RAILROAD MANAGEMENT. The Wilmington, Columbia and Augusta Railroad Company is managed on business principles; there is no sort of doubt about that. For example: A gentleman living in South Carolina has a receipt of that Company for forty barrels of spirits turpentine deposited in one of its warehouses, for shipment to Wilmington, seven weeks ago. The gentleman referred to was in this city yesterday, and showed his receipt, as we are in-

has a note here past due, and he is unable to pay it because the Wilmington, Columbia and Augusta Railroad Company is managed on business principles. Now, it does seem to us that this statement of facts is a reasonably fair proof of the correctness of our position in the matter of rates but in time of shipment. Seven weeks' storage of spirits turpentine has never yet been known to increase the bulk of that popular fluid; and, possibly, by the time our Palmetto friend's forty barrels get to Wilmington their contents will have

"swunk" to the contemptibly small dimensions of forty gallons. We are sorry for the gentleman; we know he must be low in spirits. But we are really astonished that the happy expedient did not strike him of shipping his "sperrits" to Wilmington via Chicago, New York and Baltimore. His forty barrels would thus have claimed immediate attention, and would have reached our favored city in good time and at marvellously low rates. We like to see railroads managed on business principles; but our own people have to play the part of the fabled frogs-and it'sdeath to them, you know!

Fire in Montreal; sinking of a steamer and injury to others at Cincinnati; wreck with loss of six of crew off coast of Nova Scotia; butchery of a troupe of circus performers in Arizona by the Apaches such is the gloomy record of yesterday.

The Masquerade Ball.

The Masquerade and fancy dress ball a City Hall last night was a grand and successful affair in every respect. The attendance on the part of spectators was large, while the floor was filled with as many of the gay and fantastic dancers as could be onveniently accommodated. The maskers presented almost every imaginable character, arrayed in almost every imaginable costume, some gorgeous, some "gay and estive," some intensely grotesque and a few of the more sober description, but, all commingled, making a display at once grand and imposing as well as mirthful and interesting. We have neither time nor space at the hour we write to particularize, f so inclined, but we must say that, while the pretensions of "Ku Klux" and Paregoric" were somewhat lofty and (in the case of the latter) immense, still for appropriateness of costume and the ease and grace with which she glided in the mazy dance, the little "Morning Star" bore off the palm. This character was represented by a lady, whose dress, handsomely made up and neat and elegant in appearance, was manufactured entirely from paper issued ously in front of the head-dress. Business called us from the Hall before the unmasking took place, and we must confess that it was with no little reluctance we left a scene so freighted with enjoyment from the press and bearing the imprint of

THE MORNING STAR, the name appearing, as

taken from the head of the paper, conspicu-

Much credit is due to the management for the great success which attended the ball, which we hope will not be the last of the kind to which the amusement-loving portion of the community shall be treated during the season, especially as the dearth in theatrical entertainments promises to continue for some time.

The Schr. Hannah Little.

From the N. Y. Herald of Monday we have the following particulars of the loss of the Schr. Hannah Little, from this port for Philadelphia, brief mention of which has already been made in our telegraphic

Schr. Hannah Little, Crawford, from Wil-mington, N. C., of and for Philadelphia, with a cargo of lumber, reports: On the night of December 25, during a heavy gale from SSE, struck on the point of Hatteras Shoals, the vessel soon becoming water logged and rolled over on her beam ends, ompelling all hands to get up on her side in which position they remained until 8 A. M. on Friday, Dec. 27, when they were rescued from their perilous position in an al most exhausted state by the steamship Regulator, Capt. Freeman, from Wilmington for New York, and brought to this port. At the time they were taken off a strong northerly gale was blowing with a danger-ous sea running. Great praise is due Capt. Freeman and his crew for their bravery in this matter, as the poor fellows had not had a mouthful to eat or drink for twent-six hours and could have survived but a short time longer. Capt. Crawford, in behalf of himself and crew, hereby desire to express their gratitude to Capt. F., officers and crew for their kindness and attention to them while on board the Regulator. [The H. We learn that there will be no public denonstration in honor of emancipation today. This evening, however, a meeting of those in favor of "universal liberty" will be held at the Court House for the purpose of expressing their sympathy with their enslaved brethren in Cuba in the great struggle for emancipation. One of the leading spirits in this new emancipation movement in this city, says that Congress will be urged to demand the speedy restoration of all colored persons who have been kidnapped in this country and carried to Cuba to be placed in a state of servitude, on the ground that they are American citizens, and if this no pains will be spared by the School Committee to furnish good instruction for all the children who will come. As this is the only free public school maintained for the whites in the city, and as a large number of school children have failed to obtain admission ta Miss Bradley's school, because there was not room, it would seem to be re-open on Thursday morning.

