LATEST FROM BALD AND STONE MOUNTAINS.

The Disturbance Increasing in Severity-The People Still Excited But the Alarm Subsiding.

[Raleigh News.]

A correspondent of the News, living at Stone Mountain, writes under date of April 24th, as follows:

The volcanic disturbances still exist and are occurring daily in Stone Mountain. There were several heavy reports and very severe shocks on Tuesday, which shook the earth considerably for miles around, even as far as Old Fort, seventeen miles distant from this point. Thursday the reports and shocks were frequent during the day and night, but less severe; Friday, at 5 o'clock P. M., the severest shock occurred that has yet been experienced in the mountains. This shock occasioned considerable alarm with the people on both Stone and Bald Mountains at the time, but through the intervention and influence of the ministers, who are still with us, the fears of the people were

Saturday and Sunday the schocks continued at irregular intervals; in short, they have been, and are now, of daily occurrence since ten days after your special reporter, Captain Woodson, left the mountains.

Explorers and professional men from every section of the country are seen passing to and fro every day. I saw a number on Stone Mountain this morning taking observations, and though they inform us their object is to examine into the cause of the strange wonder, yet they never reveal any facts satisfactory to the people

The citizens, particularly about Stone Mountain, are patiently awaiting some report from the number of scientists who have explored this region, having only seen from the News what your reporter was able to obtain from Prof. Dupree, of South Carolina, through an interview. It is true many of the people have their own ideas concerning the phenomenon, the most popular one being that it is a warning of God's that his wrath will overtake the guilty. Some few whose stubborn hearts would not yield to the pressure of the great religious revival, held at Elliott's in March, say the disturbances are caused by an earthquake in South America. Be that as it may there is one gratifying fact I have to report in this connection: the people are not as much alarmed as at first, but very few even speak of leaving the mountains. As Bill Arp would say they are "getting acclimated to the panic" and are better prepared to stand it. Some few that left the mountains have returned, but the Rev. Posey Ownsby, whose flight by moonlight was so correctly and aptly described by your special reporter, has not yet been heard from. Poor Posey's flight will long be remembered by the Bald Mountaineers. I do not youch for the truth of the statement, but we are told that he particularly cautioned his wife not to look back, fearing he might have an extra quantity of salt to transport and did not wish his progress impeded. Should any unusual disturbance occur during the present week I will report to you on next mail day.

A Prominent Citizen Assassinated in Sherman, Texas. SHERMAN, Texas, April 24.

J. D. White, a prominent citizen of this city, was brutally assassinated at a late hour last night, while return-ing home from an Odd Fellows' celebration in company with a man named Flippan. He received three shots fired from a dark alley. It appears that until recently White lived at Pilot Point, and vigorously prosecuted the murderer of a friend of his named Diamond, by which he gained the bitter enmity of some of Diamond's friends. Several efforts were made to assassi-Point. White's wife names two prominent business men of Pilot Point as his murderers, and charges the flames originated. Another Attempted Robbery-The Thief Frightened off by a Dog. Yesterday morning, about 4 o'clock, an attempt to enter and rob the residence of a gentleman on Fifth, between Dock and Orange streets, was discovered and frustrated under the following circumstances: For some cause, which it is useless to detail here, the family had, contrary to their usual custom, locked their watch dog in the house on retiring for the night. About the hour above mentioned they were aroused from their slumbers by the violent barking of the animal, who was running from room to room and from door to floor, making frantic efforts to get out. The gentleman armed himself with his trusty revolver and determined to ascertain the cause of the strange antics of his dog. In pursuit of his investigations he came upon an open window, which upon inquiry of his wife, he he found had certainly been closed before the family retired. He peered out of the open window and there stood the lower sash, which had been removed from the window, leaning against the opposite fence. Here was certainly a very substantial clue to what had been going on, and the gentleman was not slow to act upon it. He turned the dog out in the yard and followed, himself, with his "shooting iron" ready for service. A hasty run around the lot, however, convinced him that the "bird points around the house, which were apparently those of a man in his stocking feet, and were doubtless made by the thief in his preliminary examination of the windows and doors before trying to effect an entrance. It is supposed that the thief was about getting into the window when the dog heard him. A barrel was found placed under another window, which was so firmly secured that its supposed the thief concluded not to venture an attempt to Mysterious Encounter. Edward Howard, Night Janitor at the City Hall, left the station house a few nights since and had proceeded as far as the corner of Fourth and Chesnut streets when he was suddenly confronted by two white men, strangers to him, one of whom stepped | quired and given. immediately in front of him, drew a whistle from his pocket and blew it, when the two men were joined by a third, who crossed from the opposite side of the street. Howard began to feel a little nervous, but, putting a bold front on, he demanded What in the d-l do you mean!" at the same time throwing his overcoat back so that they could see his uniform. At this the men started back a few paces, when the Janitor, hurried back to the station house, procured assistance and returned to search for the men, but they had disappeared.

