say that the matter created immense excitement in the district. He was arraigned upon the charge of forgery but he did not attempt to deny his identity, and he very wisely based his defence on the ground that he had lived honestly since the commission of his first fault, eighteen years ago, asserting what was the literal truth that he could not have discontinued the use of the name under which he had enlisted without betraying himself. He moreover begged the court to remember that in two years' time he would have been able to plead the statute of limitations; and his case was strengthened by the presence of second wife and her family, who en-

Journalistic Courtesies. In looking over a pile of old city papers, one will be struck with the space given up to controversies with contemporary journals, and the sharp and often bitter personalities indulged in. Almost every paper had one or more articles of a controversial character, and the editor seemed to be carryingon a personal warfare with three-quarters of the other editors of the city.

There has been a great improve-ment in this respect within twenty years. The old spirit breaks out occasionally in an editorial criticism which is little less than a personal altercation on paper, with adjectives for fisticuffs and insinuations for thrusts. But these journalistic en-counters are less frequent and in bet-ter tone than in other days, while the people look upon such editorial ebullitions with something like weariness, if not disgust. The modern journalist is so much more than a controversialist that the dialectic element has almost dropped out of sight from sheer neglect, like undeveloped organs in the physical constitution. He has to deal with questions in a calm, comprehensive way, as an organ of public intelligence and as they are related to the public welfare, and not as they concern his personality or are depicted in his personal opinions. The modern newspaper is no longer the work of one man. It is the product of a score or hundred of minds working in concert. It represents a common thought. It stands for an idea, a sentiment, a tendency of the public mind. And it owes its importance and influency very largely to its representative character, and the impartiality and dignity and force with which it performs its public functions as an impersonal organ of the sentiments and ideas of that portion of the public of which it is the recognized exponent. It is this that makes a merely personal contest in its columns an unwarrantable obtrusion of private matter upon public notice, and an impertinence. Years ago, in our small communities, largely isolated from the rest of the world by the absence of facilities for swift communication, the opinions and cou-troversies of individuals naturally oc-

Meeting of the Press Association. (Columbia Phonix of Friday, Condensed. A number of the members of the State press met in Temperance Hall, yesterday. Mr. Hugh Wilson, of the Abbeville Press and Banner, was elected Chairman, and Mr. F. P. Band of the Temperance Hall, Beard, of the Temperance Advocate.

requested to act as Secretary. Letters were read from Thomas P. Slider, Esq., of the Progressive Age, of Newberry; James A. Hoyt, Esq., of the Anderson Intelligencer; Thos. B. Crews, of the Laurens Herald, and others, who were unavoidably prevented from attending the meeting. The general tone of these communicotions, as well as the unqualified expression of the meeting, were decidedly against the favorable consideration of propositions from advertising agencies.

The object of the meeting was briefly stated to be to form a State Press Association. The Committee on Constitution reported the Constitution of the Georgia Press Association, with sundry amendments, which were adopted. The Constitution promises that the officers of the association shall consist of a President, four Vice Presi- COOPERS TOOLS. dents, a Corresponding Secretary, a Recording Secretary, a Treasurer and an Executive Committee of five, who shall be elected annually, on the second Wednesday in November, by ballot. That the association shall meet semi-annually, on the second Wednesday in May and November, at such place as may be designated by order of adjournment at previous meeting, and at such other times and places as it may be called by the President, at the request of the Executive Committee. The Constitution may be altered, amended or abrogated at any stated meeting, by a vote of two-thirds of the members present: Provided, That notice of said alteration, amendment or abrogation shall have been published thirty days previous to the meeting at which the motion is made.

Gen. J. B. Kershaw was chosen President; L. C. Northrop, First Vice President; and F. P. Beard, Corresponding Secretary. Executive, Financial, Address, Constitution and By-Laws Committees were appointed. It was resolved that it was the duty and the interest of the publishers to discountenance the custom of credits for any but contract advertisements, and especially calls for meetings, special notices, funeral notices, etc.; that at the November meeting, R. Means Davis, with Major W. T. Lesesne as alternate, be requested to 3,000 SACKS SALT, read an essay on "Country Newspapers;" and Robert R. Hemphill to deliver an address, with John Evins as alternate.

[New York World, August 7.] The Havana Bank Robbers.- A Confession of the Crime.

