

NATIONAL REFORM TICKET!

FOR PRESIDENT: Horace Greeley, OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT: B. Gratz Brown, OF MISSOURI.

ELECTORAL TICKET.

STATE AT LARGE. THOMAS J. JARVIS, Of Tyrrell, E. W. POUL, Of Johnston.

FOR THE DISTRICTS: 1st—OCTAVIUS COKE, of Chowan. 2d—SWIFT GALLOWAY, of Greene. 3d—T. C. FULLER, of Cumberland. 4th—H. A. LONDON, JR., of Chatham. 5th—DAVID F. CALDWELL, of Guilford. 6th—W. L. STEELE, of Richmond. 7th—F. B. McDOWELL, of Iredeell. 8th—THOS. D. JOHNSON, of Buncombe.

MR. GREELEY'S SWINGING ROUND THE CIRCLE.

The swinging exercise will help our national farmer and philosopher. Lately his business has been too sedentary. This tour will give him scope and air and all the free, fresh and healthy concomitants thereof.

Then, the candidate will be brought face to face with many of his future constituents whom it will be well to know.

The people—the honest, hardworking, non-political, non-sensational, generous-hearted people of America love the alleged bluntness and directness of old Horace. Many, it is true, once bitterly opposed his views.

Some perhaps hated the man on account of them. The dress has been separated from the pure gold by a severe refining process. Horace Greeley to-day stands before the people not as a Republican politician, not as a Democratic neophyte. He speaks for reform, for true democracy and true republicanism, for peace, reconciliation, fraternity.

Let the bluff, hale and honest old man "swing around the circle and see the people whom he loves and lives for.

WHAT WILL HE DO WITH IT? Sherman is to be closeted with Grant on his arrival at Washington, and they are to concoct some sort of plan for managing the Red campaign.

The great question now with Grant, after "Addition, Division and Silence," is how to undo Mr. Broadbrim's unwise policy which is butchering up the people on the frontier.

Will Mr. Grant give the redskins a few more of Phil Sheridan's Piegian vegetable Indian pills? The problem is "What will he do with it?"

The arrival in New York Tuesday of six hundred Mormons, single men and single women, demonstrates how fast error unopposed grows. The crying shame of our civilization is Mormonism. It is a disgrace to our Government that it has so long tolerated such monstrous violations of the moral and the municipal law.

It should be extirpated by a strong hand.

Frenchmen are prone to get into scrapes. Edmund About has gone and got himself arrested by the Germans at Strasburg for writing bitter diatribes against them as a people. He will have plenty of time for reflection within the grim walls of a Strasburg prison. We reprobate the despotism which makes a martyr of About.

The condition of the cotton crop is better in North Carolina than in any Southern State. We have had no material losses from insects, though drought has caused some falling off in localities.

One of the largest political demonstrations witnessed in Titusville, Pa., came off at the Opera House last Friday evening. Large delegations came in from the adjoining towns, and a special train from Oil City brought hundreds from Pennsylvania, and other towns along the Erie.

After perfecting the organization of the meeting, speeches were made by the Hon. C. B. Buckalew, the Hon. Daniel Kalbfleiter, the Hon. Wm. Hardey, and the Hon. Samuel Smith.

Gov. Venable, of West Virginia, writes to the Greeley and Brown Club of Christietown, West Virginia, declining to speak upon the ground of fatigue, but adding: "I trust that my declaration will add to the interest and friendship to you and be construed into unkindness to you or a want of sympathy with the objects for which you are contending."

TIMELY TOPICS.

The National Life Boat Institute of England maintains a fleet of over 200,000 a fleet of two hundred and thirty-five serviceable boats. Eight hundred and eighty-two lives were saved in the past twelve months. A London paper gives us some particulars concerning the life boats. The crew of a life boat generally consists of thirteen men, ten at the oar, one bowman, and the coxswain, and his assistant. Of these only the two latter have a regular salary, the others receive a reward for each time of going out, viz., 11s by night and 10s by day, besides a small sum for practices. The men when wanted are called together by two cannon shots by night and a flag by day, and a reward is given to any one who may bring news of a wreck to the station. The boat is always kept ready for use on her carriage, and when needed is drawn down to the sea by a strong team of horses, turned round, filled with her complement of men, backed into the water, and at the word of the coxswain, who watches for a favorable moment, runs sharply, bow foremost, into the surf, the men pulling even before the boat is fairly off the carriage.

