destroyed by fire in Chicago yesterday.

From the Secretary's Report we learn that there are sixty-one granges of the Patrons of Husbandry in North Carolina. This is a remarkable fact when we consider that it was just a few months since the first grange was organized by Col D. W. Aiken.

The success of this order is among the wonderful events of the time .-Almost without a herald-note it has sprung full-fledged into the arena to champion the rights of the farmers of the country. It bids fair to become the most powerful order that ever existed in America.

Another case of criminal carelessness in the running of trains, resulting fatally, is reported in our telegraph news. Now if the road could be made to pay a hundred thousand dollars or so to the families of the deceased, and the party to blame, if he be alive, should be put on trial for his life, we might soon count upon immunity from accidents of this na-

A DAY AT THE UNIVERSITY. The Old Ruin as Seen by One of Our

Eastern Editors. [Robesonian.]

Soon after our arrival we entered the College grounds by the gate near the old Eagle Hotel and passed up to the East Building. The long dining room so familiar to Miss Nancy's boarders is going rapidly to decay. The hotel is deserted, save one room occupied by Miss Nancy. The flowers were neglected like everything else about the University. A large oak had fallen against the north end of the East Building and crushed the steps that lead to the old Phi Hall, besides damaging the roof slightly. Sash was wanting in many of the windows, doors were open and panels broken out. What could have induced human beings to commit such depredation we cannot imagine. The Ballroom is in better order than the East Building. On entering the South Building we found nearly all the recitation rooms open, doors and sash broken and plastering fallen down. The room containing the of a newspaper at Timmonsville, S. C., on Caldwell cabinet of minerals was closed, as was Dr. Phillips' recitation room. We saw several geological specimens lying about in one of the rooms on third floor. These minerals were brought from Europe, if we are correctly informed, by Dr. Caldwell, some of them from the Himalaya mountains, and were all properly catalogued, but it is feared that the specimens are now so confused that it will be almost impossible to identify them. The Chapel was in very good order. The young men and ladies of the village had decorated it handsomely for a Sunday school festival. * * We entered the new East Building through a broken sash and ascended to the third story, but found the Phi Library and hall closed. The room containing the addresses and other literary matter belonging to the society was open, and things in confusion. Many indecencies were committed on this and the old East Building. It is charitable to suppose they were committed during the military occupation. We were informed that the new East Building was open for months to every miscreant who saw fit to enter. The Phi Library suffered greatly, while the gowns belonging to Phi Society were taken by negroes to make dresses for their wives in which to parade the streets of Chapel Hill. The residence of Dr. Mitchell is occupied by Professor McIver, well-known to the students twenty years ago as "Old Keeve." He is Superiuthe latitude of Chapel Hill. The res- cape they had made.

idence of Dr. Wheat is occupied by Professor Brewer, Consul to Grease. Among the many pleasant things re-membered by the class of '57 and many previous classes, is the motherly kindness of Mrs. Wheat. Many a sick student was here cared for and lived to bless one of the best women on earth. Dr. Wheat, we believe, is living in Tennessee. His sons, Gen. Robidean Wheat of the Louisiana Wheat's Battalion, were both killed in the late war. Many of the old oaks that stood in the yard of Dr. Phillips were cut down for firewood by one Martling, who assisted the Pool administration teaching a few village boys who constituted the classes of the University. The College well is a perfect wreck. The physician who attended Governor Swain when he was fatally injured. had him carried on a litter by the old well and had water drawn for him, thinking it would be grateful to him whose all absorbing idea was the University.

We had a pleasant interview with Mrs. Spencer. She is a contributor to several papers, teaches school and is unremitting in her charitable work among the sick and the poor.

and we were surprised to find that an interveiw which we intended for only a few minutes had occupied several hours. We called to see our old friend Miss Nancy. She is a helpless paralytic, dependent entirely on the charity of friends. She is now over seventy years of age and is indebted to the kindness of a friend for a room in the old hotel, where she once enjoyed an income of $25,000 per year. Miss Nancy was ever the student's friend. On several occasions in years long gone by she has been known to ride to Raleigh to intercede with the trustees for the return of some wild student who had been dismissed for bad conduct, she in such instances becoming surety for his good behavior.

MARINE DISASTER.

