Excitement in South Carolina.

AUGUSTA, GA., Sept. 20. A report reached this city this afternoon that about four hundred negroes, under the leadership of a negro named Tenant, intended to make an attack on the whites near Reese's store, in Edgefield, S. C., about fifteen miles from Augusta. It is reported that some unknown parties fired into the house of Tenant last night, and that he intended to retaliate upon the whites, who assembled to resist the assault. A courier arrived here with a note from a prominent white citizen of Edgefield asking for assistance. A party organized and were on the eve of starting from here when another courier arrived, bringing the information that Tenant had been arrested by the civil authorities, that the negroes had dispersed, and all was quiet. Tenant was a member of the Convention which nominated Chamberlain.

There is an uneasy feeling that there will be trouble in Carolina between the whites and blacks. In that event there is no xuestion of the white people of Georgia on the line of the Savannah river going to the assistance of their neighbors in Caro-

Later reports represent all parties quiet.

One Just Word.

[Methodist Recorder, Pittsburg.] The late Southern news is ominous of trouble between the races. In several places violent conflicts has already occurred, and the future portends peril. It is to be hoped that Christian counsels may prevail instead of political partizanship, and that the threatened war of races may be averted. The impetuous adventurers in the South who, unacquainted with the situation, and caring only for their own personal gain, are agitating the people to riot and bloodshed, are deserving of arrest and punishment.-The trouble comes of political manœuvering. If wise and patient admanent peace. The negroes are not ers are proverbially kind toward them. Their interests are mutual, and the times will be easy enough to all who accept the situation in good faith. But the rascally speculators and would-be managers from the North are doing the mischief.

A North Carolina Town.

The editor of the Fayetteville Eagle thus writes of one of our grow ing towns:

Greensboro is certainly growing, and rapidly, too. Population about 3,500; two banks, two elegant hotels, and several boarding houses, one female college (the Methodist, 125 pupils,) four spoke and handle factories, two tobacco factories, one foundry and stove shop, one seek and blind factory, one steam saw mill. In these factories and mills are employed near 200 hands, and the business they do is immense.

Some fifty dwelling are muilding now, and fifty or more stores and offices. Two hundred and fifty carpenters and builders are now at work. Fifteen trains a day come and go. Town lots sell at $50 a foot, with foundation. Its appearance is certainly sixty feet depth. Two Building and venerable enough to entitle it to considera-Loan Associations, and the splendid tion in the great centennial celebration in new Court House cost $20,000.

Army of Northern Virginia. The Virginia division, Army of Northern Virginia, of the C. S. army, will have an interesting celebration on the third day of the approaching State Fair at Richmond. It is expected that Colonel Charles Marshall. of Baltimore, who was a member of General Lee's personal staff, will address the association at that time.

Ther Conceals Himself in a Werr. On Monday evening, at the residence of a gentleman living near Wainut and Eighth streets, a little child happened out in the yard when she discovered a colored man down in the well to a considera! ble depth, and resting his body on some projection of the curb. She called to him and asked what he was doing there. He replied, "nothing!" The little girl went in the house and informed the family of the circumstance, when some of them went into the yard and watched for him to come out to see what he was up to. After a httle while, everything being quiet, the fellow emerged from his singular hiding place and moved stealthily in the direction of a wood pile. The party watching him took no action until he reached his hand forth to take up a piece of wood, when, his business being no longer a matter of conjecture, they blazed away at him with what shooting irons" they had in their possession. He took to his heels and was over the fence in an incedible short space of time, balls flying thick around him at the time but it is not believed that he was injured.

He will probably have a care, kowever,

A colored woman living on Ann, between Second and Third streets, whose name we could not learn, became weary of life because of some domestic troubles and took a quantity of laudanum on Monday afternoon with the intention of putting an end to her earthly cares and infelicities. As soon as the fact became known to the family with whom she was being one of our most pro inent physicians was sent for. He repaired to the house without knowing the nature of the disease he was to contend with, and upon finding that the woman had poisoned herself had to return to his office before he could procure a remedy. This was to be injected under the skin and the patient was then, according to the prescription, to be kept walking for sixteen hours, while her body was to be stimulated with frequent blows from switches. Whether the prescription was literally carried out is not known, but at last accounts the woman was said to have recovered.

Railroad Matters.

The Norfolk Virginian of the 20th inst complains that two misconnections occurred at Weldon in one week recently, caused by vices prevailed, there would be per- the failure of the Wilmington and Weldon passenger trains to reach Weldon in time quarrelsome, and the native Southern- to connect with the Seaboard and Roanoke trains. Instead of this being the case, we have authority for saying that the only misconnection that has occurred was on the 2nd of September, and that was caused by the passenger train on the Seaboard and Roanoke road failing to reach Weldon in time to connect with the Wilmington and Weldon train coming South. The Wilmington and Weldon passenger trains have not missed a single Northern connection for months past. In fact, with the exception of one or two misconnections with Southern trains they have run with the ut most regularity.

One of the Old Landmarks Still Re maining. A friend called our attention yesterday to the veritable house in which William Hooper, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, is said to have lived at the time he affixed his signature to that ever memorable decument. It is a small one-story building, located on the lot in the rear of the Dr. McRee house, on Second, between Market and Princess streets. It can readily be distinguished from the fact that it is shingled all over from roof to

Arrived Here. The steam tug James T. Easton, Captain Harper, arrived here yesterday. She was laid up at Baltimore during the past five months and in the meantime was thoroughly overhauled from stem to stern and put in most excellent repair, including engine, boilers, machinery, &c., and now looks like a new boat. There was a brilliant and successful masquerade ball at the Academy building at Smithville on Monday night, which we learn was intensely enjoyed by those present, including quite a large number from our city. The festivities did not close until the "wee sma' hours."

Our Shade Trees.

The shade trees are rapidly disappearing before the march of improvement on Front street. One very fine one in front of the Purcell House, and another not quite so good, but still an "old landmark," in front of Brock's Exchange, were levelled with the ground yesterday. We felt like exclaiming, in language strictly original, "Woodman, spare that tree," but refrained for the reason that we knew the flat had gone forth and no protest of ours could avail to stay the cruel hands that did the deed. The comments of bystanders evinced a difference of opinion as to the propriety or expediency of sacrificing the beautiful trees, some criticizing the act in no very mild terms, while others pronounced it just the thing, as shade trees in the business portion of the city, they thought, "looked entirely too countrified."

But whatever may be our individual opinions on the subject the result is the me. As the beautiful forests amid which the abovigines were wont to roam in our strained freedom disappeared before the encroachments of civilization, so must our handsome shade trees give way to the march of modern improvements.

Narrow Escape.

Yesterday morning a large limb was cut from a tree in front of the Purcell House. In falling the large end struck the ground near the curb stone in such a way as to cause the other end to fly back upon the sidewalk, just grazing the shoulder of Col. E. D. Hall, who was standing on the pavement watching the operation of cutting the limb, and who dodged barely in time to avoid the blow. As the limb was a heavy one and thrown back with great violence Col. H. may be congratulated upon making fortunate as well as very narrow escape.
