Wreck of a Schooner.
We learn that a small schooner called the Toy, commanded by a colored man by the name of Bowens, bound from this port to Masonboro Sound, went ashore just inside the Masonboro' Inlet on Saturday even ing last. She passed over the bar safely but after getting inside she from some cause became unmanagable and drifted on the sheals. As soon as she struck, the break ers overwhelmed her and all efforts to extricate her from the difficulty only resulted in making her case more desperate. Finally the anchor was thrown out and all hand jumped overboard and swam ashore, there ing no boat attached to the schooner. At last accounts one of the masts had gone by the board, the wessel was under water and it , vas believed that she would prove a

The Toy, we understand, was owned by Dr. A. W. Re vgar, and was valued at about $700. Her car, weensisted of building material-lumber, by teka, &c., for Messra. O. G. Parsley, Geo. A. Peck and ____Savage, and was valued at a bout $200. No insurance on vessel or cargo. A greater part of the lumber will probably be saved.

Domestic Labor. The subject of domestic labor is agitating the minds of a very many of our people just now, who are complaining of the un-reliability of a great many of the colored female servants. Many instances occur in which servants leave their employers without notice, thus causing much approv ance and trouble, while others seem to think they are entitled to the privilege of going off and neglecting their business whenever they feel so disposed and returning whenever they get in the notion; and others still decline to depart from the regular routine of business no matter what may be the circumstance requiring it. Employers, of course, get out of patience with this sort of work, and many of them are talking of following the example of Northern com-munities and importing white "help." It is to be hoped that our colored domestics may see the advantage likely to adorue to themselves by inaugurating an improvement in the matters touched upon above.

Caught at His Tricks. Last night, about a quarter past 8 o'clock, a colored boy attempted to steal a bolt of calico from the store of Mosses. McIntyre & Shoard. Fortunately he was discovered in the act by a member of the firm of Shrier Bros., who captured the darkey and delivered him to Messra, M. & S., who turned him over to a policeman. Just before reachescape and was not racaptured.

Olive Logan at the Opera House. To introduce Olive Logan to the public ence to the lady in her personal and nonprofessional character.

A member of a numerous family distinguished in the annals of the stage, she was for many years an ornament to the dramatic profession. To her rare gifts as a writer she adds the cultivated elecution and dramatic intensity of the actress, and no the least striking of her numerous attrac tions as a lecturer, is the mimetic power with which she sketches phases of human nature and human emotion, and thus vivi-fies the admirable verbal portraits with which her lectures abound. Miss Logan, or more properly Mrs. Sikes, for she has been several years a married woman, is of striking and attractive presence, and it is not often that a face is seen more truly typical of intellectual force and piquancy, ac cording to the accepted canons of the science of mental and psychological interpretation through the medium of physiognomy. Her self-possession is that of the practiced artist, and is agreeable and assuring rather than objectionable; her voice is resonant, and essentially charming in itself, appropriately employs the pen of a clever woman. The lecture on "Girls" is a model of the lecturer's art, and we do not recall an effort more thoroughly in accord with our conception of the uses and objects of the popular lee ture-at once to amuse, entertain and enlighten. It is difficult to decide to which faculty of Miss Logan to accord the heart iest praise, so wonderfully does she excel in clearness, dramatic force and unity, characterization, wit and anecdote. Her facul ty of generalization-of synthetical discus service of God. The new building, which is situated on the corner of Fourth and Campbell streets, is a very neat brick structure, capable o seating, comfortably, about three hundred persons. The interior is very nicely furnished, and presents a very attractive ap pearance. The wainscot and ceiling are of native yellow pine, highly varnished, and the celling, especially, is quite unique and handsome. The room is lighted by gas by means of two very pretty chandeliers. Rev. B. F. Marable, of Clinton, conduct ed the dedicatory services, assisted by Rev.

Messrs, Dickson and Burr. Mr. Marable chose as his text, "Rejoic in the Lord always; and again I say rejoice -Phil. IV. 4. He began by saying that the church had sustained far more damage from its professed friends and supporters than from all the attacks of its avowed enemies, and thought the infidelity, materialism, and ritualism of the present day could easily be traced to the blunders and heresies of professing Christians. In illustration of this, he referred to New England, where the descendants of the primitive Puritans, who, almost' without exception, were sin cere and God-fearing men, instead of striving to have their hearts right in the sight of God, turned their attention to the observ ance of outward forms and ceremonies while their lives were in most cases notori ously at variance with their preaching, thus the pure religion of their fathers degenerated till at length puritanism and hypocrisy became almost synonymous terms. He thought much harm was done by many Christians, who seemed to think they must wear long, wry faces when on the contrary they should be the most cheerful people in The sermon was listened to with marked attention, and every one seemed very much At the close of the sermon Rev. Mr.

Burr read a statement prepared by the treasurer, from which it appeared the building had been erected at a cost of about $6, 500; all of which, with the exception of about $300, has been paid. -

It seems that the present structure is only intended for a lecture 100m, and when the congregation becomes larger and better able to bear the expense, the intention is to build a church which will be an ornament to the city.

As this is the only church in the neighborhood, and the city is growing rapidly in this direction, it is hoped it may be the means of doing much good, and that many may be induced to attend, who have now no regular place of worship, and many more who are seldom if ever seen at any

The Election Yesterday.

The municipal election in this city yester day passed off very quietly. We heard of no disturbance of a serious nature in any of the Wards and no attempt to create one except in the First. Here there were two or three collisions between colored Republicans of antagonistic factions, which threatened something serious, but they were finally quieted down. The following are the official returns

The medical journals are as warm in their oraises of the recent address delivered befere the Alumni Association of the University of the City of New York as the daily press of that metropolis was just after the event. Election in Goldsboro. By a special telegram we learn that at the municipal election in Goldsboro vesterday the Radical ticket, headed by Gen. J. W. Cox for Mayor, with a mixture of so-called whites and colored men for Councilmen beat the decent Republican ticket, headed by J. B. Whitaker, Sr., for Mayor, and the Democratic ticket, Col. Baker for Mayor. by a majority of 46. The dispatch says "Thousands of negroes are parading the streets with tin pans and whiskey barrels shouting over the result."
