 Saturday Mormine, Feb. 20, 1875 How OARPENTER WAs beatenn.
The Chicago Times and other ps pers are pablishing the details of the penter was defe which Senator Carin Wisconsin. It seems, to have been largely, if not principally, the workmanship of that astute politician ex-Senator Doolittle, who, if names mean anything, should bave his changed. The details are of general interest. The contest, as is known, was long and obstinate. There were 61 votes pledged to Carer votes, bat only fifty-two could be combined on one candidate. A meeting of the opposition arranged under the style and title of "The Reform Liberal Democratic members of the Legislature of WisRepublicans and pledged against Carpenter. Next, an admirable platform was skilfull ed, on which the Reform Republicans could stand with the Democracy. Mr. Doolittle then addressed the meeting with great powbe formed between honorable men abandon essential principles." B osed Mr. Coen gentlemen who opbody of the Legislature Democratic fect union in thought, principle and might Be arranged. Ideas are strongparties. They rule the world. They are "the spiritual forces which anite men's judgments, hearts. and conthen argued the platform at length and in detail, and arged that Mr.
Cameron had accepted it, and was and competent man, sound on all the great questions-on currency, tariff, zud especially on the "supremaey of the civil law over military force."
The unanimous choice by the cancated fully the policy of coalition and Liberalism. The State has, by his ative Senator and the great $O$ Opposition party of the country a recruit rusts confided in him as standardA different policy would have sent Senate.
$\underset{\text { The Conticy say ovtsines. }}{\text { The }}$ Georgia seems likely to have the same fate that the movement in this State has bad. It will come to anght. One of the leading journals Neves, has this to say on the sabject, manship; it is more-it is true courage.

We imagine that there is little danger of a Convention being called hy the present Legislature.
Only three Republicansin the House of Representatives voted against the
