- Houston, the Charlotte forger, has not yet given his bail, and is likely to remain in jail till court.

- An extra freight train has to be run over the North Carolina Railroad, from Greensbero to Charlotte, nearly every day. - At Charlotte on Saturday brick fell fifty feet from a scaffold struck a negro named George Caldwell on the head. Of course he was not killed.

- On Saturday in the Charlotte poor-house died a poor wanderer from Marion, N. C., named John Rodford, who had been found on the ground senseless and destitute. Raleigh News: The full capacity of the Yarboro House was ascertained on Thursday. Dr. Blacknall fed and lodged on that day six hundred and fifty persons. How is that for high?

- At the Raligh Fair a Charlotte gentleman, who is establishing a regular manufactury in that city, exhibited a wood pump, invented by himself, that is said to be superior to the cucumber wood pump. It is made of mountain poplar and North Carolina from the top to the bottom.

- Charlotte Observer says : Several days ago Mr. J. H. Thrower, the fore-man of Mr. P. M. Murray's brick laying force, was stooping down under the scaffold in front of the building being put up on College street by Messra. Sanders & Black, when a brick fell from off the scaffold and struck him on the small of the back. He was much hurt and prostrated by the blow.

The losses sustained by George
W. Perry, Led, at the fire on his place near Newbern last week, as given by the Newbernian, are: There was consumed about $10,000 worth of property, consist-ing of gin-house, 30 bales of cotton, 2,000 bushels of cotton seed, a lot of cotton ties and bagging, farming implements and carpenters tools, buggy and carriage, 15 stables, 45 stacks of corn and hay fooder, dairy house and shed, 18 bee-hives, 2 chicken houses, 2 wine presses and his dwelling. A portion of his furniture was saved, though in a damaged condition.

- Norfolk Landmurk of last Sunday: The sixth sketch of North Carolina, which we present to-day, has the merit of condensing a great multitude of valuable facts within a surprisingly small compass, and when we compare the wealth of information in this paper, with the space it oc-cupies, we are amazed at the ingenuity of the performance. The author modestly advises the "sentimental reader" to "skip". this paper; but we, with a better apprecia-tion of the value of his work, advise all in-terested in the Old North State to make it their own by a diligent study: for it gives us a "bird's-eye view" of the whole State, and the bird whose eye he uses has the glance of the eagle-strong, comprehensive Friday in Raleigh. This action was commenced in February last and is an application for a mandamus against the Treasurer to pay $8,000 of coupons on "old bonds," some of them issued for the North Carolina Railroad and others for other roads. The The New Judge and Solleitor of the Superior Court-Charge to the position is taken that the Treasurer is required under the contract made with the Bondholders to apply all "money not otherwise appropriated" to payment interest. The amount now in Grand Jury-Address to the Bar,

Seldom have we seen our Court House so Treasury is understood to be $190,000 over and above what will be received from the taxes now being paid. It is also claimed that under an act passed at the Special Session of 1868, the Treasurer is directed to pay interest on the debt out of "all moneys received from taxes and other sources, the crowded as it was yesterday with all parties and colors to see and listen to our new Judge and Solicitor. Rarely have we witnessed closer attention than was given to the lucid and able charge of Judge McKoy, as well as to his carefully prepared and Auditor is made a party to this action though the positive is taken that a coupon is of itself a warrant and that the provisions scholarly address to the Bar on the ethics and etiquette of the legal profession. The is of itself a warrant and that the provisions of the Act of 1868-'69, 4' that no money shall be paid out of the Treasury except upon the warrant of the Auditor," is unconstitutional as to the holders of old Bonds, but the Auditor is brought in to issue the warrant if the above position is not autisined by the Court, Many questions of interest are involved and it was agreed that his Honor, Judge Henry, should be and said both law and facts. Major latter is a novel feature of the Bench in this section, but the handsome and acceptable manner in which the Judge acquitted himself, both in his charge to the Grand Jury and in his address to the lawyers, leaves the pleasing hope, that, amid the dis-couraging changes that have taken place since the war in all the professions, much and Messrs. Last night, about half past 7 ale denizens of that part of the city in the neighborhood of Ninth and Chesnut Sts. were startled by loud shouts of murder and other soul-harrowing exclamations on the street. There was of course an excited and simultaneous rush to doors and windows, when a colored man was discovered madly rushing up Chesnut street, between Ninth and Tentli, closely followed by a colored woman whose cries resounded at every step she took and were continued until she got out of hearing in the distance. Considering the mystery attending the affair, which was heightened by the fact that the cries of distress came from the party seemingly in pursuit, together with the other fact that apparently ten thousand barks and howls from the throats of as many curs of high and low degree, big, little and medium sized, mingled their dulcet tones with the shrill notes of the dusky damselon the warand offenders, whether in private or official path, the "folks" in that usually quiet neighborhood think they are entitled to the credit of having had a first-class sensation!.

The Prince of Walls' Last,—His Royal Highness has been detected in many an act which has startled the Queen. The last of which is said to be the ordering of $20,000 worth of tickets for the Public Library of Kentucky. Her Majesty, it is stated, did not object to his buying liberally, but in the present condition of the Prince's finances, she thought $20,000 worth was too much for him to invest. It is asserted that he insisted on sending his royal mother that he knew what he was about, for that as $2,500,000 was to be distributed to the ticket holders in November 30, and in such gifts as $250,000, $100,000, &c., he would have a splendid chance at one of these splendid prizes, and thus, easily pay his debts. oct 16 da weed 1 w Fri Sun Wed recently a justice of the peace of this town.

A. T. & S. F. R. R., TOPHRO, KAN., May 18th 1874.-Messrs. J, & W. Tolley, 29 Maiden Lane, NEW YORK-DEAR SIRS!-I have just returned from shoot with the President of our road, Henry Strong. On one occasion five curiews came over us said to him, "Let us try them." He replied, There's no use, they are too high." I raised my run and killed two of them dead. I cannot say how lighthey were, but am sure they must have been a east 79 or 75 yards. One was shot through and through, the shot entering under the breast and go ng out at the back. I used No. 5 shot, 1 oz., and drs. of powder. Of course this was a large charge of owder and large sized shot for birds of their size, but this is an advantage I claim for your guns, which enables one to use one or two sizes larger shot and hoot them as close as ordinary guns with the fine size. This is a great advantage when birds are wild and difficult to kill. I never had two harder or closer shooting guns than the two you turned out for me, and I can confidently recommend your weapons to sportsmen, feeling sure they will not only be pleased with the splendid quality of material used in their construction, the perfect workmanship displayed in the fitting of all the parts, and style of finish throughout, but with the fine shooting qualities of your weapons, which, I think, are univaled. I give this recommendation after two years experience in the use of your guns, having used them in all kinds of shooting, and never at any time have I had reason to wish for better or more reliable weapons. They suit in every respect.
