THE DEAD GOVERNOR.

How Governor Caldwell Died-Lying in State-Arrangements for the Fu-

[Condensed from the Raleigh Crescent of Monday Evening.]

Gov. Tod R. Caldwell died at Hillsboro Saturday evening at fifteen minutes to six o'clock. He left this city in apparent good health Thursday, and that morning he was in the stockholders' meeting at Hillsboro. Death no doubt was on him then. About two o'clock that day he saw Maj. Tom Cain on the street and told him that he didn't feel well; that he got a mean drink of water at Durham, and it made him sick. He went to Col. Tom Ruffin's, and shortly complained of pains in his stomach. He suffered the whole night. On Friday Dr. Strudwick called. Friday evening the pain seemed to be allayed and the Governor thought he was better, and so thought all his friends; but the physicians knew better, for his pulse was getting weaker. Friday night at ten o'clock Dr. Strudwick sent for Dr. E. Burke Haywood, of this city, the Governor's pri vate physician.

Saturday morning the Governor looked bright and comfortable. The special train arrived about one o'clock, bringing Dr. Haywood.

His mind seemed clear and his strength was wonderful. He was continually falling into fitful naps that would last about five minutes. Not one hour before he died the had him up on the floor and Maj. Tom Cain and his wife, brother, took hold of his arm to help back to bed, and the Governor said to him, "Never mind Tommy, I think I can walk back more comfortably by myself," and he did do it, putting one knee and his hands on the bed and then bringing his other knee, and he fell over in bed and exclaimed. "Now I feel more comfortable." About a half an hour before he died he asked Mr. Roulhac to lift him up in bed and said, "If you don't lift me up I will get up myself." He lifted him and propped him with pillows, and the Doctors being present, he went down stairs to take a smoke. Returning in about twenty minutes he found Gov. Caldwell lying out on his back and breathing as gently as an infant. Dr. John K. Ruffin, a son of Judge Ruffin, was holding his pulse. In a very few minutes he had fallen asleep in death without a stir or the move of muscle. The Doctors say that his whole system was poisoned with the uric acid from his liver and kidneys and that it had even reached his brain.

At twelve minutes past one Sunday evening a large number of the citizens of this city of both colors and parties took a special train and embarked for Hillsboro. Engineer Blake drove the engine and made the forty miles in one hour's time. Arriving there an informal meeting was organized at the Orange House and Judge Edwin G. Reade called to the chair. A committee was appointed to wait upon Mrs. Caldwell and requst the Governor's body to lay in state during Monday in the Senate Chamber at Raleigh. The following gentlemen comprised the committee: David Jenkins, R. C. Badger, Judge Settle, J. C. Palmer, J. W. Holden, Dr. Geo. W. Blacknall, and J. C. Blake,-Through her friends as medium Mrs. Caldwell granted the request. At three o'clock the citizens of Hillsboro held a meeting at the court house, thinking that the remains would be carried directly to Morganton, and appointed an escort to follow, The following gentlemen composed the escort: Isaac Streyhorn, James Parks, T. D. Tinnin, H. N. Brown, J. Kirkland, Jr., J. G. B. Roulhac, J. M. Blacdwood and Joseph C. Webb. At precisely seven o'clock in the evening all the church bells commenced tolling and the procession left Col. Ruffin's residence for the depot at Hillsboro. It was a large procession of all the citizens of the town of both parties and both colors. Ex-Gov. Holden and Judge Rodman were among the party. The train reached this city at 10:15, and amid the tolling of bells the body of Gov. Caldwell was laid in the Senate Chamber. Saturday night about 11 o'clock the news was received in this city and the bells began to toll. They tolled all night and all the following day. This morning the old capitol inside and out was tastefully dressed in white and black, policemen were stationed at the ends of the stairways, and the doors of the Senate chamber were thrown open for the people. The following guard of honor, presided over in the Speaker's chair by the Hon. Bartholmew Moore, was divided into different details to keep watch

Batchelor, Seaton Gales, P. A. Wiley, J. C. Brewster, W. H. Finch, C. J. Voorhees and J. M. Tate. The body was closed in a metalic burial case that sat in the centre of the Senate Chamber on a catafalque and as sweet with roses and lillies and magnolias as if myriads of flower girls had emp tied their aprons at the tomb. The Raleigh colored band sat in one gallery and the Citizens' Cornet Band in the other gallery.