Robbing Musicians. Between 3 and 4 o'cleck on yesterday morning a house on Fifth street, in the vicinity of Orange, occupied by a number of Italian harpers, was entered by thieves, who robbed the clothing of the inmates of what money was contained in their pockets, some $4 or $5 in currency, and made good their escape without disturbing the sleepers .-Nothing else was disturbed, although a watch, pistol and other articles of value were scattered about the rooms. A colored girl on the premises heard the noise made by the thieves, but says she had no idea what it meant. The robbers were doubtless the same party who subsequently made the attempt alluded to in another ar-

The Palace of Industry. This evening, weather permitting, will be presented at the Opera House the juvenile opera known as "The Palace of Industry," in the performance of which upwards of one hundred ladies, gentlemen and children will participate. The entertainment will be one of rare excellence, if we may judge by the preparations, and from every indication the Opera House will be crowded. The proceeds will be for the benefit of St. John's church, and we have no doubt that a handsome sum will be realized.

On the Rampage. The steamship Fanita, which arrived from New York yesterday afternoon, became unmanageable just before reaching her wharf and ran into Messrs. Williams & Murchison's shed, punching an ugly hole in the same. She withdrew in tolerable good order, but soon became restive again, this time running into the Messrs. Barry's shed, damage was not material.

There are now forty-one stores in successful operation in that part of the city North of the Wilmington and Railroad, as reported by a gentleman who went to the trouble of counting them a few days since. Another one is in process of erection, and arrangements are being made for the establishment of an auction house in that localicity have been very rapid within the past few years.

The Fire Monday Night.

We learn that the loss by the fire at No. 11 Market street, on Monday night, was much more heavy than at first supposed. Mr. Chas. Kasprowics claims a loss of $2,500. He says that one half of his stock of cigars, consisting of about 37,000, were destroyed. He also desires us to state that it was due to the efforts of Mr. Benj. Lyon that the building was not consumed.

The fish market appears very active. Along the wharf, the many fish carts seem crowded by willing buyers and presided over by busy sellers. Even the cake stands appear to be doing a thriving business, and along the wharf generally things are brisk.

Prohibited. There is an ordinance prohibiting the storage of guano anywhere within the city limits East of the Cape Fear River. We are requested by the City Marshal to state hat the ordinance will be enforced.

Anniversary of the Irving Literary and Debating Association. The first anniversary of this association, composed of young men of German birth, took place at their Hall last night. Mr. S. E. Lyons, as President elect, explained the object of the meeting in a few well-timed remarks, after which Mr. Samuel Bear, Jr., was introduced as the first Orator' for the occasion. He spoke for about half an hour, receiving much applause from his hearers. He alluded to the importance of literary out from Liverpool for this port on the 9th | education, literary associations, etc., and spoke in terms highly commendatory of Gov. Vance, for giving in his late lectures the Israelites of the country their just dues. Mr. Bear was followed by Mr. Abe Frank, who spoke at considerable length in reference to the future and present of the Irving Literary Association, his remarks being well received and much applauded.

At the conclusion of Mr. Frank's address the officers elected for the ensuing term were duly installed, after which the evening's enjoyment concluded with a grand hop in New Hanover Hall. There was a large crowd of visitors present and the affair passed off very pleasantly to all con-
