FOR THE CAMPAIGNS.

In order to advance the cause of Political Reform, we will furnish the people with the Daily and Weekly editions of the MORNING STAR for any period not beyond December 1st, 1872, on the following cash terms:

DAILY EDITION: Clubs of 5 or more (each) 1 month, $0.50; 3 months, 1.00; 6 months, 1.75. WEEKLY EDITION: Clubs of 5 or more (each) 1 month, 25; 3 months, 85; 6 months, 1.50. For periods exceeding 1 month these are about half our regular subscription rates; but we are willing to work for cost if we can thereby aid in the redemption of our State and Country.

Those who wish to work for North Carolina and the Union should get up clubs for the STAR on the basis proposed. Address, W. H. BERNARD, Editor and Proprietor, Wilmington, N. C.

Work! work! work! from mountain to seashore, and the victory will be ours in both August and November.

IF.

If the people could not pay the interest on the old State debt, the principal of which was only $8,000,000, how can they pay the interest on the new debt of $25,000,000 added to this old debt?

If the Radical party deceived the people four years ago by making promises, which they never intended to fulfil and which they broke with wanton wickedness, how do they expect the people to sustain them in this election?

If Radicalism means roguery, robbery, public plundering and all the ills of rascally misgovernment, as some of the more candid of its partisans confess, how do its supporters count upon carrying the State in August?

If the Radical party can endorse Holden and his diabolical drumhead and thumbeek administration, to what villainy will they not stoop in order to perpetuate their rule and torture the good people of the State?

What have our people to expect at the hands of this Radical faction better than they have done? Have they evinced recently more honesty, more respectability or more consideration for the feelings, rights and liberties of the people than they did at first?

The Radical party is the same yesterday, to day and forever—only it will not last so long in anything save odious memory.

RADICAL CHIEFS AT VARIANCE.

Everywhere over the State Caldwell, Brogden & Co. have defended the suspension of the writ of Habeas Corpus. Everybody thought they represented the feelings and wishes of their party.

Which party has done more for the cause of education? Let us see. Here are the facts and figures. During their administration, for two years, the Republicans, so-called, spent for common schools only $38,981.86.

The Conservatives in one year, 1871, of their administration of the State Government, spent $175,000.

The Radicals while they were pouring out the money in the State Treasury with a lavish hand into the lap of thieves, could only give the grand cause of education thirty-eight thousand dollars.

The Conservatives, while they are hoarding the scanty resources of the State and making an honest use of them, yet find one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars with which to educate the poor of the State of both colors.

Which is the better friend of education, which sticks closer to the poor man's interests, the Radical or the Democratic Conservative party?

EDITORIAL CONVENTION.

The Raleigh News suggests a meeting of the Conservative editors of the State, to take place at Kittrell's Springs soon after the Baltimore Convention adjourns.

Maj. T. H. Blackball, the courteous and gentlemanly proprietor of the hotel at the Springs, has kindly extended to the press an invitation to the hospitalities of his house during the sessions of such convention.

The meeting would be a pleasant and healthful recreation during the "heated term," and would give those of us who desire it "a blowing spell" from the arduous labors of the campaign.

IBIBERY.

Swepson, Littlefield & Co. owned the Radical Legislature of 1868-'69. They bought it and paid cash down for it $341,000—that is they bought the Radical two-thirds of that body.

The same party now, has the impudence to ask the people of North Carolina to vote them into office again, so that they can carry on the same high-handed game of trading in the funds and credit of the State.

The honest people of the Old North State will repudiate this abominable party and all its acts.

THE GREAT ENDORSED.

Of the school money squandered by the Radicals $150,000 were wasted upon the special-tax bonds.

It is commonly believed that Holden, the mighty Impesched, the same immaculate who was endorsed by the Radical State Convention in April, received $30,000 for his services in this fraudulent investment of the children's money.

What do the people think of such a party and such proceedings?

Palmetto Leaves.

The Republican State Convention is to be held on the 21st of August.

Rev. E. T. Winkler, D. D., has resigned the pastoring of Citadel Square Baptist Church, of Charleston. He has accepted a call from Marion.

The editor of the Winnsboro News has a curious ear of corn. There are on the centre ear six distinct ears of corn, all of them being pretty well filled.

During the thunder storm in Charleston on Sunday night last a dwelling was struck by lightning and considerably damaged. The inmates escaped injury.

A heavy hail storm passed over Mr. J. H. Cathcart's plantation, five miles above Winnsboro, on Thursday night, which proved very destructive to the corn and cotton crops in that immediate vicinity.

During a severe thunder storm at Graham's Turnout, on the S. C. R. R., on the 18th of June, a negro man was struck by lightning and instantly killed.

