- Southerner notes on Tarboro: Tarboro of to-day can scarcely be compared to Tarboro twelve months since in general appearance, so great has been the improve-ments made during that time. ——Every citizen must feel a pride in the energy and enterprise being displayed by some of our people in the erection of handsome build--No less than four large two story brick stores are in process of construcment to any place. — The fine iron front double building of Judge Howard and Wm. S. Battle, Esq., is a magnificent specimen of architecture, grand in its proportions and beautiful in symmetry. — The beautiful store of Messrs. Pender, Gatlin & Co., already described in these columns, is near ly completed. —Mr. H. D. Teel is busi-ly engaged in laying the foundation of his establishment near the Court House. —Mr. J. B. Coffield is also hurrying forward his preparations and will soon be hard at work upon his proposed building. — The additions made by Mr. Weddell upon the fronts of the stores occupied by Messrs. Alsop, Williams and Spraigns is also a marked improvement, and adds no little to the appearance of that portion of Main street.—Other improvements we under stand, are in contemplation by various parties—and thus the onward march of progress takes its way in our little city.
