ANGER OF THE ELEMENTS.

FIRE AND STORM.

Great Forest Fires in North Carolina and Virginia—Storm in the Valley of the Dan—Loss of Life.

OUR STATE.

From the Elizabeth City Carolinian: The swamp across the river in Camden has been on fire for several days.

From the Charlotte Observer: The saw and grist mill and three gins, the property of Pat Houston, Esq., in the southern edge of this county, near the Union line, were totally destroyed by fire on last Friday night. It is said that there was a considerable quantity of corn in the grist mill at the time, and some cotton in one of the gins. The loss will amount to about $4,000, part of which is covered by insurance. Nothing is known definitely as to the origin of the fire, but there is little doubt that it was the work of an incendiary.

The same paper says: We learn the high winds of yesterday caused disastrous fires in certain parts of this county. The house of a gentleman in Steel Creek neighborhood, whose name we could not learn, was burned, together with a quantity of fence. Another fire, which swept fences, timber, &c., in its way, came near destroying a trestle on the W. C. & R. R. R., but was checked by some colored men before it reached the trestle.

VIRGINIA.

The dates are Thursday. A Dispatch telegram from Gordonsville says: The fire has pretty well disappeared from this vicinity, but is still burning in the lower parts of Orange and Caroline counties. Hundreds of cords of the railroad company's wood was burnt, and a great many of the Western Union Telegraph Company's poles were burnt.

A Burkeville dispatch states that the Richmond and Danville Railroad lost about two thousand cords of wood. Mrs. Sarah Perkins, living near Liberty church, lost two barns and all her fencing. Price's school house near Liberty, was burned. We hear of four fires in Lunenburg yesterday evening, sweeping fences and small timber for miles. Mr. Jack Forwick losing a granary. There was great excitement among the people, who turned out and did all they could to stop the flames. The damage will be seriously felt by farmers in loss of fences.

A young man by the name of Mr. J. L. Lagrand, in attempting to keep a barn from burning, which was encircled by fire, says an Appomattox Depot correspondent of the Petersburg Index, found he could not succeed, and ran through the flames for a distance of 40 yards. He was badly burned and died Wednesday night from the effects.

From the Norfolk Journal: Messrs. Baird, Roper & Co. estimate their loss by the burning of the mill at Deep Creek at $25,000. They also lose $3,000 by the fires now raging in Dismal Swamp.

In Charlotte and Appomattox counties, owing to high winds, the fire spread with great speed, making complete havoc of all fencing, several tobacco barns, out-houses, and other property. Two persons are said to have been burned in Appomattox.

The fire in Surry county has broken out again, and is sweeping all before it. Great damage has been done. A Danville correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch telegraphs: From the best information I have been enabled to obtain the storm of yesterday commenced its violence about three miles south of Madison, N. C., confining itself near the route of the Dan river, destroying houses, fences, trees, &c. Fortunately there were no very large houses within range. The damage both by wind and fire was confined principally to small buildings along the route down to this place. The large brick dwelling of Captain Thomas Price, a short distance this side of Madison, N. C., had the gable end blown in. The roof of the dwelling was blown off. In this region of country some rain and hail fell with great violence.

The farmers all along the route down Dan river have greatly suffered by this storm and fire. Mr. Pascal Vass and other neigh-

Fires in the Woods.

The fires in the woods in the neighborhood of Fair Bluff, Columbus county, raged furiously on Thursday last. The conflagration approached so near that village that it was found necessary for the inhabitants to turn out for the purpose of saving the place from destruction. They fought it all day long, we understand, and until a late hour at night, and were rewarded with the satisfaction of knowing that their efforts had served to stay the progress of the flames in that particular locality. There was also great danger of the fire getting into what is known as the bay, a complete wilderness of trees and undergrowth just on the outskirts of the village, and which has not been burned over in the last twenty years. It is a low place, but has become perfectly dry from the long-continued dry weather, and would have burned like so much tinder. Had the fire got into this bay the destruction would have been fearful, and it was only through the almost superhuman efforts of the citizens of Fair Bluff that it was kept out. The fences in that vicinity have nearly all been destroyed and the crops are exposed to the stock. In the neighborhood of Whiteville we learn that one gentleman had about five hundred acres of turpentine trees burned. It is also reported that a poor woman whose house was consumed lost her life by exposure, she having been unwell at the time. The fire is now said to extend about forty miles along the line of the Wilmington, Columbia and Augusta Road.

Alarm of Fire—Explosion of a Kerosene Lamp.

The alarm of fire last night, about half-past 8 o'clock, was caused by the explosion of a kerosene lamp in the store on the corner of Fourth and Brunswick streets. The store had just been closed, the wick of the lamp having been turned down. Parties who happened to be passing at the moment witnessed the explosion through the window, when they burst the door open and quickly extinguished the flames. Had it been an hour or so later, and the streets comparatively deserted, there is no telling what the consequences might have been. The fire department responded with the usual promptness, but the fire was out before the engines and Hook and Ladder truck arrived on the spot. The damage was immaterial.

Very Unsafe.

Boney Bridge over the Railroad on Fourth street is in a very unsafe condition. Some of the planks are loose and the ends stick up in such a manner as to almost insure an accident some dark night if something is not done to prevent it. An experienced mechanic a day or two since pronounced the whole affair very unsafe. A new iron bridge is talked of to take the place of the present wooden one, and we learn that the plans and specifications have been prepared, but in the meantime, if the city authorities would avoid the liability of a heavy suit for damages, they will put the old bridge in a condition that will at least admit of passing over it without being subject to the imminent peril of broken limbs or a dislocated neck.

German Schuetzenfest.

The Deutsche Schuetzenfest Gesellschaft, or Shooting Club, of Charleston, will have their usual Schuetzenfest in that city on the 21st, 22d, 23d, 24th and 25th of April. The annual recurrence of this festival is hailed with much satisfaction by our German friends, who for the nonce turn business to the winds and make the occasion one of unrestrained and unlimited enjoyment. Wilmington will have a delegation present this year, as usual, and we wish all who participate in the affair all the pleasure that can be reasonably anticipated or desired. Mr. A. Melcher, President of the Deutsche Schuetzen Gesellschaft, for a complimentary invitation to be present.

Due announcement, however, will be made. —A fine shower of rain is falling as we go to press.
