THE GREAT CONGRESSIONAL

A Disgusted Republican Member Talks With the Tribune Correspondent.

The regular Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune thus reports the result of an interview with a Republican member of Congress concerning the Credit Mo-

"I have never been so much disappointed in my life," said he, "as at the result of this investigation. It involves men whom would have no sooner doubted than myself. Oh, you know all about these sons-in-law and brothers-in-law," he continued in reply to a suggestion of mine, "that don't help it in the least. To me it is rather an evidence that men felt that it was not quite right that they allowed their relatives to invest, and permitted Oakes Ames to hold the stock for them instead of taking it in their own names. Now, there is Wilson, whose skirts, as far as I can learn, are about as clear as those of any one: why should he allow his wife to hold this stock? Why should Elliott, of Massachnsetts, have al-lowed his son-in-law to have some of it, or James Brooks, his daughter's husband? can't believe that a man is thoroughly honest who helps a relative to an investment the value of which his vote may affect."

"Then you think that the Committee will find that there has been at least an attempt by the Pacific Railroad people to influence men's votes in Congress by the use of a valuable consideration ?" I asked. .

"I know it" was the reply "Not of my own knowledge, but by what I have been told and what I believe. If a resolution should be introduced in the House next week to expel Oakes Ames, I should have to vote for it. I hope I shall not be called upon to vote on the subject at all, but if I have to put myself on the record I know enough to make it my duty to vote

Do you think that such a resolution will be introduced?" I inquired, as he showed a disposition to change the subject of conver-

"The Committee, will have to report some kind of a resolution-censure or something else.

"Will it be expulsion ?" A long pause —, "can't say." Then, in a soliloquizing tone: "The worst of this whole business is that the men who are most corrupt will escape, while those who are little to blame will be made scape-goats. It is always so. You don't suppose that Whittemore, of South Carolina, sinned above all other members of Congress in the selling of cadetships. It was his simplicity that got him into trouble. So in this mat ter, the men who thoughtlessly bought this stock for their wives or sons-in-law, or for themselves, voted as John B. Alley sold them, and realized a few thousands of dollars, believing, perhaps, that their votes were not affected by the possession of the stock, will suffer more than the men, who, at the same time, were the paid attorneys of the Credit Mobilier, and so bound to watch over its interests while they sat in the Senate and House of Reyresentatives. Some of these men are now models of virtue; they didn't accept Credit Mobilier stock. Oh, no! they couldn't have thought of such a thing while they were in Con-gress, and they are loud in their condemnation of those who did, but if they were obliged to go before that Committee and tell it simply what they told me-nothing more-they would be as mild as lambs and would have mighty little to say about Witson and Dawes, and Garfield and Boutwell. I want to see the Senators who were elected to their seats with the money of the Union Pacific Railroad, and the men in both Houses who taken heavy fees as counsel for either of the Pacific Railroads, the Credit Mobilier or any other company that had gigantie schemes before Congress and who always interested themselves to see that those schemes were successful, sometimes by persuation, some times by prolonging sessions all night, and sometimes by smuggling into a bill when it was in conference committee provisions that they did not dare to bring before either House, and which took tens and I am not sure but hundreds of millions of dollars out of the public treasury and give it to one of these corporations-I want dal, as it is called, is but a small part of the corruption that has been practised in connection with Pacific Railroad legislation?" "Of course I do, and if the truth ever comes out you will see that I am right," There is no longer any doubt that this Credit Mobilier scandal is to be the sensation of this session-the one thing for which it will be remembered. The two short months that are left will hardly be sufficient to get to the bottom of the matter covered by the resolution under which the present committee is acting, but, unless I am greatly mistaken, it will give the country a glimpse of a greater field of investi-gation, which some future Congress will to see these men brought to account."

"Then you think that the Mobilier scan-

Pinehback. The following is an extract from the proclamation of the usurping Governor of Louisiana, which was rendered of no effect by the failure blate and Mrs. R. Greenburg. of the Federal Government to sustain his action. It shows the animous of the Radical faction in that

