NOT SATISFACTORY.

Mr. Oakes Ames denies that he bribed members of Congress. Well, suppose that he did not, and nobody else did, how does he account for the fact that he and the managers of the road charged for construction more than the actual cost, making a clear According to official statistics, Paris resteal of $50,000,000? This little item cannot be wiped out with a negative. Mr. Ames, a sworn member of Congress, the moving spirit in the Credit Mobiler, enters into a conspiracy to defraud the people of the United States out of $50,000,000. He and every member of Congress, who received any of the proceeds of that infamous job, are not only bribed but perjured. The Credit Mobiler was a swindle from its conceptiona scheme to build the road at the public cost, and steal all they could

The denial of a man who would and did remain silent-not silent only, but supporting and using his influence to secure the support of others, as a member of Congress, to this questionable scheme-is not worth the paper on which it is written. His oath has no more value than that of an impeached witness. There stands the fact of fraud on the people in the cost of the road, the fact that by corrupt legislation the claim of the Government was placed as a secondary consideration, and beyond possible payment, thus stealing the whole value of the road. Mr. Oakes Ames knew all about this, and the plan by which it was done; and yet he would have the people believe that he bribed nobody. If he did not it was be cause there were so many Congressmen directly interested in the game that there was no need of more votes. The man who will perjure himself and prostitute his functions as a public servant to enrich himself and friends will lie, and swear to his lie, to cover his iniquity.

The evidence is strong against Mr. Oakes Ames. His own letters show it; the testimony of parties who were interested in his schemes shows it. That there may be some errors of detail nobody denies, but that the charges against Ames and his accomplices are substantially true every unprejudiced mind must admit.

"THE HEATHEN CHINEE."

Within a few years the Chinese have been building up a steam navy, and now possess twenty steamships adapted for war purposes. This fleet was originally designed to suppress piracy in in the Chinese waters, and from two hundred to eight hundred tons. These steamers were built in China, and are manned and officered by Chinese. The Government, however, has recently resolved to increase the size of the war vessels, and a short time since a frigate of three thousand tons, built by Chinese workmen, was successfully launched. The frigate is to be armed with Krupp's powerful improved guns, and other vessels of a similar class are said to be building.

The Chinese are also about to commence the construction of iron-clads, and an experienced architect from Europe is on his way to draw the designs for and superintend the building of iron-clad frigates. The Chinese navy is armed by picked seamen and by marines trained under foreign drill instructors. The fighting men are armed with improved new rifles, der of the New York Herald."

and the guns on the vessels are made and mounted in the modern style. Experiments in the use of torpedoes are also in progress.

These warlike preparations, it is surmised, have some connection with an attack upon Japan at the first convenient opportunity. In case the threatened war between Corea and Japan should break out, it is believed that China will aid the former country. China, it is stated, views with jealousy the alliances that Japan is now making with the western powers, and is determined to be provided with a modern navy and with all the recent apparatus of war in case of an emergency. It is admitted on all hands that a naval war with China would not now be a fight against clumsy wooden junks. And it will be seen that it is not only "for ways that are dark and tricks that are vain" that the "Heathen Chinee is peculiar."

TIMELY TOPICS.

The Western Celt, published in St. Louis, Mo., pays this tribute to the Liberal candidate : "When we threw up Grant, we did so because we felt that Greeley was a better friend to our countrymen than Grant. Nor shall we ever repent the step we have taken. We feel a pride in being the conscientious | dent supporter of Grant, is out flat-footed champion of a man whom we know to have | for Greeley. stood up for our country and our race. In the language of a fellow-countryman, we feel that Horace Greeley is, of all Americans, the best friend Ireland ever had. In 1854, when Henry Wilson, in the city of Philadelphia, was Chairman of a Know-Nothing Committee whose text was, No Irish, Germans, French, or other foreigners need apply, Horace Greeley was receiving the Irish emigrants on the shores of America with a 'cead mille failthe.'" presents one-twentieth of the total importation of the United-States. During a period of eight years, from 1863 to 1872, the merchandise received from Paris amounted to $219,190,691. In 1869 it reached the sum of $30,103,787, but owing to the events of the last two years, it fell in 1870 to $26,-696,463, and in 1872 to $25,975,061. On the other hand, the first quarter of the current year shows a very lively revival of affairs. From the 1st of January to the 31st of March, last, the importations were $11, 138,746, which promises for the full year a total amount of not less than forty millions

