the STAR is familiar with the utter demoralization that followed the total rout of the Democratic legions in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana in that year. Many of the leading members of the party advocated a change of candidates, and this movement was seconded by the New York World. And while the substitution of a new ticket would probably have made matters no worse, the advocacy of a change without making it removed the last vestige of hope that lingered in the breast of the most sanguine Democrat. To suggest a change of candidates was a clear acknowledgment that the ticket then in the field could not succeed; and the probability is that Seymour and Blair lost fully one-third of their legitimate strength by the proposition to change front in face of the enemy.

Yet, in the face of these giant obstacles, Seymour and Blair carried Delaware, New Jersey, New York, Maryland, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana and Oregon, casting 80 electoral votes, or more than one-fourth the entire vote of the electoral college.

Let us assume now that Greeley and Brown can carry every State carried by Seymour and Blair except Oregon. This, under the new apportionment, will give them 86 electoral votes. Then let us add Virginia and Texas, neither of which voted in the Presidential election of 1868, and we have 19 more electoral votes. This will leave us 79 votes short of a majority; and these 79 votes we are almost absolutely certain to secure from North Carolina, Alabama, West Virginia, Tennessee, Missouri, Connecticut, Indiana and Arkansas. These eight States cast 79 electoral votes, and make up our majority in the electoral college. mini ani

TIMELY TOPICS.

We condense from a Western paper the points of an excellent article on the death penalty: The Synod of the Presby terion Church for Northern Iowa, lately in session at Dubuque, passed a resolution declaring that the action of the last Legislature, in abolishing capital punishment and substituting therefor imprisonment for life, icy. was hasty and unwise, and recommending to all Christian people that petitions be circulated looking to the restoration of the law as it formerly stood. The sentiment of the Church has usually been against that penalty and in favor of philanthropy, even in the case of murderers, but the terrible increase in crime has so shocked the public mind that even the Church is compelled to abandon any sentimental ideas of clemency, and demand that society shall be protected from murderers by enforcing the death penalty. The action of the Synod is heartily to be commended, and, coming from a body of religious men, it ought to carry conviction with it. The people of Iowa, as well as of other States, are confronted by a rapid and terrible increase of crime, which imprisonment for life is powerless to arrest It is time that this sickly sentimentalism came to an end. Imprisonment for life does not protect society, and is no hindrance to the brutal instincts of the murderer. Life or death is the stern fact which has to be settled. If a murderously-disposed person knows that his crime involves only imprisonment for life, with a possibility of escape from the punishment by the technicalities and delays of the laws, and an equal possi-

Mr. Sauret, as a violinist of the first magnitude, are without dispute, for the Washington public are already too well acquainted with the merits of artists like M'lles Carlotta Patti and Cary to need any renewed assurance from our hands that to hear them is to love them-or their voice. The palm in the combination of alent which Mr. Strakosch has brought to our city must undoubtedly be yielded to Patti. Her voice is perfect-the entire register is a combination of melody, art, and nature. It has been said that Carlotta Patti possesses two methods-the first one, which may be called the "artistic" one, is the result of careful study and training; and the second, the "popular" method, the one which appeals not so much to the ear as to the heart of the audience and bewitches the masses. In the performance of last night these two methods were sandwiched together; the latter usually appearing after the encore. For instance, what could be more perfect singing than M'lle Patti's rendition of Proch's Variations de Bravoure, and what more exquisitely beautiful than the manner in which, in response to a vociferous encore, she gave that gem of French pyrotechnics, Hest le Magistrat; Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, dc.

Her voice, so pure, so clear; her voice, so sweet, so perfect, coupled to the French coquetry and chic inherent in this little gem, carried the house with it; and it was well worth the price of admission to hear Patti in that alone. No wonder that she had to repeat it twice over .- Wash. Patriot.