About ten o'clock yesterday Antonio Queroy Alvarez and Enrique Caceres, the alleged Havana bank robbers, who have been in charge of the police since sunday last, were taken over to the City Court by Detectives Crowin and Folk. The two women who accompanied them on the voyage were also taken to Court. Judge McCue was sent for soon after, and Assistant District-Attorney E. M. Cullen appeared for the people, Jas. B. Craig appeared for the Bank of Commerce of Havene and Mr. Louis Mayaris as of Havana, and Mr. Louis Mayaris ac-ted as interpreter, and was sworn.— The two men and one of the women were then placed at the bar. They are both young men of intelligence and education. Alvarez was Secretary of the bank that was robbed, and Caceres was in the employ of the Spanish Government. They were then informed that they had been arrested on a charge of robbing the bank of Commerce of Havana of gold coin and bills of exchange, and they did not deny the charge. They were told that they could have an examination then or wave it and await the action of the Grand Jury, which meets next were then placed at the bar. They of the Grand Jury, which meets next month. They asked if they must re-main in jail all the time, where upon Judge McCue told them that the bail would probably be so high they could not pocure it. Mr. Craig said he could have the witnesses here from Havana on Friday next. One of the accused desired to go to a hotel, but the Judge told him he must go to jail. The Spaniard then asked that he might be allowed to have his wife with him, but this request was also denied. In their formal examination Alvarez said their formal examination Alvarez said he was twenty-seven years of age; was born at Granada, Spain; was a mer-chant in Havaua. When asked if he was guilty, he said he was not guilty of robbery, but that he was guilty of "an abstraction of shares from a bank." He said they took 149 certifi-cates worth $500 each. Alvarez said the lady with him had nothing to do the lady with him had nothing to do with the robbery. Caceres said he was twenty-eight years of age, was born in Seville, and was in the employ of the Government at Havana. He said he only acted as broker for Alverez, who had the certificates for sale. The two men were formally then sent to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury, and the women were dis-

The New York Tribune.

The New York Tribune Strives Now, as it has striven heretofore, to be first of all and pro-eminently a newspaper. In the promptness, accuracy, fulness, clearness, interest, variety and convenient and attractive arrangement of its news, its ambition is to be the foremost journal of the world. Years of patient labor and costly preparation have created for it extraordinary facilities for the collection of intelligence both at home and abroad. Not only the common events of the day, but the tendencies of popular thought and the ourrents of polifical, social, intellectual and religious discussion are faithfully reproduced in its columns. Its correspondents watch the growth and development of American communities; the progress of republicanism in France and Spain; the spread of democratic principles in England and Germany; the ferment pervading the whole continent, caused by the conflict between the advances of physical and social science and the philosophical, theological and material ideas of a past epoch; the weiting race between Great Britain and Russia for the supremacy in Asia; the wonderful awakening of Japan, and the progress of European and American civilization in China. In all the great centers of activity THE TRIBUNE has its agents, and no expense is ever spared to give its readers the fullest and quickest intelligence of what passes in every quarter of the globe.

American industry receives now, as always, a large share of THE TRIBUNE'S attention. The success, the trials and the wants of the productive classes are studied with particular cars. The progress of invention and of labor saving contrivances, the development of our resources, the preservation of our public land for the landless, the utilization and encouragement.

To scholars and to men of the learned professions The New York Tribune.

eral resources, the extension of facilities for bringing producer and consumer together, receive from this paper the fullest attention and encouragement.

To scholars and to men of the learned professions and of studious leisure THE TRIBUNE endeavors to make itself especially acceptable. It has excited a widespread interest by the publication of full reports of the most valuable lectures, scientific and literary, and its careful and comprehensive summaries of scientific news, reports of discoveries and explorations, narratives of voyages, full record of the proceedings of learned societies, and attention to the cause of school and university education. While it can point to the admirable accounts of the discoveries and labors of Agassiz, prepared for it by ex-President Hill; the reports of scientific and agricultural conventions from the pen of Prof. B. C. Gliman; the papers of Prof. E. L. Youmans, and the contributions of Prof. Spencer F. Baird, of the Smithsonian Institute, any more claborate programme of its intentions would seem superflicus.

In politics THE TRIBUNE is the champion of equal rights, irrespective of race, nativity or color. Independent of partisan ties, but firm in its devotion to republican principles, it endeavors to fulfil the idea of its illustrious founder, Horace Greeley, as the advocate of that national policy to which the preservation of the Union is owing, but the frank and fearless enemy of wrong, whether in the Republican party or in any other. It defends its convictions to the extent of its ability; but in its news columns it remembers that its readers have a right to see both sides of svery controversy, and to get the whole truth of every question, whether it tells for or against the political theories of the conductors of the paper.

