THE SENATE.

Owing to having to attend the counting of the votes in the Hall of the House of Representatives, the Senate had only one hour for business Tuesday in the morning session. In that time, however, they showed the spirit of work. Two important measures were introduced. Mr. Flemming, of McDowell, brought in a bill to alter the Constitution of the State. which was referred. Mr. Merrimon, of Buncombe, introduced a bill to commute, compound and adjust the debt of the State.

The Raleigh News says of the

The Senate is composed of quite a num ber of new members. Some nine of the members of the last House of Representatives are now members of the Senate. The body presents a very intelligent appearance, and will compare most favorably with that of any session for a number of years past. There are quite a number of young men gence and firmness of character, and we expect to see them taking a decided position in the proceedings of that body.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS IN THE HOUSE. The caucus of the Radical party put forward in the House Tuesday as their candidate for the Engrossing Clerkship a Miss McCandiess of Stokes county. This effort of the Radicals to drag the woman's rights movement into North Carolina politics failed, as the nominee of the Conservatives, Mr. A. H. Boyden, was chosen to fill the position. Several Conservatives voted for Miss McCandless

COMPLIMENT TO A WORTHY MAN. We learn that Col. Bennett, the Representative in the House from Anson, who so gallantly commanded the noble old Foureenth North Carolina Regiment during "the late unpleasantness," received a very complimentary vote for Speaker in the Conservative caucus on Monday. This was in-deed a high compliment to Col. Bennett, as this is the first time he was ever a mem per of any legislative body.

Col. Bennett was nominated for Congress in the Cape Fear District by the Conserva-tive party in 1870, but declined the nomination, which Col. Waddell afterwards accepted .- News.

We can heartily endorse the above because of our knowledge of and high respect for the man. North Caroli a as no son more true to her honor and interests hin R. T. Bennet, and anson is happy in having him in Rale gh to represent her sterling people in the State Legislature.

Dismantling a Vacant Building.

The dwelling house on Market, between Second and Third streets, formerly occupied by Mrs Quince, was broken into some time since the 1st of October, it having been vacant during the interval, and robbed of all the gas fixtures, lead pipe, gas pipe, etc. also stolen. An entrance was effected in the rear of the building. Mr. James Darby, Superintendent of the gas works, discovered a leak and made an examination, which resulted in bringing to light the robbery al-

Stabbing Affray.

A difficulty occurred on a car at the old depot of the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad, yesterday evening, between Henry Jones and Moses -, both colored, during which the latter seized a knife and stabbed his antagonist, inflicting a severe flesh wound in the right thigh. The injured man lost a great deal of blood, but his wound, which was dressed at Messrs. Mebane & James' drug store, is not considered at all dangerous. It is understood that both the parties were more or less intoxicated at the time the difficulty occurred.

The King of Violinists-Ole Bull.

The announcement elsewhere made that Ole Bull, the King of Violinists, will appear and give one of his grand concerts at the Opera House, on Tuesday, the 26th instant, will be received with genuine joy by all who appreciate good music. Ole Bull's reputation is world-wide, and no words, remarks an exchange, can describe his playing. It is simply wonderful, thrilling. It captivates, it charms, it carries the listener along with it through all its gradations, from the wailings of despair to the heights supreme delight. His audience is always enthusiastic in applause, and seldom, if it can be prevented, allows to retire with-

The name of Ole Bull was familiar to the fathers of many of us, but very few have enjoyed the opportunity which is now presented of seeing and hearing this worldrenowned musician. He is past three score years, but we are assured that his hand has lost none of its power, nor his instrument any of its fascination.

The Horse Distemper-Its Antiquity. From an article in a New York paper we find that the horse distemper, now prevailing to such an extent here and elsewhere throughout the country, is not, as was generally supposed, entirely new and unprecedented. It prevailed very extensively in England and Ireland in 1750, or just one hundred and twenty-two years ago. Then, as now, it followed a remarkably hot summer; that is to say, unusually hot for the locality where the distemper raged. Then, as now, it occurred after the hot weather was over-though at a period a little later in Great Britain than here, corresponding with the difference in climate. Then, as now, according to standard authority, which is quoted in extenso in the paper alluded to, it was "the most epidemic and universally spreading disease among horses that any one living remembered." Then, as now, it was " nearly analogous to the influenza and catarrhal fever" among mankind. Then, as now, "it seized the animals like a violent cold, with heaviness, loss of appetite, cough and laborious breathing, and then a profuse running at the nose and mouth of a digested or thick yellow greenish matter." Insurance Company, held Tuesday night, The author continues: "In England, as well as here [Ireland] it did not prove very mortal, though some died of it. The death Cowan, deceased. Arrest of an Escaped Prisoner. A colored man by the name of James Richardson, was arrested a week or two since on the charge of stealing an ox, or receiving the animal knowing him to have been stolen. He was lodged in the Guard House to await an examination, but on Sunday morning last he succeeded in making his escape from his temporary prison. Nothing further was heard of him until Tuesday night, when he went to the resi dence of an old colored man by the name of Tyler, living beyond the toll-house. whose wife is a relation of the prisoner. The old woman treated him very kindly, baking a cake of corn bread for his especial benefit. In the meantime, however, she stepped out and dispatched a messenger for a policeman and finally she and her husband also joined in the search for an officer. The messenger soon succeeded in finding Officer Lewis Gordon, and on his way to the house he successively met the old man and old woman, the latter informing him that the prisoner was at her house, and urging him to make haste. The officer told her she ought not to have left him alone, as he would probably escape, upon which she remarked that the corn bread would be likely to put him to sleep. Arriving at the house the officer procured a light and, not finding him in the lower story, proceeded up stairs, where he discovered the object of his search on a bed, apparently in a doze of sleep, whereupon he was re-arrested and returned to his quarters in the Guard House, from whence he was subsequently transferred to the county jail.

Two stores on Front street and one on Market street were found open last night after the proprietors and clerks had gone home. In one instance the key was left in the door and in the other two the doors were not fastened at all. The contents of each were of the most valuable description and easily carried off. Officers J. K. Throughout these States, Mexico and the Central American republics, low the slopes of the Andes, and across the pampas of South America, in negro villages, amid the fervid wilds of Africa, throughout the jungles of India, and the steppes of interior Asia, over the continent of Australia, and the islands of the Pacific, these Pills are known and everywhere used as fam-ily remedies for diseases.