General William Birney, of Florida, son of the old-time Abolitionist candidate for the Presidency, has written a strong letter. giving the reasons which compel him to take sides against Grant and in favor of Greeley. He has resided in Florida since the war, and has seen enough of the disastrous working of carpet-bag rule to convince him of the necessity of overthrowing the corrupt organization which fosters and sustains it. In many counties, says General Birney, the taxation amounts to the entire rental of the property. Seven years the stage until next spring. rule of these extravagant gentlemen is as much as any State can afford to endure in the interests of loyalty and Grantism.

One of the Washington fire companies owns a remarkable dog. He is of the Newfoundland breed, large and heavily built. His coat is full and shaggy, and of a very dark brown. Whenever an alarm of fire is sounded, the dog listens attentively for a moment until the number of bells indicates the locality. He rushes, barking furiously. to the stable of the horses, which is the basement of the engine-house, and by the time he gets there the horses are out, and he takes his position at their head and runs to the engine. When it starts he keeps just ahead, turning all the corners correctly and barking time to the ringing of the bell.

A young lady of Bamberg, South Caro lina, has cultivated twenty-two acres of cotton during the past spring and summer. with no other assistance than one negro girl, whom she hired for the year for fiftysix dollars. The young lady did the liveing, while the girl did the ploughing. The ground was manured with four tons of Wando fertilizer, and, it is estimated, will yield twelve bales of cotton. In addition to the cotton the young lady will make an abundance of corn, peas and tomatoes, and enough sugar and syrup to last her for three years. She is only nineteen years of age, and this is her first attempt to make a crop.

The Minneapolis (Minn.) Evening Times says: "Mr. Greeley will receive in this State substantially the whole of the Democratic vote, and nearer one-third than onequarter of the 'Republican' vote, as it has been heretofore called. The Germans are the vessels are of small size, varying for him to a man; the Scandinavians are coming to his support every day in altogether unexpected numbers; the Irish are three to one for him, and no one nationality, as such, can be said to be opposed to

> The introduction of torpedoes into modern warfare has evoked much effort in the way of methods for counteracting their agency. It is suggested that if the bottoms of vessels most exposed to torpedoes be constructed with double cells, the lower one being filled with water; this would act as a buffer, and distribute the blow of concussion and render it less injurious to the fabric of the vessel.

The memory of James Gordon Bennett, Sr., is to be preserved by the erection of a handsome monument in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, to cost near $200,000. The shaft, of white marble, is to be supported by a base elaborately sculptured with symby a base elaborately sculptured with symbols of journalism. #### POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS.

- Eight thousand colored voters is the number now set down as members of the Greeley and Brown clubs in Maryland.

- Only seven out of three hundred German voters in Oconto, Wis., are for Grant. That proportion will never carry the election.

- Said an old blade, delegate to the Pittsburg convention: "We do not propose to shake hands, but to shake our fists across the bloody chasm."

- Senator Chandler says there are no Liberals in Michigan, yet a Greeley and Brown Club numbering 149 members has been organized in the little village of Hartland in that State.

- In Montana the Democratic Liberal victory is complete for Congressman. Last year the Republican majority was 413. This year the Democrats carry the territory by 319-a gain of 732.

- Gen. Henry Bertram, commander of the famous 20th Wisconsin infantry is President of the Oak Grove, Dodge county, Greeley Club. He was formerly a Republican, but like the great mass of German Republicans, he supports the Liberal

- A son of the late Joshua R. Giddings, the life-long Abolitionist, is Chairman of the Liberal Republican Committee of Ashtabula county, Ohio. He has enrolled the names of more than a thousand Liberals in Ashtabula, which is one of the strongest Republican counties in Gen. Garfield's District.

