Radical Terrorism in Nash.

The Champion Colored Democrat of the East Assaulted by a Miserable Carpet-Bagger and in Danger of Being Mobbed.

[From the Battleboro Advance.] ANOTHER RADICAL OUTRAGE

On Saturday last a most brutal and cowardly assault was made on Harry Dancey, colored Democrat, by one Ben Davis, a white Radical, who has been teaching a colored school near this place for sometime past.

While Harry was at the warehouse attending to some business which had brought him to town, this fellow Davis, with a cocked pistol in one hand and a large stick in the other, rushed upon him and struck him several times, breaking the stick into pieces by the force of the blows. Mr. E. W. Rose, who happened to be near by, interfered and prevented further

There were several negroes near by, no doubt, ready to join in a mob at any moment, if Dancey had resisted.

On Monday Davis was brought before a Justice of the Peace under a State warrant and bound over to court. Dancey appeared and sued out a Peace warrant also, as he believed he was in danger of being mobbed by this fellow or his clan at any time he might have to visit Battleboro on business. Davis gave as his sureties two negroes, who made oath that they were worth the requisite

It seems that Dancev and Davis had a difficulty sometime before at a political speaking, and Davis, thinking he had the advantage here, deliberately made the murderous attack, with malice and without provocation.

Radicalism is getting on a high horse in this section. Last week we published an account of the Greelev colored men being mobbed at Whitakers' mill, and upon the back of that we are called upon to chronicle the above disgraceful outrage.

The Rainbow in the Skies! [From the N. Y. Tribune.] SKIES FULL OF HOPE.

Friends in Connecticut declare that there is no reasonable possibility of the defeat of the Greeley Electoral ticket in that State. The Liberal Republican strength there is large; it has been efficiently organized; the canvass is thorough, and the first evidences of their work in the town elections will be found only a forerunner of the larger triumph they have in store for us.

New Hampshire sends news almost equally cheering; and it is certain that, with active work between now and election day, the State can be carried for Greeley and Brown.

Leading Liberal Republicans and Democrats from all the counties of New Jersey made a careful comparison of notes, and the result was a clear conviction that, with ordinary activity, nothing can withdraw from Greeley and Brown the electoral vote of that State. Leading Germans declared that 99 out of every 100 German Democrats would vote for Greeley, and 20 ont of every 100 German Republicans, a proportion which is sure to revolutionize Newark and Essex county.

Our friends in Ohio, stimulated by the success in Hamilton county, and by the large reduction of the Grant vote in the State, are resolved not to know when they are beaten. They firmly maintain that they can carry the State in November. Indiana is ours, and can hardly be wrested from us even by Morton and all his allies. The confidence of our friends is unlimited, but it does not blind them to diana as already certain for Greeley and Brown.

Thus, with such encouragement at the North, and with the solid South standing firm, on all hands the prospects brighten. We can win, in November, if we will.

A Noble Appeal to Democrats as Demoerats. That splendid Ohioan, George H. Pendleton, thus eloquently closed his great speech at Chicago, Thursday evening: I am a Democrat; I have been one all my life; as age, and re-flection, and experience have matured my judgment, I find myself clinging closer and closer to the old party and its principles. [Lond cheers.] As I — A clear sky and e have been a Democrat in the past, I cool "snap" last night.

hope to live one in the future, and to die a Democrat, not because I revereparty organization, not because I am blindly attached to our party or its party aims, but I am blindly attached to truth, and I have great faith in the principles and counsels of the party. I need not speak to you of it; it is the glory of the great Republic. Its history is a history of free Government; its love of Constitutional liberty is the sheet-anchor of Constitutional government everywhere. [Cheers.] It has done that which will keep its name alive after all these men who have supported it heretofore, and support it today, will be mouldering in the dust. I would not do dishonor to that party. I would honor it as I would honor the truest and most cherished object of my affection, and I tell you in closing, my fellow-citizens, that I honor its principles, and honor it by obeying it. I honor it

To the Editor of the Tribune:

Sin: I have the most trustworthy nformation, authenticated by a personal friend of mine, a gentleman of the highest respectability and a resident of Richmond, Va., that negroes in large numbers are being sent from that city and Petersburg for the purpose of swelling the fraudulent vote contemplated by the Grant managers in New York city and the country towns. A band of 60 colored men were shipped from Petersburg last Saturday night, and they are to be reinforced by a much larger number W. M. M. this week. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 21, 1872.

