10 the berease of the ontroot beater.
Herewith I return the Senate bill, 617, entitled "An act to fix the amount of United States notes, and the circulation of national banks, and for other purposes," without my approval. In doing so I must express my regret at not being able to give my assent to a measure which has received the sanction of a majority of the legislators chosen by the people to make laws for their guidance. * *
The theory, in my belief, is a departure from the true principles of finance, national interest, national obligations to creditors, Congressional promises, party pledges on the part of both political parties, and of the personal views and promises by me in every annual message sent to Congress, and in each inaugural address.

* * * A declaration containd in the act of June 30th, 1864, created an obligation that the total amount of United States notes, issued or to be issued, should never exceed four hundred millions of dollars. The amount in actual circulation was actually reduced to three hundred and fifty-six millions of dollars, at which point Congress passed the act of February 4th, 1868, suspending the further reduction of the currency. The forty-four millions have ever been regarded as a reserve, to be used only in case of emergency, such as has occurred on several occasions, and must occur whenever receipts suddenly fall below expenditures; and such a reserve is necessary, because the fractional currency, amounting to fifty millions, is redeemable in legal-tenders. It may be said that such a return of fractional currency for redemption is impossible, but steps may be taken for a return to a specie basis, and it will be found that silver will take the place of fractional currency as rapidly as it can be supplied when the premium in gold reaches a sufficiently low point. With the amount of United States notes to be issued, permanently fixed within proper limits, and the treasury so strenghtened as to be able to redeem them in coin on demand, it will then be safe to inaugurate a system of free banking, with such provisions as to make compulsory redemption of the circulating notes of the banks in coin or in United States notes, themselves redeemable and made equivolent to coin. As a measure preparatory to free banking or for placing the Government condition to redeem in a its notes in coin at the earliest practicable moment, the revenue of the country should be increased so as to pay current expenses, provide for the sinking fund required by law, and also a surplus to be retained in the treasury in gold. I am not a believer in any artificial method of making resisting an officer at the time of his arrest paper money equal to coin when the | for the above named offences. coin is not owned or held ready to redeem the promises to pay; for paper money is nothing more than promises to pay. It is valuable exactly in proportion to the amount of coin that it can be converted into. While coin is not used as a circulating medium, or the currency of the country is not moted thereby. convertible into it at par, it becomes an article of commerce as much as any other product, and the surplus will seek a foreign market as will any other surplus. The balance of trade has nothing to do with the question. Duties on imports being required in coin creates a limited demand for gold. About enough to satisfy that demand remains in the country. To increase the supply I see no way open but by the considerable number of operatives. J. S. Heurick, Maj. Jas. Reilley, O. A. Wiggins, J. McD. French,

A special meeting of the Board of Alder men was held yesterday afternoon, the Murray, Geo. Harriss, Henry Davis. The Committee on Finance, through Alderman Grainger, submitted a statement that it was necessary to provide for raising funds to defray temporarily the necessary expenses of the city, prior to the collection of the city taxes.

The following was thereupon adopted: Resolved, That in anticipation of city taxes, the Finance Committee be and are hereby empowered to borrow such an amount of money from time to time and on such terms as they may deem advisable, for the purpose of paying the necessary expenses of the city.

A resolution was adopted that a special Committee, consisting of the Mayor and Aldermen Moore and Adrian, be appointed to make such arrangements with the Carolina Central Railway Company, as they may deem best for the city, with regard to the opening of Front, Brunswick and Harnett streets.

The Board then adjourned.
