The adoption vesterday by the Senate of an amendment of the Finance Committee's report, which amendment provides for the limit of legal tender issue at four hundred millions, is another victory of the inflationists. The day closed without final action on the bill.

Washington, March 25. Appearances indicate the Senate will not agree to the four hundreh million limitation. Three hundred and eighty-two millions is the most the inflationists hope for now, while the chances are equal in favor of three hundred and fifty-six millions the original amount before the panic. Old school Democrats are vigorously | trip. opposing inflation. Western and Southern Democrats find fault with Thurman's avoidance of the question, and are pleased with the lecture administered by Ferry yesterday. A vote on the bill now before the Senate will probably be reached this week. The earnestness and desperation of the advocates of both extremes signify a speedy decision of some kind.

A Good Hater. [Tribune.]

Mr. William Lloyd Garrison is greatly distressed over the fact that the Massachusetts Legislature passed some kindly resolutions over the death of ex-President Fillmore. The same genial gentleman sharply rebuked Gen. Grant for coming to the funeral of Mr. Greeley. He also formed the chief obstacle which Mr. Whittier found in his way when he tried to induce the General Court to expunge its disgraceful censure of Mr. Sumner. Dr. Johnson liked a good hater, but we doubt if even he would have approved these frequent and not altogether decorous outbursts of venom from one whose profession is philan- further evidence.

" He's a Grant Man." [Richmond Dispatch.]

This was made in Massachusetts a great objection to Judge Hoar for the United States Senate. A warm friend of the Judge in the Massachusetts Legislature said, "If I could get it out of the heads of the people that Hoar is Grant's candidate, I should be sure of his election." Evidently this gentleman and other friends saw that the objection was hurtful, and they were asserting with great energy that "the Judge is not Grant's candidate." Nevertheless, we think the Judge, all things considered, the best man that has been Mayor's Court. named.

And yet, would have thought two terday morning: years ago that a man would ever be objected to in Massachusetts because he was the favorite of General Grant? The change that has come over publie opinion in the Bay State is a striking illustration of the continual change in the temper and disposition of the people and the public views of men and things.

It is only upon this constant revolution that we can reasonably rest our hopes for the restoration of the Government to competent hands, the re-establishment of the equality of the States, and the wise and impar-

A Stray Shot and A Narrow Escape.

As two young gentlemen were passing the corner of Sixth and Chesnut streets, on yesterday morning, between 1 and 2 o'clock, a furious dog suddenly sprang at them. Having no sticks to defend themselves with, one of the party drew a pistol and fired at the brute, but missed his aim. His companion at the same moment discovered a dark object in the doorway of Mr. Sykes' meat shop, and remarked that he believed it was a man, saying, "I am afraid you have shot him." Upon investigation the object was found to be a young man fast asleep. The gentlemen aroused him and asked if he was hurt. He replied that he was not. When asked if he had heard a pistol fire, he again answered in the negative. Being considerably "fatigued," the party assisted him to his feet and walked with him to the next corner, where he left them and started in the direction of his house, a short distance off. It seems, however, that after the young man was left to himself he re turned to his old position in the doorway of the butcher shop, from whence he was aroused at an early hour in the morning, when he found that he was lame, and upon examination he discovered that a pistol ball had passed through his boot leg and lodged in his shin. He proceeded to a physician, who extracted the ball, no fracture of the bone having taken place.

A little child about two years of age, named Elisha Warner, fell from the back porch of the Murphy house on Princess, between Front and Water streets, yesterday afternoon, breaking its leg. The little fellow, who is a son of Mrs. Warner, proprietress of the boarding house, was leaning against the banister, when it gave way and he was precipitated to the brick pavement below, a distance of several feet. Though his injuries are necessarily very painful, they are not supposed to be serious.

A High Compliment.

CHAS. M. STEDMAN, Chairman.

TO THE CONSERVATIVE VOTERS OF THE THIRD CONGRESSIONAL

DISTRICT. Within a few weeks we shall be called upon to seect a candidate for the distinguished honor of representing the metropolitan district of North Carolina in the National Congress. Radicalism, which the faithful and gallant Waddell has twice unhorsed, will, in the August election, make a prodigious effort to recover the lost prestige of possession of the most important Congress district of North Carolina. The splendid victories achieved by the eloquent Waddell -first when he led the Conservative forlorn hope in 1870, and again when handi-capped by serious disadvantages incidental to the canvass of 1872, unmistakably point the necessity of again entrusting to his masterly leadership the banner of Conservatism in the struggle of the ensuing Summer. In a struggle of such grave importance as that confronting us in August, the Conservatives of North Carolina must seek the assurance of victory under the guidance of leaders not only of proven capacity to lead, but of established ability to win. The Romans were accustomed to entrust leadership to generals who bore the prestige of success, and the epithet Felix accorded to successful commanders, illustrated their belief in the attribute of good fortune as an indispensable requisite in those seeking popular honors. The name of Alfred M. Waddell is associated with no defeat of Conservatism; but throughout North Carolina it is accepted as the synonym of Conervative triumph—the assurance of Radical discomfiture—the talisman of enthusiastic patriotic endeavor against the leagued enemies of our noble State-American military annals give no more resplendent example of high resolve and noble devotion, than that of the officer, who when asked if he could carry a formidable position of the enemy, eagerly responded, "I will try." So, with the knightly Waddell, when with the spirit of a Rupert or a Bayard, in 1870 he obeyed the summons of his party, and in a canvass of three weeks redeemed a district hithert hopelessly abandoned to Radicalism. Two years subsequently, by the unanimous voice of the Conservatives of the district, Waddell again led our victorious columns, and the temerity of McKay was rewarded with a fate even more inglorious than that of the boastful Dockery. For a third time, it is to be hoped we shall invoke the leadership of the invinicible Waddell. The Spartan Band of New Hanover Conservatives, unterrified by defeat, and undismayed by the overwhelming array of local Radicalism, will rally to the support of the victorious legions of Sampson. Duplin, Carteret, Onslow, and Cumberland, while Brunswick, Bladen, Harnett, and Moore will furnish their full quotas of Conservative strength to the triumphant column which Waddell shall again lead

Intelligence from all the counties of the district leaves no room to doubt the voice of the people: the masses are enthusiastically for Waddell. But we should strengthen him in his coming desperate encounter with Radicalism by such a display of unity as that attending his nomination two years ago. Let the friends of Waddell organize promptly and efficiently, and he will begin the fight sustained by the splendid display of Conservative unanimity and enthusiasm hitherto rewarded with such brilliant fruits. Waddell responds to all the requirements of the Jeffersonian standard of fitness for office: "he is capable; he is honest," and moreover he bears the prestige of magnificent victory against overwhelming odds. For four years he has represented us at Washingten with infinite credit to himself and his constituents. Our friends at the National capital from our own and from other States of the South, beg us not to hesitate to return a representative so accomplished, so universally popular, and giving such rich promise of even greater usefulness and distinction from the river, and which has been at the than that which he has already attained. Let us 25 BARRELS not heed the folly that may possibly counsel the abandonment of a representative, who adds to eminent capacity the experience of four years' service. Conservatives of the Third Congressional District, let us make Waddell's nomination unanimous and march for the third time to assured victory.
