transatlantic exploration is The gaping world is disap-Some people are called unbefore were called Wise. wise that Some are denounced as Goodsells who before were praised for their Galileo-like prescience and enterprise. Canoes of paper are being gotten ready to make a voyage up Salt river. The Car will not be taken along; even the Life-boat will not be required. It is such a short voyage up Salt River. So many well-wishers. The way is plain, too. No nautical instruments needed. No experienced navigators. No graphic reporter. No anything, but a figure of patience sitting on a tombstone smiling through grief at the failure of the great balloon trans-ocean passage.

Though the trip to Europe at the expense of the Graphic has been indefinitely postponed, we believe the day is not far distant when what the Messrs. Goodsell and Messrs. Wise and Donaldson have failed in will be accomplished. We have faith still in the "easterly current"-that is, the blowing steadily and always from west to east. And we also believe that with strong material for the air ship, with plenty of gas (oh there is nothing like gas!) and with a skilful aeronaut and no great storm to encounter on the way, the transatlantic air passage will be made. Science is onward. There is no balking science.

ON TO EUROPE.

When United States major-generals get into personal quarrels in billiard rooms with citizens, it is not so wonderful if somebody gets shot. Gen. Canby fell in the service of the country, trying to make peace; Gen. McCook was shot in a private squab-

Tampering with rafts on the Red River, it is thought, had something to do with starting the terrible epidemic which is now ravaging Shreveport There were eighteen deaths day before yesterday, and the nurses are already worn out.

TIMELY TOPICS. One of the most remarkable sales of cattle ever made in this country or in the world took place at New York Mills, three miles from Utica, New, York, on the 10th instant, comprising the herd of Duchess and Oxford breeds belonging to Hon. Samuel Campbell. The sale attracted the most prominent short horn breeders of the world, including representatives from the great grazing sections of Kentucky, Illinois, Ohio, Minnesota, Canada, England and Scotland, About five hundred people were present, including all the American breeders, and several distinguished purchasers from England. Mr. Megibben, of Kentucky, paid $12,000 for the three-year old Second Duke of Oneida. The First Duchess of Oneida brought $30,000 from Lord Skelmersdale. Lord Bective bid off the Tenth Duchess of Geneva at $35,000. The highest price paid was $40,600 by Mr. Pavin Davis, of Enghand, for the Eighth Duchess of Geneva. There were in all one hundred and eleven animals presented. The sum realized was $380,890. The Duchess herd was originally from England, imported in 1858, and kept in perfect purity in Duchess county, New

The defeat which Butler met with at Worcester is not the first he has survived with stoical indifference. More sleek than saturnine, he will, like Monsieur Tonson, "come again." No man need congratulate himself that we are done with Butler and Butlerism Because delicate stomached Mas-totally annihilated, or to hide his abashed face in his hat, he quietly arises, advises his friends to vote for the platform, approves of it himself, and it is carried by an overwhelming majority. Rebuked? Not a bit of it. Weakened by it? By no means. As far as can be seen at present he is stronger than ever; ready to enter into a new fight for the Governorship some years hence; bold, defiant, unscrupulous, brazen. He is not shaken off yet." But it is hoped that, for all his known audacity and unscrupu lousness, we shall have an end soon of his dangerous ascendancy in national politics Repudiated by his own State, may we not look for loss of influence elsewhere?

Capt. John C. Let this be borne in mind. Capt. Wells may be right." By the way, that officer thinks the only practicable route to the Pole is by Spitzbergen,

A BAD BEGINNING

The Bride of a Week Imbuer Her Her Hands in the Blood of Her

|Burksville (Ky.) Courier, 5th.] The enmity and ill feeling which have existed between Jasper and Clay Watkins (two brothers) for a year or two past have at last culminated in the death of the latter. It will be remembered that we made mention of the shooting of Clay by Jasper on Wednesday of last week in our last issue. It is not known positively whether Jasper fired the shots referred to or his wife, as both were up stairs from which the shot came. At any rate Clay, as he was leaving his mother's house, received the con-tents of a double-barrel shot gun in the hands of either Jasper Wadkins or his wife. The load took effect in the back, and would in all probability have proved fatal. But t seems that Jasper was fearful that Clay might recover. So on Friday morning of last week Jasper and his wife went over to his mother's liouse and Jasper got into; conversation with his brother Clay, and they conversed a few moments upon some subject. Jasper's wife, who had taken a seat near the bedside of her wounded brother-in-law, after sitting a few moments, got up, and, drawing a re-volver which she had concealed in her elothing, and walking up within two feet of Clay, fired on him, the shot penetrating the heart, killing him almost instantly.

