WILMINGTON, N. C.: TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 22.

THE USURY QUESTION.

The great question of Free Money vs. Usury Legislation is again brought prominently forward in the action of the grand jury of New York, who had been instructed to inquire into the causes of the stringency in the money market. Their report amounts to the presentment of the Usury law, which they declare cannot be executed in New York. They therefore recommend its abolition. They have sent a committee to the Goveror with the presentment and recommenda-

The grand jury are right in taking this ground; but we think the laws of New York should provide means for the punishment of these stock and gold gamblers, who periodically throw the financial market into a state of feverish excitement that they may profit by it appear a winter

The New York grand jury say in their presentment that the enormous rates paid for money by the speculators has had the effect of withdrawing money from the legitimate channels of trade, thus shutting off the business man from the possibility of obtaining money at moderate rates. They think the enormous rates paid for money in centres of trade are due to the existence of the law. We think the existing restriction a large share of the blame for the trouble in money circles, though we believe that money speculators would gamble still if the Usury law was repealed. We have ever been a warm advocate for a free money market. We are so not merely in the interests of trade; the farmer would be quite as much benefited as the merchant repeal of the Usury law has been due to the mistaken apprehension on the part of the rural community that their interests would suffer in corresponding degree with the advantages accruing to the trade centres. The reverse would take place, were the law repealed. The rate of interest would not be greater than now when every subterfuge is resorted to to evade the spirit of the law.

This presentment by the grand jury of New York ought to awaken public interest in the matter in this State. At its next session the Legislature should reconsider its unfortunate action of last winter and at once repeal the laws on the statute books regarding Usury. We ask the members to do this in the interest of the whole people.

THE CHEVALUER BAYARD. Senator Thomas F. Bayard of Delaware declines his "back pay." He says, in a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury making a remittance of the amount of the back pay salary: "As a member of the Senate Committee of Conference to whom this bill was referred, I endeavored, unavailingly, to have this feature of retroactive increased pay stricken out. I had then the alternative of voting to defeat one of the principal bills for the necessary expenses of the Government, because of this objectionable feature and as a consequence to make an extra session of Congress immediately necessary, the cost of which would alone have exceeded the amount of this back pay, and which for other reasons I deemed prejudicial to the public interest and therefore preferred the bill should pass. It was my undoubted legal right to receive this back pay, and it rests solely in my own discretion whether I retain it. My hesitancy on this question has chiefly arisen from an unwillingness even to seem, in refusing to keep this money, to reflect upon those of my fellow members who honorably and conscientiously take a different view of the matter." The statics are ours, and the whole

OBITUARY.

BARON LIEBIG.

A telegram from Munich announces the death in that city, Friday, after a painful illness, of the Baron Justus Liebig, the eminent chemist. He was born at Darmstadt on the 12th of May, 1803, and therefore was nearly seventy years of age at the time of his death. His fondness for physical science discovered itself in his early youth, and he studied at Bonn and Erlanger from 1819 to 1822. By the aid of a travelling stipend allowed him by the Grand Duke he removed to Paris, where he remained from 1822 to 1824. He read at the they are correct in attributing to Institute, at about this period, a paper on "Fulmic Acid," which attracted the attention of Humboldt, who immediately procured his appointment as Professor Extraordinary, and in 1826 as Ordinary Professor of Chemistry, at Glessen, where he raised the University to high eminence in his par-ticular specialty. In 1845, the Grand Duke of Hesse bestowed upon him an hereditary barony, and in 1852 he accepted a professor-ship at the University of Munich, as President of the chemical laboratory. Baron Liebig was the author of numerous works, and capitalist. The opposition to the in which his researches are set forth with great minuteness. Among these may be mentioned, besides his own journal, Annales de Chimie et de Physique, Handbooi of Chemistry, Organic Chemistry in its Application to Agriculture, &c. In his Familiar Letters he delivered his views on chemistry, and its relations to commerce, physiology. and vegitation. The work met with great success, and was the means of securing the foundation of several chemical professorships in Germany. Prof. Liebig was named Foreign Associate at the Academy of Science, Paris, in 1861.-New York Times.

the Savages out of the Lava Beds Their Betreat-A Little Nearer a Solution of the Indian Problem.