And finally, THE TRIBUNE holds that new era of journalism which is now dawning must be distinguished by decency of language, candor of statement and moderation in debate. It eschews the coarse invective and vulgar insolemee which have so often mared ture.

THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE contains a careful summary of news, a very large proportion of agricultural information, a careful selection of literary and miscellaneous reading, and the cream of the correspondence and editorial matter of the daily

SIXTH YEAR

THE ALDINE,

An illustrated monthly journal, universally admitted to be the handsomest periodical in the world.

A representative and champion of American taste. NOT FOR SALE IN BOOK OR NEWS STORES!

THE ALDINE, WHILE ISSUED WITH ALL THE regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it has been bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is a unique and priginal conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any shape or number of volumes, for ten times its cost, and then there are the chromos besides!

Notwithstanding the increase in the price of subscription last fall, when THE ALDINE assumed its present noble proportions and representative character, the edition was more than doubled during the past year, proving that the American public appreciate, and will support, a sincere effort in the cause of Art. The publishers, anxious to justify the ready confidence thus demonstrated, have exerted themselves to the utmost to develop and improve the work; and the plans for the coming year, as unfolded by the monthly issues, will astonish and delight even the most sanguine friends of the ALDINE.

The publishers are authorized to announce designs from many of the most einhent artists of America. In addition THE ALDINE will reproduce examples of the best foreign masters, selected with a view to the highest artistic success and greatest general interest, avoiding such as have become familiar through photographs, or copies of any kind.

The quarterly tinted plates, for 1873, will reproduce four of John S. Davie' inimitable child-sketches, appropriate to the four seasons. These plates, appearing in the issues for January, April, July and October, would be alone worth the price of a year's subscription. July and October, would be alone worth the price of a year's subscription.

The popular feature of a copicusly-illustrated "Christmas" number will be continued.

To possess such a valuable epitome of the art world, at a cost so trifling, will command the subscriptions of thousands in every section of the country, but, as the usefulness and attractions of THE ALDINE can be enhanced, in proportion to the numerical increase of its supporters, the publishers propose to make "assurance doubly sure" by the following unparalleled offer of

PREMIUM CHROMOS FOR 1873:

Every subscriber to THE ALDINE, who pays in advance for the year 1878, will receive without additional charge a pair of beautiful oil chromos, after J. J. Hill, the eminent English painter. The pictures entitled "The Village Belle" and "Crossing the Moor" are 14x30 inches—are printed from $5 different plates, requiring 25 impressions and tints to perfect each picture. The same chromos are sold for $39 per pair in the art stores. As it is the determination of the conductors to keep THE ALDINE out of the reach of competition in every department, the chromos will be found correspondingly ahead of any that can be offered by other periodicals. Every subscriber will receive a certificate, over the signature of the publishers, guaranteeing that the chromos delivered shall be equal to the samples furnished the agent, or the money will be retunded. The distribution of pictures of this grade, free to the subscribers of a $5 periodical, will mark an epoch in the history of art, and considering the unprecedented cheapness of the price for THE ALDINE itself, the marvel falls little short of a miracle, even to those best sequalnted with the achievements of inventive genius and improved mechanical appliances. (For illustrations of these chromos see Nov. issue of THE ALDINE.)

THE LITERARY DEPARTMENT will continue under the care of Mr. Richard Henry Stoddard, assisted by the best writers and poets of the day, who will strive to have the literature of THE ALDINE always in keeping with its artistic

WILSON'S AMMONIATED SUPER PHOSPHATE OF LIME.

WE ARE PREPARED TO INTRODUCE MORE WE ARE PREPARED TO INTRODUCE MORE extensively than we have ever been the abeve named valuable FERTILIZER. We propose to place the same in the hands of good and reliable merchants at various accessible points, where we can feel that a reliable standard fertilizer can and will be appreciated.

We have sold and used this fertilizer for the past four years. It has no superior now in use, being not only cheaper than the geninne Peruvian Guano, but far superior. We shall be pleased to open correspondence with good and reliable merchants at various points in our agricultural districts, where farmers take a pride in farming and at the same time put forth proper efforts to make their FARMS FAY.
