

Wm. H. BERNARD, Editor. CIOERO W. HARRIS, Editors. WILMINGTON, N. C. WEDNESDAY MORNING, DEC. 25, '72.

It is not material to our purpose as citizens of the world to know whether the 25th of December was the day of the Christ King's nativity, or some day in the later spring when shepherds would more naturally watch their flocks in the starry nights on Judean plains.

With the theology of Christmas, as a layman of the press, we have no concern. To-day clergymen will celebrate it from one confine of Christendom to the other.

Christmas should come to us in this year of grace, 1872, as a new standpoint—a place of outlook over the past failures and the future aspirations.

Let every citizen ask himself these questions. Let the answer of his consciousness make him a better citizen, a better man and a stronger and more zealous member of the great Brotherhood of Man.

The year 1869 was a sad year in the history of commercial navigation on the Northern Lakes and the St. Lawrence River.

The points made are not new, but they are forcibly put. The address goes to the country and will be accepted by all but the bitterest advocates of wrong.

We are not sanguine of a revision of sentiment in favor of justice and right, to be produced by the publication of this able and dispassionate statement and review.

So often in the last five years have we gone over cognate arguments in our pleadings in behalf of liberty, that we have little heart now to engage in a discussion of this kind.

The Herald has quite natural history and gone into archeology. It turns from the Livingstone to the dead Troy, from Ujiji to Scamander.

"Long Ago" is the title of a new London monthly, devoted to popular antiquities, with reports of archeological societies, researches, &c.

"Newport has a league to suppress male flirts." Can anything be invented to bind the female flirts? We are impressed with the idea that it is best not to suppress the sisterhood altogether.

"Baez is coming to visit Grant." We are quaking already; grant us power to ba-ezy when his tropical excellency getteth here.

"How Ought We to Write?" is a theme to engage the average, and even the super-average journalist; a theme for deep thinking, for should he not devote deep thought to his crack articles, and isn't a radical subject like this which lies or ought to lie at the bottom of his business the deepest theme to engage his pen?

Gambetta is a man of unquestionable ability—that is, he is quick, eager, brilliant and earnest. Solid statesmanship does not enter into the composition of the young tribune at all, if we may judge him by his recent course in the Assembly.

The year 1869 was a sad year in the history of commercial navigation on the Northern Lakes and the St. Lawrence River.

The present year has been one of almost unexampled calamity in every quarter of the globe.

The cotton gin of Mr. E. M. Wells, in Cheraw, took fire Tuesday morning last, but the flames were extinguished, says the Democrat, before being communicated to the lint room, with but slight damage to the gin.

The Putnam's closed in Charleston Saturday with "Sans Souci," in which Miss Kate excelled herself and was encored repeatedly.

The leading productions of agriculture in Georgia, as returned by the census of 1870, are as follows:—Number of acres of improved land, 6,831,856; unimproved land, 16,816,085.

"Long Ago" is the title of a new London monthly, devoted to popular antiquities, with reports of archeological societies, researches, &c.

DOWN IN DIXIE.

—Camphor is a good crop in the Everglades of Florida. —Two young girls of Worth county, Ga., made seven bales of cotton this season.

—The Alabama river is now lower than it has been in thirty years at this season of the year. —The Georgia State Agricultural Society will meet in Augusta on the 11th of February, 1873.

—J. M. Dirhammer, a prominent lawyer of New Orleans, committed suicide December 14th by taking strychnine. —The Rev. Father Burke has been invited by the Irish citizens of Savannah to deliver an address before them as soon as convenient.

—The Albany News man has been presented with six stalks of sugar cane with twenty-four sugar joints each, and averaging nine feet long. —The Atlanta duelist was called in the Superior Court on Wednesday, but none were ready for trial.

—Large numbers of people in Florida are so much dissatisfied with the election of Governor Hart that they are making arrangements to emigrate to some more favored locality where Harts are not the commanding trump.

—The Merchants' and Planters' Bank of Washington, Wilkes county, Ga., has been organized by the election of W. W. Simpson President, and Directors W. W. Simpson, R. Toombs, L. M. Hill, W. A. Pope and S. W. Wynn.