Wreck of a German Barque at Sea-Loss of Life-Terrible Sufferings of the Survivors-Their Arrival at this Port, &c.

The German Barque Malvina Schutt, Capt. Kroger, which arrived at this port on Tuesday night, brought as passengers six men, being the survivors of the German Tigers and Major John T. Wheat, of Barque Vorwarts, Capt. Schubbe, which was lost at sea during one of the recent gales The Vorwarts was bound from New York to Lubec with a cargo of kerosene oil. About three weeks ago, the latitude not being remembered, she was overtaken by a severe hurricane. The vessel labored heavily, and in the midst of the confusion a sea boarded her and knocked the mate overboard. Fortunately a rope was thrown to him in time, he caught the end of it in his bands and succeeded in climbing on board. When he reached the deck, according to his own statement, he found that the sea had swept the deck clean, the hatches were torn up, while the carpenter had been struck by a heavy sea and dashed with such violence against the deck that his legs were broken in two places. The mate then turned his attention the refixing the hatches, but sea after sea boarded the vessel and knocked the crew in every direction. He ther assisted the carpenter out of the cabin, hoping that he could afford some aid in devising means for the safety of the vessel. As they stepped from the cabin door to the deck another sea struck the vessel and careaned her over on one side. In this terrible dilemma no axes, hatchets, or anything else could be found to cut away the rigging or masts, as everything had been swept overboard. Nothing now remained to be done but to crawl outside and hold on the best they could. A rope was thrown to the wounded carpenter and he was told to seize it and secure himself, but the next sea swept him off and the poor fellow was seen no more. Capt. Schubbe started to follow the mate and carpenter out of the cabin, but as nothing more seen of him, it is supposed that he was either swept overboard as he reached the deck or that he was drowned in the cabin. The survivors lashed themselves to the side of the vessel, the seas in the meantime constantly breaking over them. They remained in this situation about a half hour or an hour when the masts broke and the ship righted. The mate then tried to crawl into the cabin to see if any provisions or water could be saved, but found the vessel full of water and floating on cargo, while seas were constantly breaking over her, knocking her stern in and also kept breaking the cargo out, the vessel in the meantime laying partially on one side and settling gradually at the stern. Two of the seamen named Hintze and Grassmuck were washed off and drawned. The mate and the remainder of the crew clung to the vessel for three days and nights, suffering fearfully, as can well be imagined, for the want of water and provisions. On the morning of the fourth day they saw a barque passing in the distance, but were not observed by those on board, as it was raining, misty and blowing hard at the time. As good fortune would have it, however, the wind shifted just at this opportune moment and the barque was compelled to pass them again when, to their great relief, they were seen and taken off the wreck in an almost exhausted condition. The Barque which took them off proved to be the Alvina Schutt, bound for this port, as before stated. Capt. Kroger, referring to the matter, states that as he was passing a mile or so to the windward his attention was called to something in the distance which he took at first to be a fishing smack or cutter. Taking his glass he found it to be a wreck, but hardly supposed it possible that there could be any one alive on board. Considering it his duty, however, to be certain as to this point, he tacked and and got something nearer to the wreck, but no living soul could yet be seen hat and waved it, when he time doubting very much that she would be able to reach the wreck, as the sea was very heavy and she would have to be forced against the wind. Determined to make the effort, however, as he was now convinced that there were human lives depending on the result, he gave the mate, whom he placed in charge, a keg of water for the survivors in case he should be able to reach the wreck. He also had a line run out and attached to the boat, to be used in hauling

her back in case it was found that she could not work against the wind. It soon became evident, however, that she was making a respectable headway against the heavy sea, when the line was cast loose and drawn in. The boat succeeded in reaching off and landed on the deck of the Malvina

Schutt, when the weary, hungry and exhausted men found themselves among their necessary clothing, while every attention was paid to their wants and they were finally landed in safety at this port. E. Peschau, Esq., the German Vice Consul, then took them in charge and telegraphed the circumstances of the wreck to the owners of the ill-fated vessel. Captain Schubbe was well known in Wilmington, having visited here in the barque that was lost, and his untimely fate is sincerely mourned by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

The carpenter who was lost was known by the name of Klein.

IMPROVEMENTS AND CHANGES. Aid for Shreveport.

A Glance at the Improvements of the City-Changes in Business Locations, &c.

