Poland's triumph over Butler in the Arkansas matter is almost compensation for his own failure to be reelected. His admirable speech on Tuesday made it necessary for the conspirators to do something, and Butler tried to get Haynes to reply, but the Speaker ruled his motion out of order. The Beast got wrathy. The substitute declaring Brooks elected was lost. A striking feature of this vote was the part that a number of Republicans who have heretofore been most violent and unscrupulous voted with Poland and against the ultras. The negroes and mulattos all voted to wipe out the Garland State government, as did the Southern Republicans generally, except Whitely, of Georgia. Butler and his followers were much chagrined at the result.

by the moderate Republicans over the Radicals. Its significance is very great. It was generally believed that unless the House signified its disapmost emphatic manner, the first thing after the adjournment would be rebellion gotten up by Brooks in Arkansas, civil war and the destruction of the existing State government by the armed forces of the United States. Thic action is expected to secure peace to Arkansas.

CIVIL RIGHTS NEWS.

Ex-Chief Justice Lochrane, of Georgia, the ablest Republican in that State, thinks as far as hotels are concerned the law will be universally resisted in the South, and as a law is manifestly unconstitutional. Universal opposition to the law, he thinks, will render it a nullity.

A number of the leading colored men of Nashville, Tenn., unite in expressing the belief that the negroes will not take advantage of the civil rights bill to make themselves obnoxious. A few bull-headed, bigoted negroes might do so, but they were very few. The colored people wanted peace, and as little agitation as possible.

The Richmond Whig states that two nights since three negroes walked into Heckler's barber shop, on the corner of Broad and Seventh streets. One of them, Elias Page, ordered one of the barbers (a colored man) in a very peremptory manuer to shave him, and then threw himself down in a chair. The barber told him he their tax receipts and the payment of might sit there all night before he would get him to shave him. A policeman dispersed the crowd that had gathered to see the fun, but did not molest the ambitious Civil Righters, who, seeing they could not create a row, walked off. The shop was kept by a white man, Some time before this occurrence the same party of negroes went into Mattern's bar room on Broad near Sixth, and called for drinks, asking the price. The barkeeper charged them twenty-five cents per drink, which they refused to pay, and left without drinkingfirst taking down the name and number of the house. They then went to Euker's and Manly's bar rooms obtained drinks at both places. Page, the ringleader, is a big and ill-featured negro, who has heretofore professed to hold his race in great contempt.

The Baltimore Sun says that the bill has so far caused no change in the current order of things in Baltimore, where the colored people take care of themselves, and, as a rule, mind their own business. No deviation from routine is expected, and there will surely be no test of rights in public places there, except possibly their own schools and churches, boarding houses, restaurants and grave yards. There have been longestablished houses among them where accommodation desired is alwith the churches of any people. of the last General Assembly. We trust, however, that the good sense of the colored people of Richmond and Virg He said if the substitute should be ginia will keep them from intruding themselves in places that cannot be agreeable to themselves, or that may be distasteful to their white fellowcitizens. In a word, let the colored people show by their conduct, that there was no need of this class legislation; that they have no desire to thrust themselves into places where their presence may be obnoxious, and thus retain the respect and good will of their white neighbors. But we course. Mr. Norment thought the substimay, however, congratulate the country that this one fruitful source of rancor and disunion, of bitter feeling and sectional animosity, has come to an end, although to our judgment, it would have been better and more in keeping with the true interests of all classes to have permitted the questions thus sought to be reached by statuary law to settle themselves-as they eventually will, in spite of all law. responsible for any portion of the cost. Mr. Busbee advocated the passage of this bill. In Wake county, as he had been informed, 3,200 indictments had been made under the provisions of the law as it now stands, and he asked relief for this unfortunate class.

Mr. Cantwell opposed the bill. The discussion was continued at much length. An amendment was adopted that the said indictments be dismissed by the payment of the sum of 25 cents to the Solicitor, 25 cents to the Sheriff and 25 cents to the Clerk, various other amendments having been offered and adopted.

The bill thus amended passed its several readings.

STATE GRANGE.

Condensed Proceedings.