HD. QRS. MODOC EXPEDITION, CAMP SOUTH TULE LAKE,

At daylight we heard an irregular fusilade on the opposite side of the Lava Beds, and knew Col. Mason's force or his skirmishers were engaged. At 6 o'clock we heard the boom of the howitzers, and saw shells bursting over Capt. Jack's camp. At this time the rocks were swarming with Indians, and the firing was rapid. The plan of battle was as follows:

From the north side Col. Mason was to advance his command on the right, the Warm Spring Indians on his left circling up along the ledge to unite with the right of the troops from this side, leaving only the lake for the Modoes to escape by. Lieut. Greery was in camp, in charge of the arms and ammunition. Capt. Trimble of the 1st Artillery, with 20 men, were left in charge of the camp on this side. Col. Green, at 7 o'clock A. M. united with Col. Perry's command in about an hour and a half after leaving camp and soon the ball opened. Capt Miller of Company E, 12th Infantry, commanding a battalion, his company being command-ed by Lieut. Leary, had the extreme right. Next to him were Capt. Throckmorton's Battery M, 4th Artillery, and Lieut. Harris's Battery K, 4th Artillery. Capt. Egan's Com-pany G, and Capt. Wright's Comany E, both of the 12th Infantry, formed the center. The cavalry were on the extreme left. While marching along the lake shore, just at the head of Long Cave about a mile and a half from Jack's camp, the troops encountered the first opposition in straggling shots from the bluff, at long range. The men were deployed in open skirmish order, and advanced slowly under such cover as the rocks afforded. Our right opened a gorge in the bluff, from the right bank of which came straggling shots, while a few fell around us from the left bank. Our skirmishers crept up, supported by the reserves, until we arrived at short range, when a severe volley was fired from the bluff, there evidently being 25 or 30 Indians posted there. After standing about 15 minutes the order to charge was given, and the men sprang forward amid deafening yells from the Modocs. Such was the rapidity of the onslaught, and so unexpected that the troops were on them before they knew it, and in a few minutes were masters of the situation and behind the rocks, resting at their leisure. Gen. Gillem had sent an order to Col. Mason to "stir the Indians up" on his side, and he attacked them with vigor, distracting their attention, and ma-terially assisting our troops. Capt. Egan and his men fought gallantly; so did all engaged. Capt. Egan was wounded in the arm, but would not leave the field. The lines were 500' vards apart, and the ground between

At 2 P. M. the order was given to advance the mortars, Major Thomas in command. All was quiet until 5:30, when a sudden and heavy volley rattled along Col Mason's line and continued several minutes. Just previous to this it was signaled that no one had been killed or wounded The pack train of the Warm Spring Indians has just arrived, composed of 17 mules and 150 horses.

At 5:10 P. M. the first shot was fired from the mortars, planting a shell fair in the bluffs. A few shells were thrown, going well into part of the lave beds, apparently doing good work. Our lines now extend from under the binds where lack a cave is, up the ledge-to the south for nearly mile. The bluffs carried by Capt. Miller are now held. Two ledges intervene between the men and the main plateau.

Early Wednesday morning the Modoc's had a big fire in their camp. Maj. Thomas dropped a shell direct-ly into it, provoking a frantic warwhoop, and causing the sudden ex-tinguishing of the fire. Another shell dropped in the same locality, and was followed by yells of pain and dismay The Modoes then appeared and chal lenged the soldiers to come out and manufactures in a column and a half fight. Another shell was the aneditorial, closing thus: What we most swer, and they were driven back .-At 4 A. M., after another fight, the Modoes gave up the attempt to tion for ten years. At 7:45 P. M. Col. Mason's men were advancing and the Indians were seen on the bluff. There was heavy firing at 8 o'clock on Col. Mason's line. A strong effort was made to unite Mason's left and Green's right. At 9 o'clock Col. Green's whole line was moving. Col. Mason at 9:45 signaled that the Modocs were leaving the Lava Beds, and the cavalry were ordered to pursue. At 11:30 all was quiet, Half an hour later there was heavy firing 'at the Modoes' stronghold. At 1:30 the Warm Spring Indians report three more Modoc scalps, making four to-
