Result. A difficulty occurred in a house in the vicinity of the Seaman's Home, yesterday afternoon, between a seaman employed on the Revenue Cutter Seward and a man by the name of John Piver, during which the sea man, whose name is Cole, seized a lamp chimney and hurled it at the head of Piver, striking him on the forehead and inflicting serious and perhaps fatal wounds. There were two deep gashes, one of which, we learn, severed two arteries, from which the blood flowed copiously. The wounded man was taken to Mr. H. Bremer's place, corner of Dock and Front streets, when a physician was called and the wounds were properly dressed.

Cole fled immediately after inflicting the blow, and for some time eluded the vigilance of the police. Finally, however, he was discovered and captured by Sergeant Kuhl, after a short chase. He was in company with another marine at the time, but had donned an overcoat to prevent detection. Sergeant Kuhl approached the party. when the man with the overcoat on started to run, which convinced the officer that he was the man he was after. Cole was lodged in the Guard House and will probably have a hearing before the Mayor's Court this morning. It is stated that Cole had made an attac upon an officer of the Cutter previous to the above difficulty, and that a reward of $15 was out for his capture at the time.

Mr. Piver is considered to be in a critical

An Important Civil Cause.

The Goldsboro Messenger mentions the disposal of an important civil cause before the Special Court of Wayne last week. The action was brought by T. H. Broadhurst agninst Alex. Oldham, of Wilmington. Broadhurst held a claim against Willis Pipkin, Esq. Pipkin having conveyed his property, by deed to Oldham, Broadburst made the allegation of fraud in the conveyance. Dortch and Morisey for Plaintiff, Strong and Faircloth for defendant. The hearing and argument in the case occupied two days. The speeches by counsel were elaborate. Saturday night at 11 o'clock, the jury returned a verdict in favor of Mr.

Messrs. Vick & Mebane announce through THE MORNING STAR to-day that they are prepared to supply farmers and planters with Whann's Raw-Bone Super-Phosphate of Lime and the Star Ammoniated Soluble Phosphate.

Messrs. Vick & Mebane have sold large quanties of these popular fertilizers heretofore, and they point to the certificates in their possession as indubitable evidence that their reputation is fully established and their value unsurpassed.

Yesterday morning, about 81 o'clock, fire was discovered in the second story of the stables on the premises of Dr. A. J. De-Rosset, corner of Second and Dock streets, occupied as servants' rooms. It originated inside the plastering and is supposed to have been caused by the ignition of a match by mice, as there was no other way probable by which it could have commenced where it did. Dr. D. attributes the safety of the building to the Gardner Fire Extinguisher, one of which he had on the premises and which was brought into immediate and effective service. The engines and Hook

A Colored Man Killed by a Blow from a Spade.

On Saturday evening last, after the accident on the Wilmington, Columbia and Augusta Railroad, a number of colored hands were employed in fixing the trestle work which had been damaged by the accident and endeavoring to get the cars on the track, when a very unfortunate circumstance occurred. Mr. Barnes Wilkins, one of the Section Masters on the road, wa present and assisting in superintending the work. He gave directions for a cerfain thing to be done and upon the hands not showing a disposition to move very lively he struck one of them by the name of John on the back of the head or neck with a spade he had in his hand at the mo ment. The blow is said to have been very light one, apparently, but no soone was it given than the unfortunate col ored man dropped in his tracks. Mr. Wilkins immediately went to his assistance and at his direction the man was placed on a cotton bale, when he felt of his pulse, opened his shirt bosom and placed his hand over his heart, and then called to one of the men near him an told him to run for a doctor. He then walked off hurriedly and has not been seen since. The body of the poor fellow was cold and stiff in death, not a muscle hav ing been seen to move or a breath escape him after the infliction of the blow. I seems to be the impression of all who know anything of the circumstances that it was far from Mr. Wilkins' intention to inflict serious injury upon the man, as he had shown no signs of anger, and was always considered an orderly and well-disposed gentleman. Mr. W. resides at Cerro Gordo.

The Educational Meeting at Rocky

From a gentleman who was present a the meeting of Teachers at Rocky Point, in this county, on Saturday la t, we are glad to learn that, though the gathering was not as large as might have been expected, much good is confidently expected to result from it in the not remote future. The exercises consisted of two lessons in the Normal methods of instruction by Rev. Mr. Blake and his son, followed by an interchange of views among the teachers present, which were of a very agreeable and pleasant character. A system of monthly meetings has been inaugurated, and a Teachers' Association regularly formed. We learn that the next meeting will be held at Rocky Point on the 8th day of February next. This is a move in the right direction, and will doubtless be productive of much good to the educational interests of New Hanover county, if properly carried out. We hope the efforts of the Association will be sec onded and encouraged by the friends of education throughout the county, and that a lively interest in the cause may spring up among our people generally.

Navassa Guano.

