Further Particulars of the Drowning of the Editor of the Lumberton Robesonian.

In reference to the accidental drowning of Rev. W. S. McDiarmid, editor of the Lumberton Robesonian, on Thursday evening last, the Fayetteville Eagle of Saturday contains the following additional particulars:

"Late Thursday evening he went to a place on the bank of the Lumber river just below the railroad bridge to bathe, when there was a retired shallow place much used for bathing. It seems he had been in the water and returned to the dry bank, and his trunk showed he again went into the water, but by mistake got on the edge or precipice of the bottom of the shallow cove, and fell out in the current of the river where the water was ten or fifteen feet deep. No one was with him and he must have drowned very soon as he could not swim. His body had not been found up to noon yesterday."

"All his clothes, towel, soap, watch, pocket-book, &c., were found on the bank where his tracks led down into the water. His absence attracted no general attention, and he and others had often gone bathing at the same place, and not till early the next morning was he missed. Search at once began with the sad results as above. Mr. McDiarmid was some 35 or 40 years old, and leaves several small children. His wife died two months ago with heart disease. He was a native of Cumberland county, born and raised some thirty miles west of Fayetteville to the Robeson line. He was married in Alabama, where he lived a few years. In 1869 he started the Robesonian, and the paper was becoming quite popular and successful. He was for several years a Baptist minister, a strong writer, active thinker, and an earnest and honest man. His sad death casts gloom over Lumberton, where he was much esteemed, and brings grief to his many friends wherever he was known."

Intelligence reached here by train yesterday afternoon that the body of the unfortunate gentleman was found Sunday morning a short distance from where he went down, and that the remains were expected to be interred yesterday.

Fire at Smithville. A dwelling house belonging to Capt. W. J. Potter, at Smithville, caught fire on Sunday morning about 8 o'clock, from a defective chimney. It was thought at one time that the building would certainly be destroyed, but through the active exertions of the soldiers of the garrison, the Captain and crew of the Revenue Cutter Seward and the citizens generally (to whom Capt. P. desires to return his thanks) the fire was finally extinguished. The roof of the building was consumed or otherwise destroyed, but the body of it was saved. No insurance.

Masonic Temple. We learn from Mr. James Southgate, the energetic agent, that stock to the amount of some $64,000 has thus far been taken in the Masonic Temple to be erected at Raleigh. About $75,000 or $80,000 will be required before the work is commenced.

Grand Royal Arch Chapter. Among the delegates to the Grand Chapter, which commenced its session in this city last night, we notice the following: D. J. Ezzell, Goldsboro'; D. W. Bain, John Nichols, J. B. Neathery and R. H. Bradley, Raleigh; and E. S. Rountree, Wilson.

So general has the public confidence become in Dr. Ayer's medicine, and so great the demand for it, that unprincipled villains are attempting to deceive the unwary by imposing upon them worthless nostrums under a similarity of name. Ayer's Family Pills, Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, Ayer's Cathartic, Ayer's Cherry Tooth Paste, Ayer's Hair Dressing, Ayer's Indian Pills, &c., &c. (none of which are of Dr. Ayer's manufacture or composition) are specimens of the stock of their money but of their health, or the recovery of their health, which is far more important than money. From actual counterfeits the people are protected by law which the Doctor promptly enforces, but these evasions sometimes slide the law, and purchasers must protect themselves by returning to be detected by them.—Dover (N.
