Maine went Republican on Monday by 11,000 majority. Last year the Republicans carried that State by 16,537. The loss of 5,500 is attributable to the thin vote, and not to any extra exertions made by the Democrats. It was a sluggish canvass on both sides

General Butler and Southern State Debts.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7, 1873. An interpretation is given here of Gen, Butler's letter to the Governor of Mississippi inquiring the amount of the State Debt entirely different from the explanation given in that State at the time it was made public. A gentleman in high official position here and one well known to be acquainted with Gen. Butler's view's and plans is authority for the statement that immediately after the adournment of Congress Gen. Butler began to mature plans for driving through Congress, at its next session, a bill providing for the assuming of the State debts of the Confederate States or for guaranteeing interest Gapernon of Mississippi, which unex-pectedly became public, is believed to be simply one of numerous inquiries to gather data upon which to base preliminary action.

DEFALCATION OF A TAX COLLECTOR. Charles S. Ramsburg; Deputy Col. lector of Taxes for the District of Columbia, was arrested yesterday, on information by Collector Slater, charging him with receiving sums of money on account of taxes from various persons in Georgetown, for which he has failed to account to the Collector's office. It is supposed that the relefalentions will be from $10,000 to $15,000. He admits that he collected the money, and gave as an excuse that he had used it in order to relieve himself from pecuniary business embarrassments, and with

He spent last winter in this city, with his family and now resides temporarily at Chester, Penn.

A Pennsylvania Tichborne. An American Tichborne has ar peared at Mauch Chunck, Pa. He claims forty thousand acres of land in Luzerne county. These lands were purchased years ago, and are now owned by tax titles, or isufficient conveyances, it is said. The heir, Jas. Turnbull, was lost for twenty years. He went to sea, was wrecked in the Gulf of Mexico, was picked up and carried to South America, lived for a time on the Isthmus of Panama, was one of the Argonauts of '49 to California, and finally settled in Mazat-ian, Mexico. The case came up at the last session of the Court at Williamsport, but was postponed on account of the engagements of counsel, who were members of the late Constitutional Convention, then sitting. The suit only involves the little matter of some forty million dollars, for

- An Atlanta man has patented a new railroad bar. The shoe of the bar is a fixture, while the tongue or bar proper is moveable, so that on the latter wearing out it can be removed at less than half the cost, rerolled, and when put down, the time consumed is about one-tenth of that necessary to the removal of the whole bar, as in the old way.

- A handsome and accomplished married lady of Columbus has written a novel, which is soon to be published by a New York house os prominence, says a Georgia paper. Competent critics have examined the manuscript, and give the work unequalified praise.

- The French Government has received notice from Berlin that France having fulfilled all her engagements. the occupation of her territory by the German forces is legally ended. The evacuation of Verdun by the Germans has begun.

- The recently published letters the celebrated Graphic balloon will giving reasons for the overthrow of Thiers, and purporting to be from the Duke de Broglie, is pronounced apoeryphal; and the report that Germany is purchasing Lower California from Mexico is declared baseless.

- United States Minister Foster has extended an invitation to the Mexican Government to participate in the Centennial Celebration to be held at Philadelphia, July 4, 1876. President Lerdo de Tejada accepted, for his Government, the invitation assuring the Minister that Mexico will make great efforts to be worthily represented at the Exposition.

A Lady's Norve.

Poughkeepsie Eagle as Mrs. Carter, whose summer residence is near Sing Sing, was approaching the depot in the train from Albany on Monday afternoon, she put her arm out of the car-windaw to wave a handkerchief to her children, who were awaiting her arrival, and at that moment the cars passed close to an iron post, and this struck Mrs. Carter's arm with such violence that the sound of the concussion was plainly audible to those sitting near. She, however, did not utter even the slightest exclamation of pain, but with the aid of her other hand quietly drew her injured arm into her lap, and with tightly compressed lips only looked the pain she was undergo-ing. "I am afraid my arm is broken;

but please don't mention it," she said in answer to sympathetic glances. An examination showed that her arms was fractured in two places, but on the train's arrival at the depot she walked quiety to her carriage, hiding her agony lest it should cause pain to those dear to her.

Anthrucite Burning Locomotives.
The Boston Traveller says two anthracite coal burning locomotives are now in daily use on the Eastern rail-road, and that they possess greater power and speed than engines of the old pattern, and are also in their action more economical. As in illustration of their good qualities it says that a long passenger train arrived at Portsmouth from Portland, on Mon-day, nineteen minutes behind time, but, although the grades between Portsmouth and Boston are unusually heavy, a hard coal locomotive made up the lost time, and brought the train into Boston according to the schedule. The distance from Portsmouth to Somerville (fifty-four miles) was made in one hour and forty minutes. Reckoning two minutes for each of the six stops, this would make the mean time one hour and twenty-eight minutes, over heavy grades, with a very heavy train.

Mr. Smith Hises to Explain. Mr. S. M. Smith, the Secretary o the Illinois Farmers' Association and leader of the farmers' movement in the West, has made an elaborate address in explanation of his position, and especially of his speech at Win-chester, which he claims was misreported and garbled. The Winches ter speech was, as reported, very violent in tone, and has been seized upon by the enemies of the movement at the West and elsewhere as an illustration of the unreasonableness of the farmers and the groundlessness of their complaints.

Castelar in the Catacombs. From his recent work, Old Rome and

New Italy.] Above, the temples were magnifi-cent; surrounded with gardens and meadows, where innumerable birds sung in aviaries; marble vestibules adorned with wondrous statues, where the cunning of the sculptor gave to the inert stone all the warmth and vitality of the soul; museums for the preservation of the swords of the early heroes, and of the trophies they took in field and city; while below, in the darkness-close to those wonders of history, close to those miracles of art-lay the sombre temple of Christian worship, entered like the dens ot wild animals, and peopled by some humble figures symbolical of sorrow, pursued by despotic cruelty, and often tortured in drunken orgies.

· Then these fanaticts in creed, superstitious by temperament, secluded in darkness, believers in the crucified Jesus, these insane preachers, these passionate sectarians—the feeble, the poor, the ignorant-were, after all those summoned to awaken and to call down the living flame of the spirit on the intoxicated and corrupt world, which poisoned with its orgies and its vices not only the human conscience, but even material nature.

What strength had they? Arms? Their word. What riches? Their faith. What power? That of resignation and suffering. Had they legions? The legions of martyrs. Had they property? That of the tomb. What they really possessed was a force which is unconquerable, a weapon that is never blunted, riches that cannot be lost, possessions that cannot be exhausted.

The mysterious light without shad w, and which grows not dim; the living fire, which quickens and is not quenched; the immortal soul of nature, the acting spring of society, the air in which the soul is free; an unfailing faith bestowed on them by Heaven with the gift of miracles. The conquered were conquerors: the dead were givers of life; the weak, with hands pierced by the nails of the cross vanquished the savage fierceness of barbarians.

A number of the members of the Uniform Lodge, K. of P., of this city, visited the new Lodge of the Order at Magnolia on Monday. Unfortunately, it rained during their entire stay in that flourishing little town, but still we learn that they enjoyed the trip very much, being very hospitably reated by their brethren in that place. They returned home yesterday morning. They represent Magnolia Lodge to be in a flourishing condition, with evidences of a bright future before it.