There is a recent decision of Acting Secretary Richardson concerning shippers and importers, to which we directed attention as a Timely Topic. He has decided in relation to the entry of goods under the tariff act of June 6th, 1872, which remained on shipboard on the 1st day of August, when said act took effect, that goods in port on the incoming of the 1st of August, and not bonded or entered prior to that time, are not entitled to enter under said act, but must be charged with the rate of duty in force prior to said date of August 1st. This decision is of importance to importers and shippers. The collectors of customs are directed to conform their action to it.

Subscribers to the New York Tribune throughout the country complain that they cannot get their papers, and that copies of the New York Times, Grant's own organ, are sent to them. Sometimes the packages are broken open by postal agents on the route and copies of Grant's Blower slipped in. This is against the law and is likewise disgraceful.

This is verily an age of dash. A Memphis paper feeds its readers daily with "Morsels of Lightning," and the poor creatures swallow their electric food with ne'er a demurrer or Appeal to higher culinary authority. Even an Avalanche can not arouse such a torpid people.

POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS.

—Every time the Tribune opens its mouth the Times cries, "Idle Slanders."

—Senator Carl Schurz will address the Liberals at Pittsburg, Pa., on the 23rd inst.

—The Lancaster (Pa.) Volksfreund is another staunch German paper that refuses to swallow Hartman and his rings.

—Senator Davis, of West Virginia, in a letter, considers that State certain for Greeley by from 8,000 to 12,000 majority.

—Governor Walker, of Virginia, spoke for over an hour Monday night at the large Democratic mass meeting in Philadelphia.

—The election in Texas will run through four days—the 6th, 7th and 8th November. A chance for "early and often" voting.

—Gen. Kemper made an eloquent appeal for Greeley and Brown at Lynchburg Saturday night, to a large and enthusiastic audience.

—The Western papers which are claiming New York for Grant can get a bet that she will give Greeley plump 50,000 majority by calling at the office of the Troy Times.

—A Radical orator in Detroit complimented a young mother upon her "fine Grant baby," when she replied that he probably came to that conclusion from seeing the child have a bottle.

—There are some honest Grant papers. Here is what one of the honest sort—the Galveston Bulletin—says of Grant's chances in Texas: "The Grant party might as well call the coroner to hold an inquest on its remains in this State."

PROMINENT PERSONALS.

—"Isles of the Amazon" is the title of Joaquin Miller's new poem.

—Professor John Tyndall's latest work is "Contributions to Molecular Physics."

—Jules Favre will favor France and the world with his "Souvenirs Personals."

—Sir Charles Dilke has purchased "Notes and Queries," and engaged the services of Doran as editor.

—Mr. Stanley has selected the modest title, "How I Found Livingstone," for his forthcoming book.

—Moltke's History of the Franco-Prussian war, is reviewed at length by the Berlin correspondent of the Herald.

—The title of the Novel on which Sir E. Bulwer Lytton is engaged is "Kecelm Chillingly; His Adventures and Opinions."

—An Irishman, distinguished in politics, is about to publish his "Opinions, Life, Conversations and Eloquence of Daniel O'Connell."

—Hon. Marcus D. L. Lane, Judge of the Superior Court of Cumberland county, Me., died in Portland Monday, of typhoid fever, aged twenty-seven.

—Rochfort's "History of the Lower Empire," as it pleases him to call his book on the history of Louis Napoleon's second Empire, will appear next Spring at Brussels, in six volumes.

BUGLE BLASTS FOR GREELEY.

Gumbetta tells Thiers that he will not be ready to take the reins of Government for five years yet. The old philosopher-President tells the young statesman-orator in reply, that he, Thiers, prefers Prince Napoleon to any other candidate, for the reason that "Pion-Pion" is allied by marriage to Victor Emmanuel, hates the Jesuits and offers guarantees in case of war.

PALMETTO LEAVES.

Gov. Scott is quite sick at his residence in Columbia.

Mr. Joshua Burie, a veteran Charleston printer, died on Monday morning.

The Columbia Union says: An unusual amount of bilious fever is reported from the counties along the line of the Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta Railroad.

Mrs. A. Langer, of Charleston, fell through an opening in the second story of her husband's new store on Monday morning, a distance of twelve feet, and fractured her leg. Wound not serious.

The Columbia Phoenix of Monday says: Mr. Robert Whitlock, the young man who accidentally shot himself a few days ago at Whitlock's saw mill, died yesterday morning, about 6 o'clock. He is said to have been an energetic, intelligent and affable youth, and his demise cannot but be regretted by all who knew him.

STAR BEAMS.

Mr. Richard Moyer, of Mitchell county, Ga., killed twenty-four rattlesnakes under one log last week. The father of the family measured six feet in length.

