Friday's Legislative proceedings will be found of interest. It will be seen that the House impeached R. M. Henry, Solicitor of Twelfth District. We hope that the remaining amendments will pass the Senate to-morrow and that they may meet with early and favorable action in the House of Representatives. The proposed alterations in the Constitution are not partisan, and should receive the support of both parties.

In presenting our annual report of the condition of our Society, it becomes us, first of all, to recognize the manifold mercies of God in sparing our lives, in averting calamities and judgments from us, and in giving us peace and prosperity during an-

It affords me much pleasure to state that after several ineffectual efforts to devise means for the rebuilding of the Home and Bethel, a subscription was circulated, to which our citizens nobly and liberally responded. A sufficient amount was subscribed (some $5,000) to justify us in commencing the work at once. Of the above subscriptions there has been $4,000 collect ed and deposited in bank, bearing interset at 8 per cent. per annum. There is about $1,500 due from uncollected subscription which is promised as soon as the work on the building is commenced; the available assets of the society are now fifty-five hundred dol-lars ($5,500) with no liabilities. The plans and specifications of the new building, drawn by our architect, Mr. James F. Post, have been accepted by the committee, and are herewith submitted. We would record our grateful acknowledgment to the parent Society for an appropriation of $1,200 to pay the salary of our Chaplain for one year

Home"..... WILMINGTON, N. C., Feb. 4, 1873. CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

As we stand upon the threshold of another year, and look back over the year's labor for encouraging material to report, it is but simple justice to state that it is exceedingly difficult to estimate the result of special efforts on behalf of seamen.

It can be truly said that a more attractive.

and orderly congregation than a congrega-tion of seamen can nowhere be found, nor will any class of persons listen more attentively to the claims of personal religion; yet. so much of their time is spent at sea; so many are their temptations and so few are their opportunities for spiritual instruction, that good impressions are soon lost. When the seed is sown in good soil it springs up; you see the blade and sometimes the ear but the full corn in the ear is often gathered in some other field, or that sown in other fields may be gathered in this. When a seaman who gives good evidence of a genuine conversion leaves port, you are unable to say whether the cares of the world, &c., the deceitfulness of sin will choke the truth, or whether, in his humble way, he goes forth a preacher of righteousness by word and example. Such examples are by no means rare, and such preaching is very effective, for a sailor does nothing by halves. If he serves the Devil it is with his whole heart; if he serves God it is with his whole might and strength. The truth is beginning to be realized that seamen will yet bear an important part in the conversion of the heathen. You may send your missionaries, with their Bibles, printing press and school apparatus, but how long will it take you to convert them if the seamen who visit these ports blasphemed the name of that Saviour. whom the missionaries preach, and intro-duce vice and wickedness of a darker shade than they knew before. But implant the grace of God in his heart and he makes a valuable witness for the truth. It is a retime Homes and Bethels have been greatly multiplied, laws have been enacted for their multiplied, laws have been enacted for their protection. Christians have embraced this cause in their sympathy and liberality, in their prayers and efforts, and what is the result? Why, previous to these efforts sallors were regarded as outcasts, (with the exception of here and there a moustone) hopelessly abandoned. But now there are more than thirty thousand praying seamen affoat; and we know not how many mure have been benefitted socially, in sickness, and in health, through Christian sympathy and effort.

We have been much encouraged in our efforts during the past year to benefit seamen in this port; to contribute some Shipping Act, but we have not yet secured the appointment of a Commissioner. Even if we had one, under the present interpre-tation of the law, we are not certain that it would afford us any relief. There has been quite an increase in the number of foreign vessels arriving at this port during the year, which is a hopeful in-dication for the future commerce of this port and an enlargement of our field. The rebuilding of the Home and Bethel, which now is a fixed fact, and will be hastened with all possible dispatch, will furnish when completed, accommodations and conveniences so suited to the wants of to hope many will be attracted from the dens of land sharks from which we now suffer so much. We may then expect an increased attend ance upon the various services of the Bethel until it shall secure a well established congregation from both the sea and the land. During the year we have visited 612 ves-sels, and held religious conversation with 3,300 officers and men, in health and in sickness, in comfort and in trouble, in the cabin, in the forecastle and by the way.

both officers and men that we have reason

We have distributed 10,360 pages of tracts, 1,100 copies of the Seamen's Friend and Life-boat, besides Bibles and Testaments. There have been admitted to the Marine Hospital 81, of whom 5 have died. 1.555 seamen have been entertained at the Home, under the able management of Capt. W. J. Penton, its present keeper.

In view of the encouraging prospect of securing a new Home and Bethel, which will be a credit to this society and an ornament to the city, we see a brighter future opening up before us. But the crowning excellence of our work will not be this house we build for the Lord, but the pres ence of His Holy Spirit guiding multitudes in the path of peace and fitting them for His heavenly temple, where there is full-ness of joy and pleasure forevermore.
