P. Heinsberger's-Public Resort. The Freshet-A Series of Adventures. We were informed yesterday of the most remarkable chain of incidents and narrow escapes growing out of the present high freshet in the Cape Fear, which occurred a few days since, that we have heard or read of in some time. A raft was on its way down the river, and had reached a point near the railroad bridge at Meares' Bluff when the current became so strong that it was about to be swept out of its course. To avoid this, and in order to get it again under control, the men on the raft attempted to make it fast to a free which they were passing at the time. For this purpose one of the men seized the rope and sprang into the branches of the tree; but, while en deavoring to secure a proper foothold to enable him to make the rope fast, the current, which was running with almost irresistible force, swept the raft on in its course, the rope was pulled from his grasp, and the man was left in the branches of the tree. He remained there for some time, bewailing his hapless lot, without being able to see his way out of the terrible predicament in which he had been placed, when, fortunately, a flat which had been towed some distance up the river by one of the steamers and turned loose, happened to pass within a short distance of the tree, when he hailed and was answered by the men on board, who run the flat alongside. By this time the man in the tree had become quite benumbed from cold and exposure and one of the hands on the flat made his way into the branches and assisted the poor fellow to dismount; but, just at the moment that he had gained foothold, and before his rescuer could fol-

ow him, the flat was swept from the side of the tree and downward with the current,

leaving unfortunate number two in the branches of the veritable tree, as of course there was no possibility of stemming such a tide with a flat and poles. Sorrowing but not dismayed the man settled himself in the branches and, Micawber like, waited for something to turn up. Fortunately, he had not long to wait, for presently an old colored man came paddling along in a batteau, loaded with meal and other articles, a short distance from him. The man in the

that he was almost frozen. man replied that he do so, but he must first make sure of his meal by landing it on the other side of the river. This delay, to the impatient sufferer in the tree, was rather annoying, but he submitted with the best grace he could, and soon the old man had his batteau ashore and commenced landing his goods. He had taken the only paddle in the boat ashore with him and as he went to spring to land with his last parcel the batteau received an - The Charlotte Home informs us undue impetus, which sent it into the river beyond his reach. And here comes the strangest part of this "o'er true tale." The batteau, freed of all incumbrance, drifted steadily across the river, and instinctively, - The Statesville Intelligencer is as it were, in the direction of the tree i which the poor half-frozen wretch was sitting, actually coming near enough for him to reach it and get into it by suspending himself from one of the branches. The paddle was gone, but he found a piece of Sailors on the Hampage.

Owing to the large number of vessels in port, the police are having some little difficulty with the sailors, who will go ashore occasionally and indulge too freely in "tangle-leg," when they become demoralized and ready for anything that turns up, whether it be a fight or a foot race. Jack ashore and Jack on board of his vessel are quite different personages. At least that is the case with a great many of them. One of the susceptible kind came ashore yesterday and soon got on "a breeze," when he strayed into that part of the city known as "the hill" and commenced cutting up such ugly capers that the women and children in have the right to nominate the Directors of | the vicinity became frightened nearly out of their wits. Dr. Robert K. Reid.

One of the Stockton, California, papers of a recent date, copies a paragraph from the STAR announcing the unanimous election of Dr. Robert K. Reid of that place to fill the chair of Professor of Anatomy in the College of Physicians and Surgeons of this city, and says: "The Doctor has just received official notification of the distinguished compliment paid him, and is undetermined, at present, as to the acceptance of the position. In either event, the honor could not have fallen upon a more worthy gentleman or a more thoroughly classical and professional scholar. He has been for many years a resident of this city, and he has formed a circle of acquaintances who would deeply regret his determination to leave them."

He was passing the corner of Dock and South Water streets, near where a vessel was being unloaded af ballast. when the rope of the hoisting apparatus, which was attached to a horse, was sudden ly released from its fastening and flew back with great force, striking Mr. Blake and knocking him down. In falling, his head struck the stone pavement, by which he was painfully injured and for some minutes completely stunned. Some means should be devised to prevent a recurrence of such accidents, which are liable to take place at any moment so long as the streets and side walks, or crossings, are allowed to be obstructed in the manner indicated

No pill in the world ever had anything like the circulation of Ayer's Pills. Throughout these States, Mexico and the Central American republics, down the slopes of the Andes, and across the pampas of South America, in negro villages, amid the fervid wilds of Africa, throughout the jungles of India, and the steppes of interior Assa, over the continent of Australia and the islands of the Pacific these Pills are known and everywhere used as family remedies for diseases. With distant nations their wonderful cures attract more attention than they do at home, for the sentiment of wonder takes a far deeper hold on their minds than the results of a high scientific skill with us. The amount consumed requires 75,000 doses a day to supply it. An inspection of the manufactory showed us how this enormous demand is made and sustained. Added to the consummate skill of their composition is an extreme care in their manufacture, which at once secures the most perfect material and their most scourate combination. The consequence is a power and certainty in controlling disease which other remedies never attained.—Balt, Courier.

