WILMINGTON, N. C.: WEDNESDAY MORNING, March 3, '75

THE VOTE ON THE FORCE BILL An analysis of the vote on the conspirators' Force bill, which passed the House of Representatives in the small hours that usher in the holy Sabbath, reveals some interesting facts. The test vote was on the main question, which was 157 yeas to 105 nays When it came to the passage of the bill the vote was 135 yeas to 114 nays, but this was not from any special changes on the test vote, but because during the roll call a number of pairs were announced, which reduced the apparent vote on both sides, without making any material change on the vote recorded on ordering the main question. The result simply indicated that whilst a number of Radicals were quite willing to force the bill a final vote, they sought to evade the responsibility for it by pairing off and dodging.

Of the 157 votes in favor ef order ing the main question, 103 were cast by the men whose terms had expired, and all of whom-with the exception of 17 from the South, who may seek a re-election this year-have been rejected by their constituents. It was their legacy of revenge. All the Massachusetts delegation voted for the bill except Peirce and Dawes. The latter, true to his pledge, voted against it. Garfield, as usual, pro fessed to oppose it, and then, with number of other Radicals, dodged the vote. The number of dodgers and absentees was 30-not enough indeed to change the result; but it was a cowardly act nevertneless, and will be remembered against them hereafter. This fact we now put on record: Only 54 Republicans reelected to the next Congress voted for the bill; 103 votes were cast by men who had no longer any constituencies behind them.

As a matter of record, we append the vote in detail on ordering the main question which was the test: Yeas—Messrs. The American people will bear the infamous 157 well in mind. They can never forget the men who voted to take away the most sacred rights of freemen that the conspirators might have a new lease of power, and still further enslave the people.

THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL.

This bill, published elsewhere, has become a law by the signature of the President. A Liberal Republican Senator said in regard to the effect of the bill: "The Radical party has got all the negro votes anyhow; so it will gain nothing in that direction. But on the other hand this thing will array against it, all the railroad interests, all the hotels and tavern keepers, and all the theatre proprietors, and the combined influence of these will affect thousands and thousands of votes." We will add to these the disapproval of many of the leading and earnest Republicans at the North, and the cordial disapprobation of every respectable white man in the South.

Seven Republican Senators voted with the Democretic Senators in the negative. This fact proves that there is trouble, and very serious trouble in the "loyal" camp. In our opinion no better wooden horse could have been framed by the Democrats if they had made one, for such valiant Trojans as Butler, Frelinghuysen, Cessna et id omne genus, than this same Civil Rights bill. Would that the "fidus Achates" Charles Sumner could have lived to see the ruin of this, his offspring, and its adherents in 1876. Would that he could see wrath of an indignant nation burn hotter than the flames of a pillaged Troy and a deserted camp.

"The colored people," says an intelligent Washington | correspondent, "have very exaggerated ideas of the privileges extended to them by the bill. Many of them imagine they can now order a box at the opera, a dinner at Welcker's a section of a Pullman car, or demand for their accommodation the bridal chamber at the Arlington without rendering any equivalent. Such ideas as these are bound to beget trouble and possibly bloodshed before they are dissipated.'

This is probably the state of things n and north of Washington City. At the South we do not anticipate such troubles from the negro element, although an occasional riot may give the Republican papers an item over which they can have their last grand flourish of trumpets. The majority of Southern negroes who have remained at home and made an honest living have been gradually reposing confidence in their former masters, since the Freedmen's Bank and "forty acre and mule" delusion lost their prestige. Very few of them will attempt to intrude. The North, which s the Mecca of the restless and turbulent among the blacks will suffer

The new law is clearly unconstituthe courts. This the Democratic Senators and the Senators in opposition on the Republican side told the advocates of the measure. But these mad conspirators against the peace and liberties of the land refused to hear the pleadings of reason and patriotism. Even in the height of their madness, however, they were forced so far to yield to conservative public opinion as to provide in the bill machinery for its disannulling by the courts .-This machinery, we take it for granted, will be employed at an early day. and there is strong hope, that a law so rashly put through in the closing hours of an expiring Congress will fall to the ground on account of its invalidity. We should have had no such reason for hope if the concession to popular demand above referred to had not been made, for heretofore the Supreme Court has steadfastly refused to decide questions involving the political legislation of Congress.

TAXES AND TYRANNY.

We presume it is with reference to the pending proposition to add thirtyfour millions to the burden of taxation already borne by the people of the United States that the Cincinnati Commercial sententiously observes that "President Grant is not paying the national debt out of his own pocket as much as he was." Clearly he is not, particularly since his own salary has been doubled. The Tax bill, which is an Administration measure, is about as instructive a commentary upon the promises of retrenchment and financial reform heretofore held out as the Force bill furnishes upon the policy of the same party in the Southern States. "Let us have peace" practically means "let us have a suspension of the habeas corpus, martial law, and reign of terror in the South." Let Let us have prosperity and a revival of business means-thirty-four millions more of taxes.