State: The Governor-elect, as returned by the Legislature in session at the State House, will, on the day provided for in the constitution, be inaugurated, and the Legislature recognized by the President will meet and perform its legitimate functions; but no perform its legitimate functions; but no pretended Governors shall be inaugurated, and no pretended General Assembly shall convene and disturb the public peace.—Parties participating in either case are public wrong-doers, and shall be promptly dealt with as such. and sustain the same. I have every confidence that the General Assembly now in session, sustained and aided by the sugrestions and the moral influence of the community, will make wise and adequate laws, and I shall cheerfully co-operate with them in furthering the public weal, but no good end can be accomplished by disorder and revolution, while the commercial, financial and industrial interests of the State will be seriously affected thereby. No good citizen will sanction them, and under the obligations of my oath of office I am determined they shall not prevail. It is a fact worthy of note, that though nearly eight years have elapsed since the close of the war, there still obtains in the minds of the intelligent, sober citizens of the North, East and West, embracing a majority of voters in the Union, those voters representing the most permanent and valuable interests of the whole country, a serious doubt as to the loyalty and law-abiding character of a large proportion of the white voters in the late rebellious States, this doubt being so strong and prevalent as to affect the national legislation and produce disquiet in the public mind generally relative to the prosperity and safety of our common country. This state of the public mind is not more certainly referable to the civil strife than to the unfriendly and insubordinate temper of the Southern people. Since the close of the war they have manifested restlessness vnder the exercise of national authority, and have repeatedly given the influence of their intelligence and wealth to perpetuate wrongs against both the property and persons of American citizens, on purely political and partisan grounds. Such state of thinks has been aggravated in its evil effects largely by the fact that the illegal and violent manifestation of temper and conduct has generally referred to and had its utterance in connection with the exercise of civil and political rights by the newly enfranchised citizen. It has become a habit in our State and in other Southern States with the insubordinate class of our people referred to, to threaten a revolution of the Government on the heel of every political defeat. No matter how fair the expression and overwhelming the decision of the public will on the political issues of the day, each defeated aspirant claims the inalienable right of subverting the Government as a compensation and offset in some sort for his personal disappointment.

Stealing Iron.

A lot of iron, comprising railroad car bolts, cotton ties, and other useful articles were captured yesterday morning in front of one of the junk shops on North Water street, by officer Lewis Gordon, of the police force. He discovered the articles and while awaiting the appearance of the person who left them there the proprietor of the shop arrived, who stated that they had been left there during his absence and he knew nothing about them, whereupon they were taken possession of by the officer and removed to the City Hall. The articles are of considerable value and were evidently stolen, but no clue has been obtained to the perpetrator of the theft. Appropo-an iron thief should be placed in the category of "hard cases."

ur Sidewalks.

The matter of having suitable sidewalks onstructed on all our principal streets is one in which every one in the community should feel more or less interest. The pres sent condition of many of them is a positive disgrace to the city and subjects us to the ridicule of strangers who visit Wilmington, as well as proving a source of inconvenience and annoyance to our own people. No one can conscientiously gainsay this fact, as it is too patent to admit of argument or contradiction. It should therefore be a source of gratification to all who take any pride or interest in the welfare of the city that the Board of Aldermen have at last taken the matter in hand and ordered that pave ments be constructed on Front from Red Cross to Castle; on Second, from Princess to Orange: on Market, from the river to Ninth on Red Cross, from Nutt to Second; on Walnut, from Nutt to Front; on Mulberry, from Water to Front; on Water, from Chestnut to Mulberry; on Chestnut, from Water to Front; on Princess, from Water to Third; on Water, from Dock to Third, and on Orange from Water to Front streets, the property owners on said streets being notified through an advertisement in this issue that if sidewalks made of brick or flag-stone are not constructed by the 1st of May next the same will be done by the city at their expense. The property owners will find the small outlay required for this purpose an excellent investment, as it will not only have the effect to enhance the value of their property, but will give us continuous sidewalks on all the principal streets, thereby improving and beautifying our city to an extent which is demanded by the times and the progressive spirit of our people.

A joke is told at the expense of one of our mercantile friends which is too good to be lost. It seems that a rule exists by which consignees of freight arriving from Philadelphia on the steamship Pioneer are required, before removing the same, to sign what is known as a "general average bond." Our friend had some goods on the steamer named, which arrived at this port a day or two since, and dispatched a colored dray man to take the articles to his store. The drayman departed on his errand, but refurned in a short time with the startling information, "The man says you can't get your goods unless you sign General Abbott's bond!" The gentleman, not only considerably nonplussed at this extraordinary message, but somewhat indignant at the idea that he could be induced under any circumstances to sign the bond of a "carpet bagger," has tened to the wharf where the steamer was lying and demanded to know of the agent "What in the d-l he had to do with Gen. Abbott's bond," The agent understood the drift of the joke in a moment, explanations followed and the matter was "amicably adjusted to the satisfaction of all con-

Madame Janauschek.

By an advertisement in this issue it will be seen that we are really and without mistake to have a visit from Madame Janauscheck, the renowned tragic actress, who, under the management of Mr. John T. Ford, and in connection with the popular tragedian, Mr. James H. Taylor, will appear at the Opera House in this city on Monday, the 20th inst., in the grand historical play of "Mary Stewart." They will be accompanied by a first-class metropolitan company, thoroughly rehearsed and experienced in their respective roles.