North Carolina Legislature.

[Condensed from the Raleigh News.]

SENATE. MONDAY, Feb. 24, 1873. Mr. Murray rose to a question of personal privilege, and denounced the writer of a certain letter in the Daily Era of Saturday, signed "M.," referring to alleged recent ku klux ontrages in the county of Alamance, and purporting to have been written from that county, as false, malicious, and fabricacious, and thought the public should have the writer's name.

Reports from Standing Committees, were presented by Messrs. Flemming, Murray and Love.

Mr. Norwood introduced a bill to organize the Fire Department of Wilmington. Referred.

Mr. Morehead, of Guilford, a bill supplementary and explanatory of all acts of incorporation passed at the present session of the General Assembly. Providing that nothing contained in any act passed shall be construed to empower or permit any railroad or other company or corporation to hold, purchase or convey any real estate, excepting so much as is usual and necessary to carry on the proper and legitimate business of such corporation. That nothing in said acts giving exclusive privilege as to location shall be deemed to apply to mountain gaps, to the bridging of rivers or crossing peninsulas or swamps; nor shall anything in said acts be construed to relieve any of said corporations from a longer time than 20 years, or to empower or permit any of them to trade or traffic in any kind of property. The bill also limits the powers granted by any act of this Assem-bly incorporating any bank, loan association or insurance company, and bills for the relief of guardians and administrators.

Referred. Mr. Seymour, a bill in regard to the fees of the inspectors of turpentine. Referred. Rules suspended, and the following bills passed their several readings: Bill relating to the People's Agricultural Society composed of the counties of Catawba, Burke, Caldwell and Alexander, Bill allowing any five County Commissioners to declare streams lawful fences, under certain circumstances. Bill to prevent the obstruction of natural water courses by the felling of trees or otherwise. The following bills were tabled:

Bill amending an act concerning corpo-Bill to repeal an act to construct a railroad from Salisbury to Georgia.

Bill defining the duties of Judges of Superior Courts in certain cases. The special order being the consideration of the bill, introduced by Mr. Welch, de-claring what portion of the debt of North Carolina is valid, and to pay off the same,

&c., (a synopsis of which we published last Mr. Welch proceeded at some length to advocate the passage of the bill. He be-lieved the matter should command the anxous consideration of every member of the General Assembly, whose highest ambition should be to relieve the State from the embarrassments under which she has already too long labored. Mr. Cunningham moved to refer the bill to the Committee on Public Debt. He said we have had no report from the committee charged with this matter. No state in the South had taken such action, and he considered it premature. He had heard that there was a proposition for the General Government to assume the debts of the reconstructed States. Congress ought to do this in consideration for the property they had taken from us. It was well known that the Southern States could not now meet their obligations. He was in favor of masterly inactivity, &c. Would give his views more fully when the bill was reported, Adopted. Bill to regulate mortgages by corporations and sales under the same was taken up, the said bill eliciting quite a discussion particspated in by Messrs. Morehead, of Guilford, Flemming, Gudger and Merrimon. Tabled. Bill in relation to homestead and personal property exemption.

Passed its several readings.

the present law, passed its several readings. Mr. Cunningham introduced a bill incorporating the Central Fire Insurance Company of North Carolina. Referred. Bill asking the Governor to issue a proclamation looking to the preventing of emigration from this State, was tabled.

Bill in favor of the heirs of James Mc-Coy, deceased, passed its several readings. Bill amendatory of an act providing for Board of Public Charities was considered. It provides that there shall be a Board of Public Charities, with power to sue and be sued, to consist of fifteen male persons. to have immediate control of the Insane Asylum, the Institution of the Deaf; Dumb and Blind, and of all the charitable and penal institutions of the State. The said board to have the power to appoint subcommittees from its own number to take charge of the several institutions. The passage of the bill was advocated by Messrs. Allen and Merrimon, and opposed by Messrs. Seymour and Harris.

The previous question on the passage of the bill on its second reading was ordered by a vote of 28 to 11. The bill then passed second reading by a vote of 27 to 13. Mr. Morehead, of Guilford, moved that the bill be printed and made special order for to-morrow at 11 o'clock. Adopted. Bill concerning right of way to churches