A colored man, named James Hendley, living near Winchester, Miss., was killed the other day, on account of his favoring Greeley's election. He was a prominent politician in his neighborhood.

Sad Accident—A Little Colored Girl Killed by her Neck Being Broken.

Blanche Estelle, aged about three years, the daughter of Robert Clarke, a well known and respectable colored man residing on Lombard street, came to her death yesterday afternoon by a sad and singular accident. It appears that she was picking up some clothes from the line which was stretched from the corner of the house to an old cupboard, when her little brother caught hold of the line to swing on it, causing the enbroad to fall on the little girl's neck, breaking it and causing death instantly. Dr. Lassiter was called in as soon as the accident occurred, but as soon as he came pronounced that life was extinct.—Petersburg Index.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Hon. B. F. Perry, in accepting the Democratic nomination for Congress for the Fourth District, thus alludes to national affairs:

In accepting the nomination now tendered me, it is proper that I should state all my feelings and principles are in sympathy with that great national party, whose purpose is reconciliation between the two sections of our country, and two races which live in the Southern States; and whose aim is, under the leadership of Horace Greeley, to purge the government of its corruptions, restore republican principles, and promote the peace and prosperity of all classes and sections. The Radical party, North and South, see and know that their success depends on keeping up the hatred of the North to the South, and the hatred of the colored race to the white race. When these hatreds and prejudices are crushed out, the Radical party will lose their ascendancy in the government. The colored people will no longer be the political slaves of selfish and designing office seekers and holders, who are basely and most treacherously using them for their own promotion and plunder. The interests and rights of the colored people have been sacrificed and betrayed by their pretended friends and guardians, the carpet-baggers and scalawags! The moneys appropriated for the education of their children have been stolen and squandered! The free schools are closed! The hundreds of thousands of dollars appropriated to purchase for them homes have gone the same way, to enrich scoundrels and leave them homeless and houseless! Their taxes have been increased, until the burden is oppressive and intolerable! It is a well-known fact in political economy that the laboring classes have ultimately to pay the price of the goods, and the consumer restores the tax. So the tax on lands and personal property causes the owner to charge higher rents and pay less for labor.

The two best and sincerest friends the colored people ever had are Horace Greeley and Charles Sumner. These gentlemen have urged the colored people not to antagonize themselves, as a race, to the white people; but vote independently and for honest and intelligent men. Their political rights are secured by constitutional amendments, and they have nothing to fear except the bad men they put in office, and who falsely tell them that there is danger in voting for confiding in their former masters and friends.

How any one, who loves his State and values civil liberty, can prefer General Grant to Horace Greeley, is strange, passing strange. In time of profound peace General Grant issued his proclamation, ordering the people to disperse and return to their homes in certain counties. They were at home at that very time, and no disturbance had taken place for months previous. The civil authorities were not resisted, and were capable of making any and all arrests required. But notwithstanding all this, the President, immediately after his proclamation, sent his military into seven or eight counties, and made arrests without warrant, and the persons arrested, innocent and guilty, were hurried off to jail, and the sacred writ of habeas corpus denied them.

The Philadelphia Press charges that under Hartman's administration as Auditor General, one corporation, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, has paid some three hundred and sixty-four thousand dollars less than the laws require; that the same corporation is deficient to a considerable amount in the taxes due from it on dividends or capital stock, and that during the whole of Hartman's term it has paid the State absolutely nothing of the taxes due on its loans or funded debt; that the Northern Central Railroad Company is in the same condition, only far worse, the amount withheld being greatly larger. The Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, according to the same figuring, owes the State about half a million, a large part of it having no reference to the tonnage tax at all. The Press doesn't charge anything criminal in this connection, but deals largely in the suggestive veri under the guise of wishing Hartman safely out of the matter. It adds: It is enough that he has been clearly convicted of sharing with the State Treasurer and a broker the profits arising from dishonest speculations with the people's money, and, worse yet, profits resulting from the purchase, through an intermediary, of State loans, and their sale at an advance to the Sinking Fund, of which himself and the Treasurer are ex officio commissioners. We do not wish, therefore, to be obliged to believe him guilty of intentionally aiding to rob the Treasury of several millions outright. For the honor of the State, let us have at least some plausible explanation.