Jasper and his wife were arrested and brought to town on Saturday, and kept under guard at the hotel. The trial will doubtless occupy several days. After the evidence is heard we hope to be able to give our readers fuller particulars of this unfortunate

"ON THE MAKE."

The New Witness in the Stokes Case A Bashing Widow Willing to Tell What She Knows About the Fisk Murder for Ten Thousand Bollars-

Minnie White Benton Once More. A telegram from New York states that now that the desired witness. Mrs. Benton, has been secured, the third trial of Stokes for the murder of Fisk has been set for the first Monday in October. Of this witness the New York Tribune says:

Her maiden name was Minnie White, and she was born in Lexington, Ky., in 1836, being at the present time, therefore, thirty-seven years Soon after reaching womanhood she went to New Orleans, and in that city remained for over fifteen years. She there lived the life of an adventuress, being especially notorious during the war. In the year 1863 she married Gen. Benton, of the United States Army, who died very suddeny three months after the marriage. Mrs. Benton in 1865 went to Washington, remained there three years, and then came to this city, where she has since resided. In the year 1871, it is alleged, she became acquainted with James Fisk, Jr., and Edward S. Stokes. A few days after the murder of Fisk she visited Stokes at the Tombs prison and told him that she could give most important testimony in his favor. Stokes told her to tell what she knew to his lawyers.

In relation to what passed at that nterview, Mr. John D. Townsend, one of Stokes' counsel on the first trial, made the following statement: Mrs. Benton professed to Mr. John McKeon that she could testify to such facts that Stokes would certainly be acquitted. For this service she asked $10,000. Mr. McKeon replied that she ought to be willing to give evidence which might save a man's life without asking pay. He would not give her a penny for her evidence, and was confident, from her asking such a preposterons amount as $10,-000, that she knew nothing whatever about the murder. McKeon therefore did not subpena her to appear at the trial, declaring her profession of knowledge of the murder a falsehood. The prosecution were apparently aware of Mrs. Benton's existence at the first trial also, District Attorney Allen asking one of the witnesses a question respecting her. The prosecution at that time were evilently not desirous of hearing her

The friends of Mrs. Benton alleged that the evidence which she would give would be the following: She had been visiting a friend in Grand Central Hotel a half an hour before the commission of the murder. Happening accidentally to look out of the parlor window, she saw on the opposite side of the way Edward S. Stokes. She had beckoned to him and he had crossed Broadway and entered the hotel. He had then come up to the parlor and conversed with her for over fifteen minutes. She had then left him in the parlor. descended the ladies' stairway, and was just going out of the street door when Fisk drove up in his carriage. Fisk leaped out of his carriage, met her on the sidewalk, and talked with her then in front of the hotel for a few moments. Fisk then entered the hotel and she started to walk up Broadway. She had walked only a few feet when she heard the report of a pistol and saw a boy run out of the hotel in evident fright. She went back to the ladies' entrance, and had again entered the hotel, when looking up the stairway she saw two men carrying Fisk up the stairs and As she was going up the stairs she found on one of the lower steps a revolver, and from its position thought that it must have belonged to Fisk. She had concealed the revolver and had gone up the stairs to her friend's room, friend had persuaded her not to re-veal her finding the pistol, and she had consented to suppress her discovery. Since the day of the murder had not said anything to the authorities concerning Fisk's revolver, fear-ing it might injure the chance of Stokes' acquittal.

STAUNTON, VA., Sept. 11. In the case of Mrs. Sarah M. Allen, charged with the murder of her husband by poison, there will be no preliminary examination, and her trial will take place at the October term of the court. This afternoon ex-Secretary Stuart, of counsel for the prisoner, made application to Judge Smith to ball her, on the ground that Imprisonment endangered her life.— She came into court dressed in mourning and veiled, leaning on the arm of the jailor, and was pale and feeble. The physician, Dr. McChesney, who s attending her in jail, testified that she has had two hemorrhages since her confinement here, and her life is periled by imprisonment. The amount of bail was fixed at five thousand dellars, which her counsel claims was excessive. - The court will decide tomorrow whether it will be lowered.

