sum of ten thousand dollars. At the present term of the Court the avocious plaintiff was non-suited; and thus ends the Grinn case.

Mr. Lamar, of Mississippi, Dismisses the Louisiana Question.

It seems that Senator Conkling is the champion in the upper house of Congress of the army of spies and informers who have so fully prayed upon the revenue service...

Mr. Lamar, of Mississippi, made another great speech in the House today, which will not be less for its noble tone and sentiments than for its eloquence and sincerity...

The occasion was the report of the Committee on Elections, in the case of Lamar is a member in the case of Sheridan against Pinchback.

Mr. Lamar was the only speaker in the House in support of the resolution. He was followed by Messrs. Cass, Land and Spear, in a favor of giving the seat to Sheridan.

Mr. Boardman Smith, Chairman in presenting the report, made an argument in support of the resolution. He was followed by Messrs. Cass, Land and Spear, in a favor of giving the seat to Sheridan.

Star-Dust. Scar-faced Charles is now head-centre of the Modoc remnant. A State Temperance Convention will be held in Ohio, at Springfield, June 17. Hon. Luther S. Dixon, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Wisconsin, has resigned.

Headlocks may probably be Grant's opponent next time, thinks the Philadelphia Star.

Bread, of Sullivan county, Illinois, threw her husband into a mill pond because he was too crusty.

On Cooper River, near Charleston, Charles Smith, colored, shot Samuel Pincheon, also colored, and wounded him badly.

Walt Whitman has broken out in an "epithalamium" on Eleanor Grant's marriage. It is said by his admirers to be his masterpiece. It begins, according to the Burlington Tinkler, as follows:

Oh, the hitherless! Nell of the Nodules, gloriously gushing the nocks from the mill; Grant that grim graces gleam, gaily, Glimmering the Grant's Graces, Glimmering the Grant's Graces, Glimmering the Grant's Graces.

A writer in the Milwaukee Sentinel decries the respectful sympathy of all gentlemen who give out their washing. He says it is as vulgar as a man's nose, and other vulgar phrases.

The washerwoman, Saturday, we put on another, fellow a shirt, but couldn't wear it. Although it was ruffled around the bottom, the sleeves were too short to button cuffs on, and there was no place for a collar.

A London correspondent writes: "The Queen, with all her virtues, takes queer freaks now and then, and acts in a manner that gives rise to unfavorable remarks. She has never been very fond of her young son, Prince Leopold, and she has lately displayed a curious indifference concerning him.

The poor fellow is a student at Oxford, where he is said to be very much liked. For some weeks he has been 'dangerously ill'—so ill that at times was believed to be in danger. The Queen did not visit him, nor did she send for him to come to her.

The young man saw nothing of the Queen at Windsor and London in honor of the Czar and his daughter, and now his mother has gone to Scotland, leaving him in a condition of suffering and danger. Still, Victoria is the model and exemplar of all the domestic virtues.

Romance of a Vermont Opium Eatoff. There is a decided tinge of romance to the history of Mrs. Perry, widow of Dr. John T. Perry, of Saratoga, who recently died at Rutland, Vt.

She was once a patient of Dr. Perry's at Saratoga, and, though he was a married man, they became intensely enamored of each other. The doctor finally got a divorce from his wife and married his patient. He became a confirmed opium eater in the latter years of his life, and his presence was offensive by reason of the odor of the drug, but his wife clung to him to the last, and in less than six months after he died followed him to the grave in consequence of care and anxiety incident to his sickness and death.

The Marchioness Tiffinini, nee Miss Wickelmann, of Philadelphia, is very beautiful and equally talented. She writes and converses in nine different languages, is a fine pianist, a charming singer, and adds to these accomplishments, proficiency as an artist and sculptor.
