Mr. Moses Allison, one of the carpenters at work on the house, was standing on the scaffolding around the third slory, in front of the ratters, and, it being observed that ose of these was not stand-ing straight, it was becaued by a workman to be put in its proper position. This sway-ed the other pieces, and a piece of the tim-ber struck Mr. Allison, hurling him from the staffold. In a wild bope of clutching some-thing to which he might cling, he spread out his hands, and, with outstretch-ed arms, fell full on his face upon the pave-ment below. The fall, was not less than fifty feet, and Mr. Allison is a heavy man. His neck was broken, skull crushed in, and his face was much disfigured. In an in-stant, "almost, he was dead. Mr. R. N. Grimes was on the scaffolding, and though he escaped being knocked off, some of the timber and a number of bricks fell on him, and he was painfully hurt in the face and back. A negro workman was bruised and hurt, also, but not seriously Mr. Allison was well known to heavy all on citizens, and was a man of excellent repute in the domainhity. He leaves a wife and a num-ber of children.

We saw several fine Alderney milch cows, some with calves and some without; Durham, and native stock; also the largest and finest bulls that we ever saw on exhibition or elsewhere. We also saw on exhibition the largest and fattest | within the memory of the most of our citi oxen that we ever had eyes on.

In the sheep department we will mention a very fine show of Cotswold and Southdowns exhibited by James Norwood, of Orange; also a number' of Merinos and native stock by other gentlemen whose names we could not. learn. The hog show is also very good.

The Shepherd dogs exhibited by Mr. Huzar & Short, of Ridgeway, attracted much attention.

In passing through Floral Hall we saw some curious surgical instruments exhibited by Dr. L. Julien Picot, of Littleton, N. C. They consisted of a tournequet, cathetor and silver-bullet forceps. These surgical instruments were the property of Dr. Julien Picot, who served in Napoleon's wars in the capacity of full surgeon. They were used by him and his brother Jean on every battle field in that eventful period of French history from Jemappe to Waterloo. Thus they might be said to have seen the baptism and the barial of French glory. Upon the last field the tourniquet was adjusted by Jean Picot while Julien amputated during the bloody scenes of that terrible day. I have often seen the eye of the aged veteran light up while relating to me, his little grand-son, the glorious associations clustering around these instruments. He preserved them with great care and attached great value to them as he did to many a trophy brought by him to the New World, when the star of his idol had set in St. Helena. Upon his death they were purchased by noble gentleman, Dr. Warren Ward, of Plymouth, N. C. He lost them during the late war, having been stolen from him. Some honorable gentleman, after the war, returned them to him. As the grandson, and Representatives, the following officers were elected for the ensuing twelve months: President—Col. Thomas M. Holt, of Alaone who worships the memory of his illustrious ancestor, he has kindly given them to me. I place them upon exhibition as a momento of perhaps the most glorious and memorable epoch in history.

In the military display the commit-tee were unable to decide between Bingham's and Horner's cadets, and divided the premiums.

By the way, Capt. Fladger and Mr. Thos. L. Shaw, of Laurinburg, are the inventors of a new car-coupling and a sash-fastener, both of which were awarded first premiums at the Fair. Both inventions are spoken of as very ingenious contrivances, combining qualities which can scarcely fail to bring them into general notice throughout the

What is Said of Us. Some Calf.

The Favetteville Eagle, whose editor has ecently been on a visit to this city, thus gives his impressions of what he saw and heard: "The foreign shipping of Wilmington has greatly increased, and it is said the harbor and bar improvement at the the mouth of Cape Fear River some thirty miles from here is progressing well. The channel is being deepened so that ordinary ocean steamers and sailing vessels can enter and thus save lighterage. There, is hope also of making Northeast River navigable fifty or seventy-five miles up into Duplin. Wil mington has certainly doubled in business and population since the war and is still growing rapidly. "The Cape Fair River and the railroad now progressing to Charlotte give Wilmington its chief business. Hundreds of young men from adjoining countles find lucrative employment in Wilmington, and many business men are constantly coming here to enlarge their business and establish new industries"