Two of Capt. Graham's sons and a negro man were standing in ten feet of the man who was killed, all of whom escaped with a slight shock. A peculiar circumstance connected with the accident was that the skin was peeled off down the negro's back by the lightning.

Rather Personal.

Names which a Grant paper, the Elgin (Ill.) Gazette, calls an unfortunate person who wrote to the Chicago Tribune that Greeley stock was looking up in Elgin: 1. Irresponsible pup; 2. Ignorant black-guard; 3. Cowardly sneaking, garbaged contributor; 4. Common culprit; 5. Ignorant, illiterate, low lived scallawag; 6. Thief; 7. Sneaking skunk; 8. Poor, stupid fool; 9. Cowardly jackass; 10. Louse; 11. Whipped cur.

This vigorous writer may be rather crooked in his politics, but he exhibits a vigor and fecundity of language which ought to secure him a position on some metropolitan re-election journal.

Of Mr. Greeley's popularity with the Irish the Irish People says: "From the expressions of opinion that appear in the columns of the newspapers that reach us from every part of the Union—from the four points of the compass—it would appear that in view of the coming Presidential campaign, the almost universal feeling of Irish citizenship is in favor of Horace Greeley. He may now be said to be emphatically the favorite candidate of most Irish citizens."

Toomba's Big Job of Chalking Democratic Backs.

Extract from Ben. Hill's Atlanta Speech. The distinguished gentleman who addressed you last night (General Toomba) said he was glad this test of party fidelity had come. He was now going to winnow the Greeley chaff from the true Democratic wheat, and was going to chalk the true Democrats on the back and kick the others out. Well, I will not quarrel with this true and valiant gentleman; but I will suggest a bargain for his ease and benefit. If he will postpone his chalking division of his labors for sixty days, I think he will find in Georgia only three backs to chalk, and they will be so sick as to be utterly indifferent. [Repeated rounds of laughter and applause.] If he will only forbear to begin the kicking process for even a much less period he will find the undertaking so huge he will reconsider his rash resolve and abandon the job. If he will not so abandon it, he will illustrate the wisdom and courage of a certain wise animal, who, seeing the engine and train coming toward him under full speed, bravely planted himself on the track, threw his tail in the air, pawed the ground with his two feet, and loudly bellowed out, "If that traitorous and cowardly Greeley engine ran against him he would butt it off the track." [Great laughter.]

The last I saw of that animal he was badly chalked. [Renewed laughter.] In the same breath our friend said "he would with great pleasure vote for the devil or John Brown's ghost before he would vote for either Greeley or Grant." How harmoniously men's ideas with their feelings unconsciously flow! On his line of passion and hate I think the devil for President and John Brown's ghost for Vice President would be the very best ticket he could nominate. [Vociferous applause.] On that line our poor, deluded South has been carried lower and lower, and still lower, until I know of no lower place save the dominions of our friend's favorite candidate. [Sensation and applause.] If the gentleman's candidate should be elected I pray that he may not find a place in that administration.

Kick out, indeed! Kick out New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana; all the States but Delaware! Kick out Hendricks, and Pendleton, and Seymour, and Hoffman, and Adams, and all the great life-long leaders of the Democratic party except three latter-borns in Georgia.

A Jealous Friend's Attempt to Murder a Woman.

Captain Gus. Fowler, commander of the steamer Idlewild, gives the Evansville Journal the particulars of a most shocking accident that occurred at Shawneetown on Thursday night last. While Mlle. Celestine, the celebrated rope walker, connected with Kean & Co.'s combination troupe, was performing her daring act of ascending a tight rope from the ground to the top of the centre pole, and when she was within a few feet of the pole, the rope suddenly gave way, precipitating her to the ground, a distance of about forty feet, by which she sustained fearful, perhaps fatal, injuries. One of her thighs was broken in three places; one of her arms and her jaw-bone was broken, and nearly all her teeth were knocked out. She was taken up more dead than alive, and the best surgical aid was rendered her, but grave doubts are entertained of her recovery. Upon examination, it was discovered that the rope near the ground had been hollowed out, leaving only a few threads on the surface, which readily parted by the great strain and the weight to which it was subjected. The author of the dastardly act is not known, though the victim suspected one of the company, who was jealous of her, but the other members of the company think her suspicions were not well founded. The utmost indignation prevailed among the citizens of Shawneetown at the cowardly act, and if the perpetrator is discovered there is but little doubt he will have short shrift.

Mrs. Fair.

Laura Fair's case is attended with remarkable fatalities. Since her conviction her counsel, Eliza Cooke, has died; her prosecutor, Henry Byrne, has died; Judge Sprague, who granted her a new trial, has died; a son of Mr. Chittenden, who was a witness against her, has died; and now her mother is dangerously ill.