Strolling down Front street from the old depot, the first important change noticed is the new store recently erected by Messrs. D. A. Smith & Co., to be occupied by the Southern Express Company as their headquarters in this city, which is being handsomely fitted up for their use. Next door south Messrs. D. A. Smith & Co. now occupy one, which is being greatly improved and fitted up. In their other store Messrs. McIntyre & Shoard intend removing Oct. 1st, with their stock of Dry Goods, &c. Then comes the handsome iron-front build ing recently erected and to be occupied by Messrs. Geo. R. French & Sons. Immediately opposite, in course of construction. are two new stores, one to be occupied by Messrs. Giles & Murchison, the other, as we learn, being still unrented. Next north of that will be found the marble vard of Messrs. Walker & Maunder, who have erected a brick building to be used as an office, shop, &c.

Then, opposite the National Bank, the large fine brick and iron building belonging to and being erected by the Bank of New Hanover strikes the eye of the beholder and impresses him with the fact that it is by far the largest and handsomest building in the city. The lower floor will, we learn, be occupied by the Bank, the second floor as insurance offices, &c., the third floor as the club rooms of the Harmony Circle and the fourth floor as a Masonic Hall. Opposite that we find the new building recently erected for and to be used by B. Weill, Esq.

as a dry goods and clothing establishment. Then, proceeding downward, we next notice that an iron front is being placed in the brick building next to the Co-operative Store, owned by Mr. L. Vollers and to be occupied by Mr. F. A. Schutte as a furniture establishment and manufactory. On the southwest corner of Front and Dock streets will be seen the elegant building recently erected by the Seaman's Friend Society .-On the lower floor are two fine stores; going up Dock to Second and up Second ward Market we find that a large brick building has been erected by Mr. A. Lessmann, which is occupied by him as a store and residence. Then, in the old burnt district, we find that Dr. Carr has erected an elegant brick building, with three stores on the lower floor. Going thence down Market street we find that improvements have been made in the Live Book Store, and in the establishments of Messrs. T. W. Brown & Sons and S. Levy's, immediately opposite. Further down we notice that the tobacco and cigar establishment of D. Pigott, Esq.,

is being remodeled, the floor lowered, &c. Among the removals, &c., we find the following: J. H. McGarrity & Co. occupy one of the stores under the Seaman's Home: F. A. Schutte removes to the store next to the Co-operative Store: H. Webb to Mebane's corner; C. A. Price to the store now occupied by Messrs. McIntyre & Shoard; J. G. Bauman, on Water street next to Lyon's corner; G. H. Grothgen to Cronly & Morris' old stand; Cronly & Morris to West's stand; A. Greenwald & Co. to F. A. Schutte's present store; J. Fernberger & Co. to store now occupied by Greenwald & Co.; S. Solomons to the store occupied by S. Louis & Co. : Louis & Co. to G. R. French & Sons' store; G. R. French & Sons to their new store: J. E. Buie to the store now occupied by J. I. Metts; Mrs. Strock to A. Lessman's old store, on 2nd St.; A. Lessman to his new store; Newman & Hashagen (a new firm) to store occupied by Mrs. Strock; B. Weill to his new store; M. Frank to store vacated by B. Weill; Muller & Gerdtt (a new firm) and L. Solomons to Carr's block; G. H. W. Runge (Bar Room) to the present Express office: Express Company to Smith's Block: M. U. Finlayson to N. 13 Market St., and the Bank of New Hanover to their elegant structure on the corner of Front and Princess streets. Water Works Company.

The subscribers to the capital stock of the Cape Fear Water Works Company met at the office of Messrs. Cronly & Morris, yesterday, but, without accomplishing any business, adjourned to meet again on Monday next, at 41 o'clock P. M., at the First National Bank.