A FINANCIAL PAPER HAS HOPE. Regarding it as pretty certain that there is to be no more partisan legislation after the expiration of the 4th inst. that able financial journal, the New York Bulletin, is thankful therefor, and remarks that "there is an end for the present of sensa-'tional legislation for partisan pur-"poses—an end also of tinkering the "currency, upsetting the tariff, re-"vising the revenue laws, and the muddling and mixing up of things generally. Freed from the perplextities incident to these, business men "will see their way clearer. Capi-"tal will be less hesitating, because the future will be less dubious. 'The merchants will take fresh "courage, now that they are let "alone, while the various industries "and other enterprises directly and "indirectly depending upon them, year ago, and is at present a clerk in the County Clerk's office. He is a

"reap a corresponding benefit."

If the President does not call an extra session of Congress, the pay of the clerks of the House will be continued nine months, when their Democratic successors will plant them. If Grant does call the extra session the pay ceases at once. Perhaps these clerks compose the most interested party in the matter. Our sporting Chief Executive says if he should assemble Congress, he will fix the date in hot weather and come down from Long Branch to Washington once a week to sign bills.

PALMETTO LEAVES.

On last Wednesday evening Mr. James Geraty, an estimable young mer-chant on Edisto Island, was brutally murdered by three negroes, who went to his store for purposes of plunder.

.. The pilot boat Estelle went on shore on North Island Beach on Thursday last and is a total loss, having broken to pieces. She was owned by James A. Bowley, and commanded by Capt. Prince Coit. Cause of the accident—all hands on board, it is said, were asleep. There is now but one large boat on the bar.

.. During the progress of a game of cards last Tuesday evening of last week at Graniteville, an altercation took place between Louis James and Robert Hatcher, both colored, in the course of which the former was so severely stabbed in the abdomen by the latter that he died the next day. Hatcher made his escape.

.. The elegant store and dwelling of Mr. A. W. Lyons at Florence—the building being used for both purposes—was burned by an incendiary on the 27th. Loss $31,000-insured for $22,000. Mr. Louis Harris and two colored men boldly ascended the narrow stairs, and fortunately succeeded in getting Mr. and Mrs. Lyons down by the opposite flight of steps.

.. We learn from the Union Tim s that a shocking murder was commit ted in that county last Thursday night. The victim was John Wicks, and the perpetrator of the deed, it is believed, is William Griffin. They were brothers-in-law, having married sisters. The dead body of Wicks was found the next morning lying in the road, with the throat cut from ear to ear and the skull fractured from a blow on the right side of the head, either of which wounds was sufficient to cause death. No witness has been found to testify to having seen the deed committed, but the two were seen together on the road not long before it occurred, and many heard the blows and cries of distress from the decased. Railroad Scandal in the West.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27. On Monday next a motion will be made in the court at Joliet to set aside the proceedings by which a receiver was appointed for the Chicago, Danville and Vincennes railroad. Additional changes concerning the corporation and its management will then be made by the opposing parties. A bill has been prepared in the nterest of the first mortgage bondhelders, for continuation of present receiver. The plaintiff in the case charged that the total indebtedness of the road amounts to $6,525,000 in gold, not withstanding that the line is only completed in operation 148 miles, making the bonded liability $44,000 per mile, while a fair cash cost thereof and all equipment should not equalf half that amount. The floatng indebtedness is alleged to be $2,-526,000, making general and bonded liability over $9,000,000. All the property of the road is returned by the auditor as worth in cash $361,115. It is also alleged that other startling developments concerning the management of the road will shortly be made public.

A Judge and Not a Judge. A great deal of merriment was excited among the politicians at the City Hall, in New York, Saturday, at the expense of Governor Tilden, who on Friday forenoon appointed J. Fairfax McLaughlin Civil Justice, in the place of Judge Stemmler, who was said to have died on Thursday night, whereas Mr. Stemmler is not dead as yet. The supposed vacancy was in the Seventh District Court. Judge Stemmler, it is thought, will hardly recover, and in the meantime Governor Tilden has the satisfaction is called to the above titled paper, which, of knowing that the succession is provided for. Mr. McLaughlin is a native of Alexandria, Va., and graduated at Georgetown College, District of Columbia. He practiced law in Washington, and also in Maryland. He lived in Baltimore some years, where he was connected with the editorial department of the Catholic Mirror. He also published a weekly paper on his own account and practiced his profession of the law. He removed to New York about a scholar and a fluent speaker.

Kissing the Small-Pox. [New York Herald.]

At Mount Vernon the inhabitants are congratulating themselves on having escaped the horrors of an epidemic. It appears that a young woman, named Carroll, returned to her father's house in that village a short time since and died in a day or two afterward. During the wake which followed, a large number of persons present kissed the corpse. It has now transpired that the girl died of smallpex in its worst and most malignant form. None of Mr. Carroll's other children having been vaccinated, the contagion spread itself among them, carrying off all but two, out of seven. Nothing could be done to restrain the inmates of the pestilential abode from going at large and intermingling with the community while the dangerous infection existed.

The Case Gone Against Beecher.

A New York letter says: cannot be mistaken in public opinion when I say that the case is already gone against Mr. Beecher. It would be premature, with respect to all fair and judicial minds, to say this at the present stage, if the de-fence among its several errors had not committed the cardinal one of giving itself to the public in advance

Otherwise, men would say to themselves and each other, "wait until you have heard him." As it is, they can only say, "we have heard him"and so they make up their conclusion at once, confident from the nature of the case that nothing of great importance can have been omitted in the testimony on Mr. Beecher's behalf before the church committee and the public, last summer.