The State Grange Patrons of Husbandry met at the Good Templar Hall, Raleigh, on Wednesday, the Master, Dr. Columbus, presiding. Full attendance from every section of the State.

Dr. Mills' annual address referred to the duties and hopes of the order. One of these duties was thought to be co-operation. He earnestly invoked the order to encourage manufactures. Grangers should make all their own implements used on the farm. Could also engage extensively in manufacture of cotton goods.

The Secretary's report showed there were 501 subordinate granges, with membership of 15,000.

Of the members of the committees appointed, the following are known to our readers: On Constitution and By-Laws-W. R. King, of Wilson; Finance-G. Z. French, of Pender; Fertilizers—James R. The Board adjourned to meet again t evening at 7 o'clock. Sudden Death.

A painful occurrence took place in our city yesterday in the sudden death of Mr. W. H. Rich, a gentleman residing in Sampson county. It seems that Mr. Rich has been in the city for a few days past on business and was stopping at the house of Mr. O. S. Yarberough. He has been complaining while here of being sick, and yesterday between 1 and 2 o'clock, after having partaken of a light dinner, he stepped out upon the front-piazza of the house at which he was stopping and while walking there fell, expiring almost instantly.

Mr. Rich was aged about 48 years, and leaves a wife and several children. The cause of his sudden death is supposed to have been heart disease.

The Building Association Cases.

The case of Peter H. Smith vs. The Mcchanics' Building and Loan Association was heard before Judge Kerr at Chambers, yesterday. The entire day, excepting a recess for dinner, was consumed by the arguments of Eugene S. Martin for the plaintiff and Messrs. Chas. M. Stedman and Adam Empie for the defendant. The argument will be concluded to-day by Messrs Strange and London for the plaintiff and George Davis, Esq., for the defendant. Both sides are fighting determinedly for victory, as a large amount of money depends upon the result of the contest.

The plaintiff asks for an injunction restraining the defendant from selling under foreclosure of mortgage certain real estate, which had been conveyed to the defendant as security for the payment of the monthly dues and interest for which, as a member of the corporation, the defendant says he is responsible. Smith's stock has been redeemed by the Association, and the money paid to him. He seeks to avoid the payment of further monthly dues and interest upon the amount received by him from the Association upon several grounds. He says, through his counsel, that he was misled by the representations of others in his contract with the Association, that the contract is usurious, and that the charter of the Association is in violation of that section of our State Constitution forbidding exclusive privileges. The counsel for the defendant insist that his contract was of his own making and that he should be held to its performance; that there can be no usury in the case, as the plaintiff sold his stock to the Association; that there was no loan, and, even if there had been, that the Association told that that was not sufficient, and further had only exercised the powers expressly granted by its charter; that the grant of those powers was not in violation of our Constitution; and that, admitting that such was the case, the plaintiff could not be heard to deny the constitutionality of the charter, inasmuch as he was one of the original subscribers, and instrumental in procuring the legislation of which he now

Coroner's Inquest.

Coroner Hewlett yesterday held an in quest over the dead body of Emanuel Usher, the colored man who was knocked from the trestle over Smith's creek into the creek, by the outgoing evening train, about three weeks ago. An account of the accident appeared in these columns about the time it occurred.

The jury rendered a verdict that the deceased came to his death from being accidentally struck by the train while he was walking the track. Usher was a resident of Wilmington and of about middle age.

Injunction Cases at Raleigh. As previously announced Judge Bond will hear the injunction case in the matter volving the question as to whether the act recently passed amending the charter of the city of Raleigh is in conflict with existing laws of the United States, will be heard. The latter case, we understand, involves questions similar to those involved in the injunction case against the new city bill. Civil Rights Matters.

Placards were posted on the Purcell House and National Hotel, yesterday, announcing that both those houses were closed until further notice. Their State, County and City licenses were cancelled by the proprietors. This action has been taken in anticipation of annoyance under the Civil Rights bill. We hear, however, and we make the announcement with pleasure, that the leading and influential colored men will discountenance any attempt on the part of their race to interfere with the hotel proprietors in any manner.
