LOUISIANA.

to opposing delegations from Alabama.

If it is true, as a Herald correspond ent reports, that Gov. Warmoth re fuses to obey Judge Durell's order to deliver up the election returns to the old board, consisting of Longstreet, Lynch, Herron, and Bovee, there may be trouble in the metropolis of the Pelican State within the next thirtysix hours. The political tone of the papers is exceedingly bitter, and troops are quartered about the city. The members of the Legislature returned by the Warmoth election board are expected to convene to-morrow. It is a queer situation, but these are queer times.

THE LATEST FROM FRANCE. The meeting between Thiers and thirty members of the Assembly, Friday night, was a sign of an improved and more hopeful state of affairs in France. Our night dispatches indicate that the situation is better. But Louis Blane and the Union Republican faction are clamoring for the dissolution of the National Assembly. METEOROLOGICAL RECORD.

The Street Railway.

The street cars resumed their regular schedule yesterday afternoon, a fact which will afford much gratification to the public, who have sadly missed them during the prevalence of the epizootic in our midst. We are requested to correct an erroneous impression, which has somehow got circulated in the community, in regard to an increase in price for riding on the cars. There has been no increase whatever, except in case of persons going to and from Union depot on the arrival and departure of trains. This necessitates a great deal of night work, and hence the proprietor some weeks since increased the price to twenty-five cents each way. In the regular schedule, we repeat, there has been no change.

Important to Sheriffs.

The Legislature has passed a bill authorizing to all Sheriffs who have carried con victs to the Penitentiary the expenses Incurred by the said Sheriffs in transport ing the said convicts. This is a question of much moment to many Sheriffs in the State, and quite a number are now in Raleigh holding their claims. The question created much discussion in the Legislature, and it is thought these claims will foot up to something over $10,000.

A Rich Entertainment.

A correspondence is now progressing between a number of gentlemen here and Dr. G. W. Bagby, of Richmond, Va., looking to the coming of that gentleman to Wilmington, during Christmas week, for the purpose of delivering a lecture. Dr. Bagby is one of the best of our Southern humorists, and one of the best-known of our litterateurs. For many years he was editor of the Southern Literary Messenger, and long anterior to his connection with that periodical, he was well known to the whole country by his clever "Mozis Addums" letters, which were read in the South, particularly, with great zest.

If the arrangement shall be consum nated, Dr. Bagby will deliver here at the time specified his celebrated lecture "On the Disease Called Love," which has been listened to with the greatest delight by thousands of people. As Dr. Bagby is a genuine humorist, he looks only at the comic features of this disease, to which all of us are or have been liable. We have heard the lecture, and we can testify to its witty and mirth-provoking character. To the young people especially is the lecture entertaining, though even gray-haired sires church as follows: German service at 11 and dames are compelled to laugh at its A. M.; English service at 71 P. M.; Sun- intensely funny delineations of the comic phases of the human passion.

The Kate Pumam Troupe.

Miss Katie Putnam and her splendid troupe commence a week's 'engagement at the Opera House to-morrow evening. The press of Raleigh, where they have been performing for several evenings during the past week, are very loud in their praise of the charming Miss Putnam and other members of the company, and last evening the play of "Old Curiosity Shop" was to be performed there for the second time, at the earnest solicitation of many leading citizens. This is the play chosen for the open-ing night here, and as Miss Putnam is said to excel in her character of "Little Nell," we are sure that she will be greeted by a rousing house.

Seats can be secured at Heinsberger's Book Store without extra charge.

A Daring Robbery. Yesterday morning, about 4 o'clock, the denizens in the neighborhood of the corner of Fourth and Dock streets, were aroused from their slumbers by shouts of "burglars," 'police," &c. Upon investigation on the part of some of the neighbors the cries were found to proceed from the residence of Mr. Cason Cartjohn, who had discovered a burglar on his premises and desired assistance in arresting the villain and bringing him to justice. Mr. Cartiohn stated that the thief went into his backyard, raised the parlor window, under which he put a proop, hooked the window blinds on the outside so that he would have no difficulty in making his escape if pursued, and then entered the parlor. He next passed through a door leading into the bed-room occupied by Mr. Cartjohn and wife, having previously extinguished the lamp which was burning dimly in the parlor. Mr. C. says he was partially awake at the time, but the thief was so cautious, in his movements that he attributed the slight noise made to a cat which was in the habit of entering through the hole made by a missing pane of glass in the window. Even after the thief entered his room, and he was fully awake, there being no light, he attributed the movements among the clothing, etc., to the playful pranks of the kitten; but when he heard one of the bureau drawers being pulled out and the ransacking of the same going on, he realized the position of affairs in an instant, whereupon he aroused his wife and the two shouted with the view of frightening the villain off, Mr. C. being fearful of violence should he interfere to prevent the man's escape, he having nothshouted for the police, but when the neighbors and police arrived of course the "bird" had flown. The thief succeeded in stealing a fine gold watch and chain from the pocket of Mrs. C.'s dress, which was the only thing missed. The pockets of Mr. C.'s clothing had been overhauled, but as he had nothing of value them the thief got his labor for his pains His operations in the bureau drawers, how ever, would probably have been more successful had not Mr. C. detected him in the ing at hand to defend himself with. They then went into the piazza or porch and act of opening them. The tracks found under the window after daylight, one of which was deeply indented in the soft ground, having probably been made by the thief when he jumped from the window in his hurry to escape, appeared as if the owner had worn a small, neat boot, with high heels. No clue as yet to lead to the arrest of the perpetrator of the robbery.

A Lonely Midnight Cry.

A gentleman passing the corner of Fifth and Market streets, about 12 o'clock on Friday night, heard some one shouting "take him off," "help," "murder," "police," &c. The cries seemed to proceed from the direction of Fifth and Chesnut streets, but as our informant had business of importance in an opposite direction, he could not spare the time to investigate the matter. To be candid about it, we suspect he hardly realized the very pressing necessity for hurrying his movements until he was aroused from his lethargy by the cries alluded to.

A Voracious Beast.

Caleb Merrick, colored, residing on Fifth, between Wooster and Dawson streets, states that a hog which has been suffered to run at large in the streets, is in the habit of breaking into his yard, where he seizes his ducks and devours them. He says that the animal made way with two at one time and three at another.

Four thousand of the most eminent medical men in the Union promptly responded. Their opin-ions of the article were unanimously favorable. Such ions of the article were unanimously favorable. Such a preparation, they said, had long been wanted by the profession, as no reliance could be placed on the ordinary liquors of commerce, all of which were more or less adulterated, and therefore unfit for medicinal purposes. The peculiar excellence and strength of the oil of juniper, which formed one of the principal ingredients of the Schnapps, together with an unalloyed character of the alcoholic element, give it, in the estimation of the faculty, a marked superiority over every other diffusive stimulant as a diuretic, tonic and restorative.