An Alleged Plot to Escape from Jail. On Tuesday evening, as Deputy Sheriff Morris was taking young Reaves to the depot, to deliver him to Sheriff Berry, of Marion county, S. C., the young man informed the officer that a plot had been entered into among the prisoners to kill young Nash, the turnkey, during one of his visits to the jail and make their escape. He stated further that young Massey, the alleged forger, and another white man by the name of Cannon were the ringleaders in the plot, and that one of them had a dirk-knife for that purpose. He was at'a loss, under the circumstances, to know what reliance to place in this startling disclosure, but reported the matter to Sheriff Black immediately on his return. The Sheriff visited the jail and questioned the prisoners, when one of them, colored man by the name of Rob't Mu phy, stated that he overheard the person mentioned making the plot, or conversing about it. An ordinary pocket knife was found on the person of young Massey, but he stated that he got it from one of the prisoners who was recently released for the purpose of cutting tobacco. Other prisoners and the cells were searched, but nothing in the shape of a weapon could be found. It is proper to remark that Sheriff Black is under the impression that, while there may have been some ground for the report, the matter was evidently exaggerated. Still every precaution will be taken to prevent any such an event, should it be in contemplation or not.

We are requested to announce that a public meeting of citizens will be held at the Produce Exchange this morning, at 11 o'clock, for the purpose of devising ways and means to raise a subscription for the aid of the stricken and dying citizens of Shreveport, who are suffering from the scourge of yellow fever.

Mayor Canaday also calls for a meeting of citizens at the City Court-room, at 8 o'clock, for the same laudable purpose.

There is every reason why Wilmington should do her whole duty in this matter and we have no doubt she will.

Jewish New Year. Next Sunday evening at sundown com mences Rosh Hashanah, or Jewish New Year, being the 1st day of the month Tishree, and the 1st of the year 5634 since the creation of the world. This is also the commencement of the ten days of penitence ending with the Day of Atonement, which falls on the first day of October, when it is supposed that all who have made proper repentance in the ten days preceding will experience forgiveness and atonement for all their sins. The forms and observances of this occasion, which will be carried out by our Hebrew friends in this city as well as elsewhere throughout the inhabitable globe, are founded on the 23rd, 24th and 25th verses of the xxvth chapter of Leviticus, which read as follows: "And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying:

"Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, In the seventh month, in the first day of the month, shall ye have a Sabbath, a memorial of blowing of trumpets, a holy onvocation.

"Ye shall do no servile work therein, but e shall offer an offering made by fire unto the Lord."

For the Morning Star. MAIL IRREGULARITIES. LILLINGTON, NEW HANOVER Co.,

September 17th, 1873. EDITORS MORNING STAR: As your twinkling STAR shines not alone to banish the darkness of ignorance, but also to point the way to the right, and to condemn official negligence, we hope you will let us admonish some one or more Postmasters on this mail route to beware. Let us explain: Letters, sometimes of great importance and mailed outside of this county, often fail to reach here, via Rocky Point, and citizens of Point Caswell and other places on this route suffer the same grievance. We do not believe that the fault is in the Wilmington post-office, but there is something wrong somewhere, as to the transmission of mail matter to this place, which deserves investiration. We call on Mr. Postmaster Brink, lways ready to accommodate the people, and to ferret out post-office wrongs and neglect, to look into this matter. The general opinion is that a considerable carelessness or neglect on the part of the Postmaster at Rocky Point causes this uncertainty and neglect as to mail matter passing over this weekly mail route. Postmaster Ward has the reputation for accommoda tion, but not for such carefulness about mail matter coming over this route as is demanded. Papers and letters coming there for this route are thrown about any way and any where, as it seems, and reform there as at other offices perhaps on this route, is required. If this notice, which we hope the ostmaster at Rocky Point, as well as other postmasters and mail agents will read, does not effect the purpose intended, we shall in due time throw not turfs of grass, as now,

CITY ITEMS.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT.—The sidewalk on the west side of Payetteville street has been vastly improved by the Schillinger pavement. In front of the Raleigh National Bank Captain Brain made a display of some of his fancy work by letting in the stone a large tri-colored star which is decidedly ornamental. The owners of property on the west side of Wilmington street, between Hargett and Morgan, should patronize Capt. Brain at once, or the city authorities should see that something is done to improve it before the winter sets in.—Raleigh News.

PRINTING PAPER.-We now have in stock over 200 reams of news paper, size 24x36, weight 30 Ds per ream. It is good, rag paper, and will be sold, in lots to suit, for cash, or sent by express C. Q. D.

PRINTING INK.—We have just received a stock of News Ink for summer use, put up in packages of 25 pounds each. Cash or C. O. D. orders promptly filled. Price 25 cents per pound.