At twelve o'clock in the day the John McDonald, W. W. Holden, Stewart Allison and I. J. Young were appointed a committee to prepare resolutions of respect. While the committee were out the Chairman appointed R. C. Badger, A. M. McPheeters and I. J. Young a Committee of Arrangements as regards the running of the trains, the procession, &c. The committee on resolutions reported through General Cox a series of tributes that were feelingly and eloquently prepared. Several addresses were made on the virtues of the deceased, among them one by Prof. Charles Phillips, of Davidson College. He said that he was bound to his friend Tod R. Caldwell by a friendship that was formed years ago at old Chapel Hill and that had never since known an interruption; that Gov. Caldwell had entered Chapel Hill in '36, the year before himself; that he knew him as a freshman and had watched his career ever since; he was a true man. At college he was true, in the recitation room, in the society hall, and he was a leader in all the manly sports. Though he differed with him politically he admired him as a man because whenever he saw clear his duty he went ahead and performed it-he feared God only.

A committee of ten citizens was appointed to accompany the guard of honor to Morganton with the remains.

Work on the road had not stopped because Judge Mitchell's injunction was not served on the persons having the power and authority to stop the work. We hope the question of land-damages in the vicinity of this city will be fairly and equitably settled at as early a day as possible.

On motion of Edward Cantwell, the Mayor appointed the following to prepare resolutions: Edward Cantwell, Geo. L Mabson, D. M. Buie, W. H. Banks, John H. Smyth.

The committee retired, when Thomas M Gardner, Esq., being called upon, addressed the meeting.

The committee reported resolutions, and Juge Cantwell read an eulogium on the deceased, which the city papers were requested to publish.

The resolutions, which are as follows, were adopted unanimously:

WHEREAS, The citizens, authorities and people of the city of Wilmington have learned that on Saturday last the Chief Magistrate of the State, while absent from the capital but in the actual discharge of his exalted office, suddenly fell down into the cold embrace of death, and is buried in the soil he loved and among the people he served so faithfully and so long, and it is are willing to interest themselves in the fitting they should express the public sormatter, and when filled up and returned row in which this event has involved them and the State; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the people, authorities and citizens of Wilmington, have received with profound sensibility the announcemen of the sudden death of Gov. Tod R. Caldwell, our beloved and venerated Chief Magistrate, and that by this calamity North Carolina has lost a distinguished and favorite son, an enlightened and upright ruler, and an honest and exemplary citizen.

Resolved. That these resolutions be for warded to the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the city, with the request that they be recorded upon the minutes of the corpo ration, and a copy thereof be transmitted, under the city seal, to the bereaved family with the expression of our sympathy with them and our respect for the memory of the deceased.

Two Cases of Well-Poisoning-A Reward Offered for the Guilty Par-

Mr. Smith, who keeps store on Fourth, between Bladen and Harnett streets, started to draw a bucket of water from the well on his premises yesterday morning when he found a lot of sawdust in it. He drew some twenty or thirty buckets full of water, in each of which was a large proportion of sawdust, when he finally gave it up in despair. At a later hour he proceeded to the well again and found the surface of the water covered with a greasy looking substance. This circumstance led him to consult two prominent physicians, under the impression that poison might have been put in the well during the night previous. Some of the water was taken and analyzed, when it was found to be strongly impregnated with strychnine and arsenic. Mr. Smith was thereupon cautioned not to use the water either for drinking, cooking or wash-

For the Star. MR. EDITOR:-It is very annoying to business men (and especially to gentlemen from the country) who, after travelling for miles to transact business with the Judge of Probate, are informed upon calling at his office during business hours that he is either "out, or out of town," necessitating some times frequent calls before the business can be transacted, and resulting in some instances in loss to the individual who is compelled to pay interest because his papers can not be fixed, and causing your cor respondent to suggest to that official a perusal of the code of civil proceedure for the State of North Carolina, which, we believe, specifies when the said office shall be open for the transaction of business, or the posisition forfeited by the official, the only excuse being that of sickness.