Interments for the Year,

From the books in the office of R. J. Jones, Esq., Secretary, we learn that there were only 134 interments in Oakdale Cemetery during the year just closed. Of this number 11 died elsewhere and were brought | Onderdonk and commence the new year by here for interment, which makes the actual number of deaths among the whites of this city during the year only 123. What city of the same population can make a better showing in this respect ?

Professor Daves' Second Lecture.

The second and concluding lecture upon Palestine, of Professor Daves, was pro nounced last evening at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association. Professor Daves' audience embraced the best culture of Wilmington and evinced, throughout the lecture, an absorbed interest which was a worthy testimony of its great excel-

To characterize the second effort of this ripe scholar and graceful elocutionist as an admirable lecture would be something less than justice. It was, indeed, something more than a mere lecture, rising as it constantly did, to the plane of a masterly disquisition adorned with all the graces of an opulent rhetoric and all the charms of a finished elocution.

An appropriate characterization of Profes sor Daves' series of essays would be to speak of them as an admirable piece of liteerary mechanism, in which every feature was selected with the nicest possible dis crimination, and all adjusted with an accu rate joinery which realized perfect mastership of the art of harmonious arrangement t were difficult to decide to which to accord the greatest admiration—to the skilful imination of the subject of the lecture, or to the graceful rhetorical harmonies of the merely literary phases of the performance. In description Professor Daves is unsurpassed; his powers of statement being very remarkable, and his skill in ward-painting suggesting the highest artistic excellence. Without exaggeration, it may be said of these lectures, contemplating the gre scope of the subject and the comprehensive treatment, of Professor Daves, Nihil intactum reliquit: nihil tetigit, quod non ornavit.

Professor Daves has subject to his option wide field of brilliant distinction as a lecturer. His literary performances are those of the ripe scholar and the finished artist, and are upon a plane elevated far beyond the aspirations of the ordinary lecturer, who is driven to the various Cyclopedias and Sketches of Travel for the material which the affluent learning of the genuine scholar readily supplies from his own studies and researches.

UDOLPHO WOLFE'S AROMATIC SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS seem to be extensively gaining on public confidence, and premises to take the place of every other liquor now in use, especially for medicinal use.

This is not surprising; for, apart from its being found in most of our Drug Stores in this city and country, and its being strongly commended by the physicians, the mild and agreeable taste of this article, contrasted with the strong, pungent and actual sensation produced on the palate by the common deleterious article—which is now the general complaint of nearly all the medical faculty of this country—would, of itself, suffice to give it the decided preference. If prescribed as a medicine, it is not bad to take; and to use as a beverage it is considered by judges to be superior to any article of the kind ever imported into the country.

dec 27-1w UDOLPHO WOLFE'S ABOMATIC SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS

So general has the public confidence become in Dr. Ayer's medicines, and so great the demand for them that unprincipled villains are attempting to deceive the unwary by imposing upon them their worthless nostrums under a similarity of name. Cherry Pectoral Lozenges, Dr. Ayer's Troches, Ayer's Pastiles for Coughs, Cherry Pectoral Cough Drops, Ayer's Fever and Ague Cure, Doct. Ayer's Indian Pills, &c., &c., (none of which are of Dr. Ayer's manufacture or composition) are specimens of this villains and deceit. They not only defrand ant than money. From actual counterfeits the people are protected by law which the Doctor promptly enforces, but these evasions sometimes clude the law, and purchasers must protect themselves by refusing to be deceived by them.—Dover (N. - From the Norfolk Journal of yesterday we learn that important evidence was elicited in an examination before the Mayor of that city in the case of the youthful Captain John French, of the aloop B. IF. Rodman, murdered on the 9th uit., the particulars of which were published in the Monnine Star. Six negroes were confined for the crime. The Mayor, after hearing ker, the principal witness, was committed to jail as a witness for the prosecution. He is suspected of having a hand in the mur-der himself.

-Of the Franklin small-pox excitement the Raleigh News says: We learn, from one who knows whereof he speaks, that near Clifton's mill, 8 miles of Louis-burg, 11 in the family of Mr. Ruben Rogers are down with the disease, and that there are cases of it at Vincent Cook's, Andrew Jackson's, Wilson Bolton's and Dawson Janes', all in this neighborhood. It is said that the disease was carried there by a Mr. John Darrell, of Fayette county, Tennessee, who came there to carry some families to that State. Mr. Darrell stopped at Mr. Roger's, and shortly afterwards broke out with the disease and soon died. Just before this unfortunate man was taken down, Mr. Rogers gave a corn-shucking, and all who are now victims attended it. We suppose they contracted the malady then by coming in contact with him.