The Philadelphia Press, noticing the perfect mastery of the English language in so short a time by this talented and celebrated artiste, says:

Genius and intellectual power compel admiration; and when the genius or power is directed to a worthy object, the tribute of praise should be ungrudging and unstint-ed. It is safe to say that the classic drama, that noble branch of art which has been too much neglected of late, has now no greater representative in this country than Madam Janauschek. Certain it is that no English-speaking tragedienne approaches her. The same prodigious energy which enabled her to win the very highest honors as an actress in the German language, has made itself manifest in her well-nigh perfect mastery of English, an achievement which, considering its completeness and the time spent in it, is unparallelled. The complex difficulties of acquiring a foreign ongue, considered by many artistes practically insurmountable, has proved no bar-ier to her. At first she flanked the obstructions as the Prussians flanked Strasburg and Metz, and moving straightforward won some glorious victories without removing it from her way. Then even as the Teutons n France invested and with comparativey small delay captured the fortresses left behind, so has Janauschek turned back for a short time and completed her triumph by conquering, as if by storm, the linguistic obstacles which interfered with her communications.

Swindlers Arrested.

A colored man from Marion, S. C., by the name of Henry Gotbold, who is on a visit to this city, was made the victim a day or two since of the tricks of some of the colored sharpers in this city, by which he was relieved of a watch and chain that had been in his possession for the last five years. The names of the parties who effected the swindle are W. H. Guiton, Henry Brown and - Mitchell. The two former were arrested and lodged in the Guard House. Guiton, the first one of the party arrested, was ordered by Marshal Canaday to get the watch, and he was sent off in charge of an officer for that purpose. The chain was found round the neck of a colored damsel by the name of Henrietta, but the watch had disappeared. Guiton was recognized by a man who formerly resided in Raleigh, who says he was compelled to leave that place on account of similar "indiscretions" to which he seems to be liable here. Mitchell is also said to hail from Raleigh, while Brown belongs in this city. They will probably have a hearing before the Mayor's Court this morning.

We have also received the minutes of the proceedings of the Grand International Division of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, at their ninth annual session in St. Louis in October last.

The Lost Pilots-Boat Identified.

We learn from Capt. Harper, who arrived from Smithville yesterday, that it has been definitely ascertained that the boat recently found on the beach near Tub's Inlet is the one in which the five ill-fated pilots took passage on the day they were consigned to a watery grave. A gentleman who was perfectly familiar with the boat which they used on that occasion has seen the one referred to on the beach and is certain it is the same one.

PURSATIVE PILLS have become a settled necessity with the American people. Indeed, cathartics always have been and always must be used, in some form, by all mankind. In this country the pilular form of administration has been growing in favor since pills were first made of aloes and rhubarb, relied into a ball. Their high position in the public confidence has finally been secured and fastened into permanency by Ayer's Cathartic Pills, the most skillful combination of medicine for the diseases they are intended to cure that science can devise or art produce. When the pure medicinal restorative, now so widely known as UDOLIFIE WOLFE'S SCHEDAM SCHMAPPS, was introduced into the world under the endorsement of four thousand leading members of the medical profession, some twenty years ago, its proprietor was well aware that it could not wholly escape the penalty attached to all new and useful preparations. He, therefore, endeavored to invest it with the strongest possible safeguard against counterfeiters and imitators, to render all attempts to pirate it difficult and dangerous. It was submitted to distinguished chemists for analysis, and pronounced by them the purest spirits ever manufactured. Its purity and properties having been thus ascertained, samples of the article were forwarded to ten thousand physicians, including all the leading practitioners in the United States, for the purpose of experiment. A circular, requesting a trial of the preparation and report of the result, accompanied each specimen. Four thousand of the most eminent medical men in the Union promptly responded. Their opinions of the article were unanimously favorable. Such a preparation, they said, had long been wanted by the profession, as no reliance could be placed on the ordinary liquors of commerce, all of which were more or less adulterated, and therefore unfit for medicinal purposes. The peculiar excellence and strength of the oil of juniper, which formed one of the principal ingredients of the Schnapps, together with an unalloyed character of the alcoholic element, give it, in the estimation of the faculty, a marked superiority over every other diffusive stimulars as When the pure medicinal restorative, now so widey known as Udolphe Wolfe's Schiedam Schnapps, give it, in the estimation of the faculty, a marked superiority over every other diffusive stimulant as a diuretic, tonic and restorative.