-The following gentlemen will speak in Pennsylvania during the present week: Ex-Gov. Seymour and Gov. Hoffman of New York, Senator A. G. Thurman and the Hon. Geo. H. Pendleton of Ohio, The Hon. J. B. Beck of Kentucky, the Hon. John B. Stockton of New Jersey, Senator Trumbull, and the Hon. John A. McClernand of Illinois, Senator Schurz of Missouri, and Gen. Banks of Massachusetts.

- Grant's Straight-outs have a hard time of it. They expend the Renomination funds liberally to get up conventions and nominate candidates, but in some unaccountable way the nominees persist in always resigning. It was on Thursday last that 15 doughty Bourbons, with books well stiffened with Senator Morton's greenbacks, met at Indianapolis and nominated with much flourish a "Pure Democratic" ticket with Mr. A. P. Egerton for Governor. The gentleman thus doubtfully honored repudiates with disgust all connection with the movement and will not allow his name to be used by the malcontents.

A Mysterious Death. The Jacksonville (Fla.) Union, of the 18th inst., has the following account of the mysterious death of a former citizen of Charleston: "Early last Tuesday morning it was learned that the body of Mr. John T. Henery had been found floating in the St. John's River, near the railroad wharf, with the whole of his face blown in and a large hole through the top of his head.

Mr. Henery and family—consisting of a wife and three daughters-came to this city three years ago from Charleston, S. C., where he had spent about twenty-five years of his life. Mr. Henerey was a native of Beaufort, S. C., and was about forty-five years of age.

On Monday morning last the deceased left his home in Lavilla about 4 o'clock, taking with him his Spencer rifle, pistol and cartridges. He said nothing to his family, and they thought that he was going to his farm across the river, as was often his custom. Nothing more was heard or seen of him until Tuesday morning, when his floating body was discovered by the mate of the schooner Guy R. Phelps, then moored to the railroad wharf. Upon the discovery of the corpse, it was hauled upon some steps leading to the wharf by Joseph Marzyck, of this city, and others.

About 5 o'clock Monday morning a man's hat, coat and gun had been found upon a piece of timber which projected over the river from a pile of lumber on the wharf, by the mate of the schooner H. A. Hunt, also moored at the same wharf. Connecting all the above facts, it was the universal conclusion that the life of Mr. Henerey had been taken by his own

At the Liberal meeting at Brooklyn, on Wednesday night, at which it is said there was not less than 40,000 people present, W. U. Saunders, colored, of Baltimore, was loudly called for. He came forward, and, speaking particularly upon the political Sheetings and Yarns.

tendencies of his race, said: "I am here to show that there are some colored men who understand that this is, or should be, a government of the people, and not such a centralized despotism as Grant is making it. We have been told by Grant's organs that the colored vote would be cast solidly for him; but I a disease of the heart that may carry him off | tell you that one-third of my race in this country will vote for Greeley and Brown. I know this from actual observation. We have been told that if we elect Greelev we shall again be reduced to slavery. At first some of us believed this; but our eyes are now opened, and, Wendell Phillips to the contrary, we are now satisfied that Greeley is the best friend the colored man ever had." In speaking of General Dix, Mr. Saunders said that "he had been everything to everybody, and nothing very long to anybody, and that he never would be willing to die unless assured that there were politics in Heaven, and that he could have some small office among the angels."

Steam-Cars in Politics, Gov. Warmoth, of Louisiana, happening to be in New York, his opponents conceived the shrewd idea of having the Lieut. Governor call a meeting of the Legislature and impeach him, or, at least, assume the functions of the Governorship long enough to sign a corrupt election bill, passed by the last Legislature, the object of which is to take control of the election out of the hands of the present fairly-constituted Board and turn it over to President Grant's immediate representatives. Lieutenant-Governor Pinchback was also North. He was secretly summoned and he secretly started. Twenty-four hours later Governor Warmoth was advised of the impending danger.