Discovery and Capture of a Thief. Late Thursday evening, Mr. J. L. Jones, one of the employees of the Journal office, upon returning to his home on the corner of Seventh and Chesnut streets, his family being absent at the time, happened accidentally to discover a colored boy inside the lot and in the act of raising a window to effect an enterance into the house. On the spur of the moment he demanded to know what he was after, when the boy dropped the window and ran. He was pursued by Mr. Jones and finally took refuge under the house. By this time several other persons, white and colored, had gathered in the vicinity, and proffered their assistance and the boy was finally ousted from his position, when he was taken to the Guard House. The precocious youth proved to be one Alex. Lord alias Alex. Causey, well known in police circles for a youth of his years, and the disposal of whose case will be found in the proceedings of the Mayor's Court yes-

Rise in the River.

We are glad to learn that, under the influence of the late heavy rains, which were pretty general in the up-country, the water in the river at Fayetteville, up to Thursday night, had risen about five or six feet, with a prospect of still further improvement, although at that time there were no indications of a freshet. The Cape Fear is now in good boating order for the first time in several weeks, and we shall expect to see a rush of naval stores and cotton to market from that direction, and a lively time generally among the boatmen. The Wave, and, we think, the Worth, went up loaded yesterday afternoon.

Assault and Battery.

Jos. Jones, charged with assault and battery on the person of Edward Gause, both colored, had a hearing before W. H. Merrick, J. P., yesterday morning. The case of Jesse Newkirk, indicted for failure to work on a road, occupied the attention of the Court during the forenoon yesterday and finally resulted in a verdict of guilty. This disposes of a number of similar cases of which this particular one was made a test. There were only one or two other trifling cases disposed of.

Melton Colvin, the old colored man who shot the colored youth, Henry Jones, on Thursday, was arrested Thursday night, but subsequently released upon entering into the necessary bond for his appearance when called for.

DIED.

EVERETT .- At the residence of Thomas J. Armstrong, Sen., on Swan's Point, New Hanover county, N. C., on the 28th September, 1872, Mary Armstrong Everett, daughter of David R. F. Everett, aged 5 years, 2 months and 20 days.

Truly, in this case, is it verified that death loves a shining mark. Rarely has one with more brilliant wind and poors affectionate disposition, been taken mind and more affectionate disposition been taken from earth to Heaven. She was the idol of an adoring but now heart-stricken family, and the universal favorite of all who came within the circle of her genial and sprightly character and attractive manners. A flower more fragrant with the essence of all that is bright, beautiful and lovely has seldom been plucked from the garden of innocence, truth, beauand loveliness, to be transplanted into the everlasting and glorious abodes of Paradise above. While cherishing the bright talents, uncommon sense, tender disposition, and rare worth and attrac-tions of one so young, let this new link in the chain that binds us all to the Heavenly home to which she has gone, incite us to strive, with firm steps and better hearts, to be also prepared to meet her in

ANTHONY.—Also, at the same place, on the 1st of October, 1872, Mrs. Hulda Armstrong, wife of Mr. T. J. Armstrong, Sen., aged 48 years and 10 months. A noble Christian woman has gone to her final reward. A fond husband, now bowed down with grief, has lost a devoted and faithful wife. The Baptist Church is bereft of a true and worthy member. Warmly attached friends and affectionate relatives Warmly attached friends and affectionate relatives are mourning the loss of one tenderly near and dear to them. The community is deprived of a shining light and one of its most useful members. Seldom has the grave received into its hallowed bosom one more tenderly beloved or more greatly admired. The grief of family and friends, the large and mourful concourse that followed her remains to their last resting place, afford evidence of this truth. In all the relations of life she nobly performed her part. Of rare industry and superior worth, and of marked love of family and home, she infused around her, wherever she went, light, life and hope, and shed upon the domestic hearth contentment and happiness rarely surpassed and seldom equalled. But let us derive consolation in the reflection that our loss is her gain. While cherishing a remembrace of the graces and adornments of her fine mind and large heart, let us all rejoice that she at all times kept her lamp trimmed and burning brightly, and that it has doubtless illumined her pathway to a brighter and better world than this. Her useful life and latest hours attest that she left this lower existence in the shining armor and vestments of a glorious immortality. No doubt she will rise on the world that the station of the property of the shining armor and vestments of a glorious immor-tality. No doubt she will rise on the morn of the resurrection clad in these blessed robes. Until then, ye cedars that adorn her tomb, wave gently, and ye moving winds, wail softly over her sleeping dust!