—These Georgia crop items preach eloquently against "going West": Messrs. W. J. and J. C. Hulme, of Elbert county, with three hands and one horse, made this year twenty-one bales of cotton and thirty barrels of corn.

—Any house may be rid of the "familiar" water-bug by nourishing them on one-third borax and two-thirds Indian meal. They relish it at first, but don't like it as a steady diet; consequently they seek more genial climes.

It is the great merit of Prof. Tyndall's success as a lecturer that it is not adventitious. It is due to the simplicity with which he presents his subject. The audience are interested because they understand.

It was charged by the Liberals in the late campaign that the Administration press was circulating falsehoods concerning Horace Greeley, the Liberal candidate.

Witness the explanation of Garfield, the statement that the money was used for "charitable and political purposes," and the committee of investigation sitting with closed doors.

Witness the purchase of Samana Bay, the mission of Secretary Delano to the West India Islands, and the open advocacy of annexation by the Administration press.

Witness the recommendation in the President's message of magnificent schemes of internal improvements to be made by the national Government.

Witness the action of Judge Durell and President Grant and the use of Federal troops in Louisiana; and witness the kindred transactions in Alabama.

Witness how the Senate at Cameron's bidding refused to allow any tribute to be paid the memory of Horace Greeley.

STAR BEAMS.

—Carl Sehurz is only 43. —A rare flower—The pink of politeness. —A fearful conubial epidemic is raging in Cleveland, Ohio.

—Christmas is the topic of the day. And sure it is the day. —Sainte-Beuve's charming work, "Memoirs of Mme. Desbordes Valmore," is translated by Harriet W. Preston.

—In Boston they have christened Stanley's little Ujijian, Marcus Philadelphus John Harry George Washington Kalulu. —Old Ben Wade's daughter, who is said to be one of the handsomest girls in the State of Ohio, is engaged to be married to a journeyman carpenter in Ashtabula.

—An Ohio man sleeps with a pistol under his pillow. He awoke the other night from a dream of burglars and found the pistol in his hand and a bullet in his leg.

—Stanley stole the idea which led to the title of his book, "How I found Livingstone," from a letter recently published in the Cincinnati Gazette, entitled, "How I make soft soap."

—The papers of California are connecting the name of Joaquin Miller, the Sierra songster, with an indictment in Shasta county, which charges the songster aforesaid with "plagiarizing a horse."

—"Short engagements and short wedding trips are fashionable now." Short wedding trips have long been fashionable in Chicago, where they usually consist of a foot race to the nearest divorce court.

—The Lord Chief Justice Kenyon once said to a rich friend, asking his opinion as to the probable success of a son, "Sir, let your son forthwith spend his fortune; marry, and spend his wife's, and then he may be expected to apply with energy to his profession."

—The Churchman sympathises somewhat with the exclamation of the man who, reading the large heading of a newspaper column, "Wife killed by her husband," exclaimed, "I'm so glad; I've been tired to death by these husband poisonings."

—Any house may be rid of the "familiar" water-bug by nourishing them on one-third borax and two-thirds Indian meal. They relish it at first, but don't like it as a steady diet; consequently they seek more genial climes.

OVER THE GLAD WATERS.

—Germany has less murders than any other country. —In the city of London there are 117 Catholic churches and chapels and 214 priests.

—The Austrian Government is displeased with American journals, and proposes a tax of five cents on every morning paper that enters Austria. —The unification of the various Methodist bodies in Canada is not considered doubtful or distant.

—The unholy alliance of the Legitimists and Bonapartists in the Chamber has given rise to a rumor that the Comte de Chambord and Napoleon III. have come to an arrangement with regard to the succession of the throne.

—A movement, which may or may not equal past exhibitions of bigotry at Oxford, England, has been set on foot in regard to the probable appointment of Dean Stanley as the select preacher of the University.

The House Committees of Claims and Ways and Means both have jurisdiction over the question of refunding the cotton tax.
