THE RICHMOND CONVENTION.

Conservatives of Virginia in Council. From the Richmond papers we gather some facts concerning the great State Conservative Convention held there yesterday and the day before: - - questi in the source of

On Wednesday during the absence of the Committee on Credentials. Judge Robert Ould, of Richmond. addressed the body. Judge Ould made an eloquent and effective speech. knocking the planks out of the Radical platform one by one, and clearly and foreibly exposing the corrupt practices and deceitful promises of that party. In relation to Hughes, the candidate for Governor of the negroes and carpet-baggers, he said that he was disfranchised from holding office by having fought a duel .-It was true that the duel was fought previous to the adoption of the present constitution, but the code of 1860 contained exactly the same provisions on the subject as the present constitution, and he had searched in vain for legislation which relieved those who had disabled themselves under that act. Hughes' letter was also discussed by the Judge and its weak points and false pretences exhibited in true colors. The speaker had no doubts or fears as to the result of the coming contest.

Hon. A. M. Kelley was next called upon for a speech, and responded in a handsome manner, as he always does. Ex-Lieut. Governor Montague was next called upon for a speech. He attacked the character of the Radical party, and said that the whites who belonged to it were as much traitors to their race as Shack Nasty Jim to Captain Jack and the Modocs. Yes, he said Shack Nasty Jim was the proper name for Bob Hughes, and his party ought to be called the Shack Nasty party. We were better off than most of the Southern States, because we had happily pursued a conservative couarse, not because the Radicals of Virginia are any better, or any fairer than the mongrel horde which has overriden our fair Southern

Col. J. W. Hinton, of Norfolk, being called upon, ascended the stage and made his bow to the Convention and visitors, and proceeded to pay his compliments to Hughes, the Radical nominee ror Governor, whom he characterized as the first in war, first in peace and last in the hearts of his countrymen.

Hon. A. R. Holladay spoke. In the evening the Convention organized, Hon. Thos. S. Bocock chairman. Mr. Bocock made an eloquent speech. In closing he begged the Convention to remember all the wrongs of our Southern sister States and to keep in mind the fact that the Radical party there and here is the same, and if we would escape like fate, we must keep and maintain the Supremacy of the Conservative party.
When nominations were in order Mr. Charles S. Stringfellow, of Petersburg, in a brilliant and foreible speech, placed in nomination General James L. Kemper, of Madison. Seconding speeches were made.

General Fitzhugh Lee, of Stafford, presented the name of Col. Robert E. Withers, of Wythe, in a graceful, eloquent and able speech.

Seconding speeches were made by
Gen. Jubal A. Early, of Franklin; Maj. Robert W. Hunter, of Winchester; Hon. Robert L. Montague, of Middlesex; Maj. John W. Daniel, of

The records of Gen. Kemper and Col. Withers were discussed in some of the ablest speeches ever heard in Richmond, and the most perfect courtesy, dignity and good humor

The vote at the conclusion of the roll-calling is said to have stood: Withers, 178; Kemper, 281; but upon the reading over of the roll by the Secretary so many changes of counties from Withers to Kemper was made that no official count of the vote, as it first stood, was made. On motion of General Jubal A. Early, the vote for Kemper was made unani-mous, amid tremendous cheers and the utmost enthusiasm. Gen. Early

Immediately after the battle he was promoted to the command of the old brigade, which had been successively commanded by Longstreet, Ewell and A. P. Gen. Kemper commanded temporarily a division com-posed of several of the brigades afterwards composing Pickett's division. He commanded his own brigade in the battles of South Mountain and Sharpsburg. He fought at Fredericksburg where he was in the hottest of the fire. He was sent to this State and commanded our forces at Kinston. At Gettysberg Kemper was supposed to be mortally wounded. He was held a prisoner in the hospital for three months, but upon the written certificates of several United States surgeons that he mut soon die; he was finally exchanged. After the close of the war, General Kemper retired to his home in Madison county and resumed the practice of law. The Enquirer closes a well-written sketch of the able, liberal and heroic Kemper in these words:

Gen. Kemper is a man of healthy and vigorous mind. In thought he is bold and independent. In action prompt and decisive. Wherever he turns he makes friends and lasting friends. When he becomes Governor it will be seen that his ability as a statesman are equal to his qualities as a soldier, and that in nothing is he less wanting than in the graces and manners that go to make up "a true Virginia gentleman."

The Result So Far as Heard From-Triumph of the Regular Republican

The election in this city yesterday passed off very quietly. Very little interest was manifested, as is shown by the great falling off in the vote, as compared with that of previous elections. The Consarvatives had no ticket in the field and the fight was between the Regulars and Independents on the Republican side, the former, as will be seen by the vote. having carried the day. The vote on the amendments was closer than was to have been expected, the Second Ward having done nobly. If the whole State has done as well as Wilmington, comparatively speaking, they will be ratified by a respectable majority.

We give below the complete returns from all the Wards except the Lower Division of the First Ward, which failed to come to hand. They are sufficient, however, to establish the result:

Effects of Being "Fond of a Glass" and Striking a Glass. A white sailor belonging to one of the vessels in port, having succeeded in "running the blockade" somewhere and getting too much "benzine" on the brain, went into a house on Dock, between Front and Water streets, yesterday morning, about 111 o'clock, and being rather disorderly in his behavior was put out. Becoming in censed at this treatment he squared himself off in true pugilistic style and hit the glass door which had been shut in his face a tremendous blow with his fist. The result of this act of undoubted bravery was the severing of one of the main arteries in his wrist by the broken glass, from which the blood flowed in a perfect torrent. A policeman came along and took the poor fellow in charge, but he had proceeded but a short distance, when, overcome with weakness from less of blood and the effects of his potations, he fell to the pavement, from which he had to be lifted, placed in a cart and taken to the drug store of Messrs. Green & King, where the severed artery was sewed up. He was literally covered with blood and presented a most revolting spectacle. He was taken from the drug store to the station house, where he remained at last accounts, in such a condition that he was un-

Tersoque at Attempt to Break Janlogu beverq Henry Wilson, charged with burglary, and Samuel Goodson, charged with larceny both colored, made an unsuccessful attempt to break out of the county jail Wednesday night. The jailor knew nothing of it until yesterday morning, when he found that they had succeeded in wrenching loose the staple which held the bar across their cell door. This let them out in the passage, and here came the "tug of war." They succeeded in tearing up one of the planks of the floor and picked a small place in the wall, after which they seemed to have become discouraged and re-entered the cell, where they were found, Jailor Nash placed the two worthies in irons, which will deter them from any further efforts to snuff the air of liberty" at present.

The Subject of Taxes. From a friend who was present we learn that Judge Cantwell, in his long winded speech to the Republicans in front of the City Hall on Wednesday night, made some statistical statements which are not only interesting but somewhat startling to a large body of our citizens. For instance, hessys that according to the census of 1870 the total amount of taxation in New Hanover county for State, city and county purposes, for that year, amounted to over $236,750, which is a sum greater by upwards of $1,000 than the whole taxation for the same purpose the same year in the six counties of Cumberland, Wake, Edgecombe, Craven, Lenoir and Duplin, the total amount of taxation in which counties for 1870 was $235,234. And it would appear from the same returns that the people of Wilmington paid more taxes than Fayetteville, Raleigh, Tarboro, Newbern, Kinston and Magnelia combined. Since that time the taxes have been largely increased and it has been proportionately greater in this than in the most of the other counties