THE CITIZENS OF HUDSON TURNED out in large numbers last Friday evening to listen to an address by the Hon. James S. Thayer. After an extended discussion of the questions at issue, the speaker thus spoke of the higher moral questions which enter into the present canvass, his words producing the most marked expressions of approval:

There is one aspect in the present political canvass that is not presented in the ordinary contests between parties. That aspect appears only when great changes occur in the history of a country—changes that reach in and affect all the conditions of society—moral, social and political. When, during a revolutionary period, these depths are sounded, the bright and the dark phases of human nature and character are revealed in sad and disheartening contrasts. It is during these epochs, which by their example and admonition become historic, we note the power of men to do good, and their measureless capacity for doing evil, for at such a time they invoke as a sanction for their misdeeds the sacred names of liberty and religion. Rarely in the history of our race have these contrasts been so strikingly developed as at the present moment. Seldom has so much that is wise and good and beneficent been exhibited, and not often have wickedness and depravity so rank and offensive been displayed. If anything a nation can do will bring down "the primal, eldest curse upon it," ours would seem to provoke it. Wise, practical and patriotic men, with established political relations, and holding high positions in their respective parties, comprehend and acquiesce in this new alliance for the common good.

Of Lloyd Garrison, Wendell Phillips and Gerrit Smith, the Abolition Triumvirate, Mr. Thayer says: They are struggling to uphold the outspread, craven wing of hate and passion, but it droops. The dreary shadows beneath which these malignants are grouped grows less.

Another symbol is rising and unfolding, and far and near the people hail and welcome it, and are flocking within its folds the white-winged messenger of peace. Warm hearts have gathered there and strong hands are

UNITED, AND THE STRENGTH AND COURAGE OF THE MUSTERING HOSTS THAT ARE HEAVING IT UPWARD AND ONWARD WILL NOT FAIL OR FALTER AT EVERY GUST OF PASSION, EVERY WILD SURGE OF WRATH, SUBSIDES, AND THE SWEET AND GENTLE AIR OF HEAVEN PERVADES AND ENCOMPASSES THE WHOLE LAND.

These implacables may denounce the Cincinnati platform and candidates "to the top of their bent." They may rail at Greeley and Sumner and Brown and Schurz and Trumbull, and all the men who stood on the ground and toiled in the field and gathered in the harvest, men who by their ability and skill organized and directed the great political party which worked out the practical results that have been accomplished, while these theorists and abstractionists were in the clouds of speculation, floating about on the wings of a "sacred animosity"—saintly and vainglorious, and during the long struggle never condescending to touch the earth to deal a well-aimed blow in the face of the enemy—their quivers always full, their bows always twanging, but their arrows harmless, except to darken the air. They aimed too high. They may revile Liberal Republicans, taunt them for their union with the Democratic party, which, in their choice language, "was born of the devil," "now only fit for the bottomless pit," "use their very words, and they are familiar phrases coming from this source, for these are the very men who denounce the Constitution of your fathers as a "league with death and a covenant with hell." But these words frighten none now. They pass by as the idle wind. Their charges are so utterly baseless, their declarations so extravagant, they cannot impose upon the credulity of the most ignorant. In what category of folly or falsehood shall we class men who utter such senseless jargon and put forth such preposterous assertions as these: "Vote for Greeley and Brown and you vote to pay the Rebel debt," "to pension the Rebel soldiers," and "deprive the negroes of their civil and political rights." If you ransack this world and the one below can you parallel the atrocity of the sentiment that calls upon the negroes, in the event of the election of Greeley, "to concentrate, hide their property, and prepare to defend themselves." The truth is, these revilers are concoited as they are intolerant and bigoted, pretensions in words, abounding in all the set phrases of benevolence and charity, but never approaching the classes that need aid and sympathy sufficiently near to do them any good. They have always believed that they were especially chosen to bear the ark of all reforms in politics and in morals, and that they had only to march a few times around an iniquity, sound their trumpets, and, like the walls of Jericho, it would all fall to the ground. But they have received no such Divine commission. But they may as well face about and seek some other arena, for they are nothing unless combative. The men of this generation have done with them, now and forever. We want peace, no agitation; good will, not discord; kindness, not asperity; a complete and final settlement of all the difficulties between the sections, and a speedy return to the constitutional methods of administering the Government. The time is propitious; we brook no delay. The grand combination of Democrats and Liberal Republicans is complete, enduring, and solid as adamant. "Whosoever shall fall upon that stone, shall be broken, but on whomsoever it shall fall it will grind him to powder."

We copy portions of the able speech of Mr. O'Connor, of Charleston, delivered at the Democratic Liberal State Convention at Worcester, Mass., last week:

The dark chasm which was opened by the second revolution through the side and centre of the republic has been stormed, but not entirely closed. From its deep and dark abyss there still rise the vapors of malignant passion, and o'er its brink still hovers the demon of spite and hate. His quiver is yet loaded with the arrows of wrongs.