SOUNDING AN ALARM.

Massachusetts Ex-Governor Makes Unwilling Confessions, and Asks if There are no Signs of the Times. At the Worcester Republican Conention ex-Gov. Bullock said:

Our party, then, which is strong in its recent majorities, strong in the memories of the heroic time so lately passed, strong in many a Senator and Representative who bears about him no odor of suspicion, and strong in its President who stands the hard test remarkably well [sic], has the weakness which comes from its prolonged years, from many of its former issues now receding, from vices first nursed unwittingly, and then tolerated unwillingly from the possibilities of diversions in a general curiosity for new agitations and new departures, from the suspicions cherished by a stern and just people that where there is so much smoke of investigation there must be some fire of truth. And now is the hour, nor one hour too soon, to arrest the tendencies and correct the abuses wherever they may be found. Let us not be found in the same order of time with the great Cardinal, who, after the discovery of his deceptions upon his sovereign and his misuse of the public moneys, and after his own downfall, bitterly ex-claimed that "corruption wins not more than honesty.' And now, fellow-citizens and Republicans, are there no signs of the times-from California, from new names and new organizations in the West, from the reports which come to us, from our own instincts and intuitions as to what is going on in distant fields of canvassing—are there no signs visible to the Republicans of this State and of all the States that if we would continue our power for public good we must rise to the exigency of the occasion? I allude to no technical method of civil service reform, so-called, for in my humble opinion it is but a doubtful, certainly only a partial remedy—good enough for a political demand by one party and a political promise by another party in a Presidential election, good enough for a commission to sit upon, but limited at best, liable to evasions and inadequate for a national disease, It relates to capacity more than to fitness. Education furnishes capacity, but integrity must be added for fitness. No, the conscience, the determination, the action of the party, must rise to a general and unqualified demand for purification in all the offices and in all the practices of the Government service.

The Great Council of Red Men at Wilmington, Delaware.

The report of the Great Chief of Records, made to the council on Wednesday, states that there are now under its jurisdiction 459 tribes, with a membership of 34,758. During the past year their receipts amounted to $2,901,052 24, of which $966,375 01 was paid out for the relief of memers. The order is in a very flour ishing condition. On Wednesday afternoon the members made an excursion to Fort Delaware, on the steamer Felton, and inspected everything of interest on the island. They returned at an early hour from this pleasant trip, and at nine o'clock were entertained at a banquet at the Clayton House, Many distinguished gentle men were present, and a pleasant evening was spent, political as won

A Notable Incident of the Baltimore

Brotherhood collecomerive E An incident of the fire is worthy of notice. Mr. Forrest, proprietor of the City Hall Hotel, corner of Holliday and Fayette streets, finding that the hotel was in imminent danger procured buckets and tubs of water and ascended to the roof, and unaid ed prevented the burning of the roof, which was several times on fire. Mrs. Forrest remained on the verandah with bucket in hand, passing water to her husband. She was advised by the growd below to leave her position, but would not until the danger was past, thus perhaps saving much valuable property besides her own.

PRATT'S ASTRAL OIL itely mile. Perfectly odorless. Always un Absolutely are. Perfectly odorless. Always uniform. Illuminating qualities superior to gas. Burns in any lamp without danger of exploding or taking fire. Manufactured expressly to displace the use of volatile and dangerous oils. Its safety under every possible test, and its periect burning qualities, are proved by its continued use in over 300,000 families. Millions of gallons have been sold and no accident—directly or indirectly—has ever occurred from burning, storing or handling it.

The immense yearly loss of life and property, resulting from the use of cheap and dangerous oils in the United States, is appalling.

The Insurance Companies and Fire Commissioners throughout the country recommend the ASTRAL as the best safeguard when lamps are used. Send for circular. For sale at retail by the trade generally, and at wholesale by the proprietors, CHAS. PRATT & CO., 108 Fulton street, New York. aug 22-6m D&W