An advertisement of this celebrated fertilizer will be found in this issue of our paper. The Navassa Guano has been thoroughly tested by the farmers and planters of this and adjoining States, and its popularity as a fertilizer is second to none. As an evidence of this we would state that the company have disposed of every ton made by them during each season since the institution has been in existence, and that in reality the demand has generally been beyond the ability of the Company to supply. That the efficacy of the fertilizer is appreciated is abundantly attested by the voluntary testimony of many of the leading planters who have used it, and still continue to use it. With these evidences in its favor, together with the fact that it is a North Carolina institution, appealing to the encouragement and support of our people due to its intrinsic merits, we hope the company may take a fresh start on the road to prosperity and usefulness.

A Strange Case. About ten years ago a white boy by the name of Henry Purdie Lane, then only about 5 years old, mysteriously disappeared from this city, it being the general impression at the time that he was stolen by a circus company. Nothing more was heard from the little fellow or his whereabouts, and his relatives mourned him as lost to them forever, when, a few weeks since, a letter was received from him by Postmaster Brink, written in Michigan, in which he gave a detailed description of his recollections in regard to his family. Col. Brink went to see Mr. John Turner, the grandfather of the boy, who is an employee at the Gas Works in this city, and the result will be the speedy return of the boy to his home and friends. It now transpires that the little fellow was stolen by a woman, who carried him to New York City and from there to the West, where he has since been left entirely dependent upon his own resources for a support

The Cape Fear. When the Governor Worth left Favetteville on Friday last the water had fallen at that point about twenty feet, and was still falling. Boatmen, however, feel no apprenension of further difficulty on account of the want of water during the season, as it is now about eight feet higher than during the summer months.

During her last trip the Worth went as high up the river as McNeill's Landing, after freight; and could have gone considerably further if it had been necessary. and Ladder truck were premptly on the spot, but their services were fortunately not needed, except what was rendered by the generally so low that boats cannot go bebucket squad of the Hook and Ladder Com- youd Fayetteville even when they reach containing eight pages of certificates, from pany, which did very effective service.

Mr. Jefferson. After a lapse of twenty years since his ast appearance in Wilmington, Mr. Jefferson returned to the scenes of his early triumphs to receive a demonstration which was something more than a mere popular ovation to an artist whose fame is worldwide, in its touching revival of traditions associated with the past of Wilmington and the past of the great comedian.

Jefferson's Rip Van Winkle has long since assed beyond the domain of criticism. For more than a decade it has been classed with the great pictures which adorn the galleries of high dramatic art, with the Lear of Forrest, the Meg Merrilles of Charlotte Cushman, the Hamlet of Davenport, the Fagin of Wallack, and the Solon Shingle of Owens. The critics of two continents have exhausted the appliances of their art in the effort to give adequate analysis and characterization of those subtle and yet gleaming strokes of genius with which this wonderful dramatic sketch so abounds. For years Jefferson's Rip Van Winkle has been the marvel of the stage-a picture wonderful in its lights and shadows, yet with hardly the semblance of a subject-a magnificent land-

There was a touching suggestion furnished by the analogies of the play last evening taken in connection with Mr. Jefferson's associations with Wilmington. When mere strolling player, in the early days of his professional life, he visited this city, which was then a point in the theatrical circuit embracing the Atlantic cities from Norfolk to Savannah. At that time he had been but a few years on the stage, and was comparatively unknown save in the South. Six years afterwards he was a member of the stock company of the Richmond Theatre, from which he went to Laura Keene's

In the great theatrical centre of the country he quickly began a reputation which is now colossal, by means of his masterly delineations of Asa Trenchard and Rip Van Winkle. With a reputation second to that of o living actor, after a lapse of twenty years Mr. Jefferson returns, like Rip Van Winkle, to realize the sad mutations wrought by the flight of a score of years. It would require no great effort of the imagination to believe that something of pathos was added to the moving emotional passages of the play by the great actor's painful realization of the changes of twenty-odd years, even in a tives of legitimate dramatic art.

When the pure medicinal restorative, now so wide y known as UDOLPHE WOLFE'S SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS. ly known as Udolphe Wolfe's Schiedam Schnapps, was introduced into the world under the endorsement of four thousand leading members of the medical profession, some twenty years ago, its proprietor was well aware that it could not wholly escape the penalty attached to all new and useful preparations. He, therefore, endeavored to invest it with the strongest possible safeguard against counterfeiters and imitators, to render all attempts to pirate it difficult and dangerous. It was submitted to distinguished chemists for analysis, and pronounced by them the purest spirits ever manufactured. Its purity and properties having been thus ascertained, samples of the article were forwarded to ten thousand physicians, including all the leading practitioners in the United States, for the purpose of experiment. A circular, requesting a trial of the preparament. A circular, requesting a trial of the preparation and report of the result, accompanied each specimen. Four thousand of the most eminent medica men in the Union promptly responded. Their opinions of the article were unanimously favorable. Such a preparation, they said, had long been wanted by the profession, as no reliance could be placed on the ordinary liquors of commerce, all of which were more or less adulterated, and therefore unfit for medicinal proposes. The preculiar excellence and more or less adulterated, and therefore unit for medicinal purposes. The peculiar excellence and strength of the oil of juniper, which formed one of the principal ingredients of the Schnapps, together with an unalloyed character of the alcoholic element, give it, in the estimation of the faculty, a marked superiority over every other diffusive stimulant as a diuretic, tonic and restorative.
