old North State." - Oh, who stands here? Whose image

Instinct with life tho' cast in bronze ?-The type so true, so vivid is That every heart at once responds:

"I ought to know, I've seen that face Is fight, on march, by bivouse's flame, Tho' now I can't recall the place, Nor who he was, nor what his name. Yet sure, I know that shape, that head,

Like half-forgotten friends they seem; No doubt he's numbered with the dead, But I have seem him-'tis no dream.' O triumph of the sculptor's skill Which thus could strike the magic chord, And cause the Southe rnheart to thrill

And stir once more its mem'ries heard! This man of bronze, we know right; well.
We greet his grave, familiar face,
And thus, we do confess the spell Of GENIUS-king of time and space.

For in this wondrous work of art A form was giv'n by plastic hand To the IDEAL of our heart, The SOLDIER TYPE of Southern land ! And in this pile that towers above

And lifts its crest towards the sky Forever shine true woman's love And constant faith which ne'er can die. O soldier of perennial bronze Erect upon the granite gray, Stand at thy post, till from Death's bonds, Thy comrades burst, on Judgment Day! May 18th, 1872.

PROVIDE AGAINST DANGER. At this season all the great lines of travel begin to swarm with human beings intent on business or pleasure. Are these moving multitudes aware of the danger which ensues from drinking different varieties of water and breathing atmospheres to which their lungs are unaccustomed? Do they realize how impertant it is to be pre-armed with an antidote that will defend their systems from all the evil consequences of such changes and from all allments and disturbances which arise from the miasma se plentifully evolved from the soil at this period of the year! Such an antidote-certain in its protective operation and free from everything objectionable in its composition and flavor-has been for twenty years before the world. No instance can be adduced, during that period, in which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has failed as an acclimating medicine, or as a preventive of the bodily ills to which the undefended system is liable in unhealthy localities. A good oppetite, perfect digestion, a vigorous condition of the nervous system, func tional regularity, and a pure and active circulation, are the elements of health, and these signal blessings may be secured and perpetunted by the use of this powerful, yet harmless, vegetable tonic. Such is the experience of all who have ever taken it as & safeguard against the diseases which debility, irregularity and a morbid condition of the solids and fluids of the body are sure to invite. may 19-codlw Sun Wed Fri toll hashav
